Indict 10 persons in statewide stolen car ring

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)-A special Franklin County grand jury indicted 10 persons Wednesday in connection with a car theft ring police said had been operating in 21 cities in Ohio for about 10 years, Prosecutor George C. Smith said.

Smith said an untold number of cars had been stolen by members of the ring with losses running into thousands of dollars.

Cars stolen from used car dealers or leasing agencies were altered and then sold to individuals through newspaper advertisements, the prosecutor said.

The indictments climaxed a three-month investigation by Columbus police, the Ohio Highway Patrol, the National Auto Theft Bureau and Smith's office.

Those indicted were identified as Clarence F. Moyer and Donald Moyer of Crestline; Oakley Barnett, Robert Barnett, Kenneth Barnett and Melvin Barnett of Willard, and James M. McCoy, Robert F. Guinsler, Margaret Frum and Tadesuz Zaleweski of Columbus.

Charges in the indictments included 60 counts of auto theft conspiracy, auto conversion, receiving and concealing stolen motor vehicles, altering registrations and titles, forgery and larceny by trick. The defendant were not all indicted on the same charges.

Smith said the operation involved the purchase of "junk" cars from Moyer's Used Cars, a junkyard in Crestline. He said the vehicle identification plates were then taken from those cars and titles obtained from the junk dealer. Cars were then stolen matching the description on the titles, the prosecutor said.

Smith said the thefts and subsequent sales occurred in Akron, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Crestline, Dover, Coshocton, Willard, Lima, Newark, Milan, Norwalk, Wooster, Monroeville, Mansfield, Bowling Green, Xenia, Findlay, Washington Court House and Millersville.

Sirica hears 2-hour debate

Expect Nixon tapes ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tough federal judge who presided over the Watergate trial says he will decide within a week whether to order President Nixon to release tape recordings of nine presidential conversations.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who already had received 123 pages of written argument, listened to a two-hour courtroom debate Wednesday between Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox and Charles Alan Wright, President Nixon's lawyer.

He said he would rule by next Wednesday on Cox's request that he order the President to obey a subpoena demanding the tapes of conversations about Watergate.

Wright disclosed in his argument that he has not heard the tapes.

"The President has told me that in one of the tapes there is national security information so sensitive that he does not feel free even to reveal it to me," Wright said.

"The President has no power, like a king, to withhold evidence from a court."

In his news conference Wednesday, the President repeated that "we will not agree to the Senate committee's desire to have, for example, its chief investigator listen to the tapes, or the special prosecutor's desire to listen to the tapes also."

Nixon said he would oppose "any compromise to the principle of confidentiality."

Wright argued that "if we go back only 18 months...no body of responsible opinion said that the court has the power to overrule the judgment of the President."

It was Watergate, said Wright, that has brought about this change in interpretation of the Constitution.

Wright also contended that to hold that Sirica, a district court judge, has the power to order the President to surrender confidential documents would set a precedent for all 400 federal District court judges in the country.

Ex-officials deny burglary claims

But some officials from those administrations deny any knowledge of such break-ins.

"No activity was authorized by me and I think we're entitled to know what he's talking about," said former Atty. Gen. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who served in the Justice Department in various positions under both Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

George Christian, former press secretary to Johnson, said: "I don't know what he is talking about." Nixon, at his press conference Wednesday in San Clemente, Calif., said he views as "illegal, unauthorized and completely deplorable" the burglary of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg by a unit directed by White House aides.

But he also noted that under both Kennedy and Johnson, "burglarizing of this type" took place "on a very large scale."

Nixon did not elaborate and Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused to give details.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman refused to confirm or deny that such burglaries had taken place in the past, saying the information "can only come from the White House."

Nixon last May, in a lengthy statement on Watergate, first mentioned that there may have been burglaries for national security purposes engaged in by the FBI during previous administrations.

But, he said, the FBI had halted such activities in 1966.

Nixon also admitted, in the same May 22 statement, that in 1970 he had approved a plan for expanded domestic intelligence gathering that included "surreptitious entry—breaking and entering, in effect" in national security situations. But Nixon said the plan, proposed by former presidential aide Tom Charles Huston, never was put into effect because of opposition from the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Katzenbach, who was deputy attorney general under former Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and served as attorney general from 1965-1966, said he felt Nixon's accusations were unfair.

"He ought to say who authorized it and who knew about it," said Katzenbach.

Nixon fields Watergate questions

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Declaring that Watergate is "water under the bridge," and giving explanations that conceded no personal negligence, Richard Nixon responded Wednesday for the first time in five months to direct questions about the scandal that has shaken his presidency.

"I shall not resign," Nixon said.

And in the latest of his attempts to put Watergate behind him, he declared it is time to get on with the "business of the people."

Polls show Nixon's prior statements and speeches of Watergate innocence were unconvincing to many. So the President sought this time to regain public confidence by answering questions at a news conference, a move urged by many of his political friends.

Nixon's replies during the 50-minute event outside the Western White House contained few new disclosures to add to the mountain of often contradictory Watergate detail produced by investigations and statements.

But they provided the President's view of how certain events struck him and why he reacted to them as he did. And though there was not time for many of the lingering Watergate questions to be raised or answered, Nixon, by holding the news conference, could now say he had made himself available to answer any of those questions.

Nixon opened with the announcement that William P. Rogers is resigning as secretary of state and will be succeeded by Henry A. Kissinger.

But the preoccupation with Watergate showed strikingly when reporters asked not a single question about that toplevel change, which in more normal times would have produced a barrage of inquiries.

Instead, when questioning did veer from Watergate, it moved to another area of rumored scandal, the Maryland political payoff probe involving Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Nixon expressed confidence in his two-time running mate and, as Agnew did Tuesday, voiced outrage at leaks to news media from sources close to the case.

In another cover-up area touched at the end of the session under hot California sunshine, the President said he had no apology for ordering bombing in neutral Cambodia during 1969. The bombing was a secret until recently and had been covered up by false military reports. Nixon said it helped save American lives.

Kissinger named Secretary of State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger, the principal foreign-policy theoretician in the Nixon administration, is moving in as secretary of state in a Cabinet shift that dramatizes the drive for warm relations with China and the Soviet Union.

William P. Rogers is giving way, as affable as ever — he said Wednesday he felt like "the last of the whooping cranes" — to return to a successful law practice in New York.

Rogers, 60, was the only remaining member of President Nixon's initial Cabinet. He said he never intended to stay past the first term but remained an additional seven months to help nail down the ceasefire in Vietnam and to fulfill other diplomatic missions.

"I would have left whether there had been a Watergate or not," he told reporters.

At a news conference in San Clemente, Calif., President Nixon announced Rogers' resignation and said he is nominating Kissinger to replace him.

If confirmed by the Senate, Kissinger, a 50-year-old bachelor who admires movie actresses and other fashionable women, will be the first Jew and the first naturalized citizen to serve as secretary of state. Kissinger's family fled Nazi Germany when he was a teenager.

Foreign policy is considered the administration's strongest point, and Kissinger is clearly the chief strategist. He promoted Nixon's overture to China, including the historic trip last year to Peking, the summit exchanges with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and the current effort to reshape U.S. relations with European allies and Japan.

And he was the driving force to negotiate a ceasefire agreement in Vietnam.

However Rogers may have felt privately, he spoke proudly of the administration's foreign-policy accomplishments and of his own role. The 1970 ceasefire that halted the war between Israel and the Arab states gave him the greatest personal satisfaction.

"My sole regret is that we were not able to end the war in Indochina more speedily," he told a group of newsmen as he sipped a soft drink in his comfortable eighth-floor office at the State Department. "I don't see much more that we could have accomplished than we have."

Kissinger still will hold his position as Nixon's national security adviser. The dual role is unprecedented. Even Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who generally had his way, was denied it by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nixon explained that the purpose of keeping Kissinger on the White House staff is to smooth cooperation with other departments.

Food price surge seen after Sept. 12

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can expect another surge in food prices after Sept. 12, but the administration says it shouldn't be as bad as the last big increase.

The Cost of Living Council Wednesday released its proposed new Phase 4 food price controls scheduled to take effect Sept. 12.

The council said the controls basically will put the food industry under the same restrictions on price increases as the rest of the economy.

Officials said the controls will require "a substantial cost absorption on the part of food wholesalers and retailers" and will keep prices below what they might otherwise be.

Council director John T. Dunlop said "some price increases at the consumer level are expected" when the regulations go into effect. But he predicted consumers would not be as hard-hit as they were when the price freeze was lifted from food on July 18.

Administration economists have acknowledged that postfreeze price increases were higher than expected.

The council invited public comment on the regulations until Sept. 4, after which they could be revised.

Under the prevailing temporary food regulations that went into effect on July 18, all levels of the food industry may increase prices only to reflect increased costs at the producer level, known as raw agricultural costs.

The new regulations will allow food wholesalers and retailers, such as supermarkets, to increase their prices to reflect other justified costs, such as for labor or transportation.

They will not allow price increases for profit. A supermarket, for example, must maintain the same profit mark-up, or margin, as it had in a base period.

State Fair opens today; hope for 2.5 million gate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Fair opened today amidst predictions of record-breaking attendance should the weather hold out.

The National Weather Service forecast partly cloudy skies through Friday with the temperature in the upper 70s to lower 80s.

Gov. John Gilligan cut the ribbon to officially open the 12-day exposition of livestock and farm equipment displays, entertainment and amusement rides.

He ushered into the fair two Columbus youths, who set a new record for camping out to be the first to enter the fair. Keith Robinette, 12, and Darrell Thompson, 14, camped at the gate of the fair grounds 344 and one-half hours. The previous record was 216 hours.

The governor's wife, Katie, also attended a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the Columbus Building where items made by residents of the state's mental health and mental retardation institutes would be sold.

Champions were selected in three 4-H saddle horse showmanship classes. Amy Knerr of Licking County won in the Western Showmanship Class, Lorie Naylor of Tuscarawas County in the English Showmanship Class, hunt type, and Ricky Barricklow of Brown County in the English Showmanship, saddle type.

Highlights of opening day include a Junior Fair Board breakfast, Future Farmers of America queen contest, marching band festival and amateur boxing tournament.

Thursday's grand stand shows will be at 4:30 and 8:30 p.m. featuring singers Helen Reddy and Mac Davis.

"I would like to think we will have 2.5 million people come to the fair this year," said Victor Lucas, fair manager.

He has until Labor Day, Sept. 3 to meet that goal.

"I definitely feel, the weather being good, that we will surpass last year's attendance. We lost two weekends last year because of bad weather," he said.

The three-day extended forecast this weekend through Monday calls for a chance of showers daily. High temperatures are expected in the upper 70s and 80s with nighttime lows in the upper 50s and 60s.

The current attendance record was set in 1970 with 2,219,000. Last year, 2,209,000 fairgoers paraded through the Columbus exposition gates.

Scheduled for Friday on Crippled Children's Day, Auctioneer's Day and Agricultural Hall of Fame Day is a breakfast in honor of the agriculturalists.

Also on the program are a luncheon for crippled children, H.R. Pufnstuf Circus, senior citizens talent show, amateur boxing tournament and singers Helen Reddy and Mac Davis once again at the grandstand.

Seek new warden for Lucasville Prison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William J. Whealon, the 44-year-old sociologist who became the first superintendent of the state's troubled, new maximum security prison at Lucasville, resigned Wednesday.

The announcement came from Dr. Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Ohio Department of Correction and Rehabilitation. Cooper who said Whealon cited bad health as the reason for his departure.

Bernard I. Barton, the department's director of institutional operators and former superintendent of the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, will take over temporarily, Cooper said.

The Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, set in rural Scioto County, has been besieged with problems since it opened last fall.

Those problems boiled over July 24 when two guards died at the prison, one at the hands of an inmate and another when a fellow correctional officer mistakenly shot him while trying to subdue the prisoner.

The shootings brought in their wake a massive shakedown of the prison's 1,000 inmates, combined with extra security measures. The actions resulted in an outcry from prisoners, their families and members of the Governor's Task Force on Correction.

At the same time, the nearly 400 guards at the institution complained conditions were unsafe.

"I was aware he had not been well," Cooper said of his former superintendent whose resignation at the prison was immediately effective. But the director added Whealon's letter of resignation did not state the nature of any medical problem.

Cooper said Whealon will go on sick leave and be assigned to other duties within the department when he returns.

Barton, who has 17 years experience in corrections, will serve until a permanent replacement can be found, Cooper said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan voiced complete confidence in Cooper's ability to iron out the problems at Lucasville.

"I have the fullest confidence in Cooper to make the decisions that have to be made," Gilligan said.

At least one member of the governor's task force on corrections felt the resignation might herald a policy switch at the facility.

Cleveland attorney Gerald Messerman, a member of the Governor's Task Force on Corrections, said, "His (Whealon's) intentions were good. He wanted to establish an enlightened and sophisticated program and it's unfortunate it didn't work out.

"He's one of the first treatment-oriented (superintendents) that this state has had, and I think that from this point on it's likely to be more custodial oriented."

James Marshall, executive secretary of the Ohio Civil Service Employes Association, said his group wrote Cooper two weeks ago calling for Whealon's resignation.

"To begin with, we like Whealon. He is an extremely qualified person, but not in the area of custody. His whole background is in treatment," Marshall said.

Marshall said the July 24 shootings confirmed the concerns of the OCSEA, which he said represents a majority of the guards at Lucasville.

He called for a permanent replacement with a background in maximum-security custody.

John Holscher of Columbus, another member of the governor's Task Force, said he was not surprised by the resignation. He visited the prison last week.

"Whealon was under a tremendous

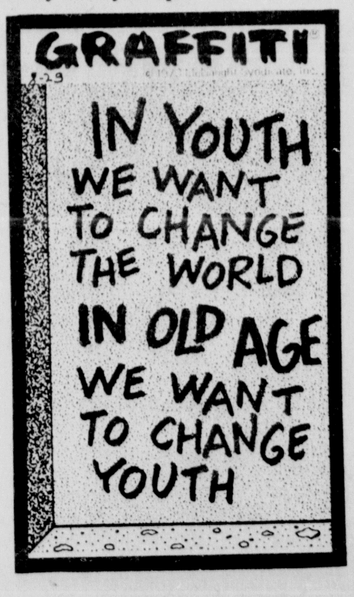
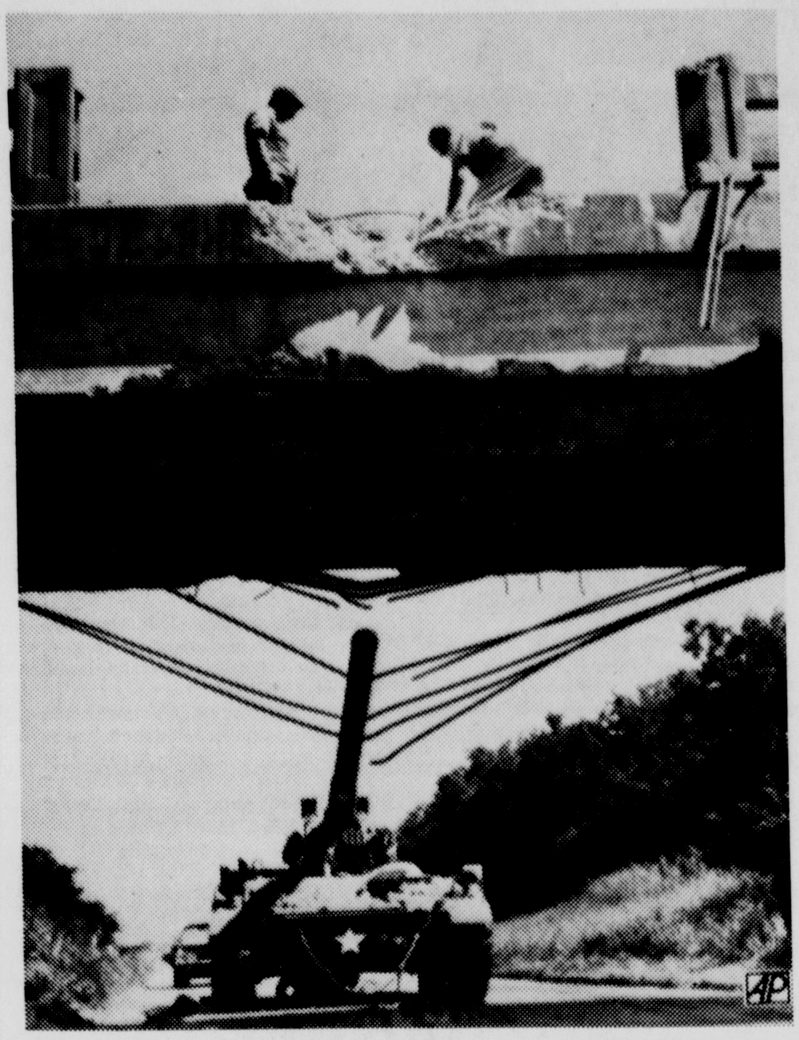
Cambodian units retake positions

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government troops have recaptured three positions important to the defense of the provincial capital of Kompong Speu and Phnom Penh's highway to the sea, the Cambodian military command reported today.

The positions are five, six and seven miles west of Kompong Speu, which is 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh on Highway 4. The highway connects Phnom Penh with Kompong Som, the country's only seaport.





GUNNED DOWN — This old overpass on Highway 69 at Whitewright, Texas, was wrecked when a Ft. Sill, Okla, 175 mm howitzer rammed its long barrel through the 12-inch concrete floor. The 30-ton gun was being hauled on a low-boy trailer to Ft. Benning, Ga., with its barrel slightly elevated as a safety precaution for rear-end traffic, but not accounting for the lower clearance of the Whitewright bridge.

Nixon threatener remains in jail

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Edwin M. Gaudet, a former New Orleans policeman accused of threatening President Nixon's life, remains in the Bernalillo County Jail today in lieu of $100,000 bond.

The 29-year-old resident of a Taos-area commune surrendered peacefully Wednesday after federal and local officers had combed the Sangre de Cristo Mountains for him for almost three days.

The surrender followed three trips into the rugged northern New Mexico mountains by Gaudet's wife Judy and a cousin, Stanley Gaudet of New Orleans.

The search began Monday afternoon when Edwin Gaudet slipped away from a Secret Service agent who was trying to serve a federal warrant at the Morning Star commune, about 12 miles north of Taos.

After surrendering, Gaudet told newsmen, "The government is organized crime. The Pope is the head of the Mafia. And I support Angela Davis for president."

Asked whether he had been in New Orleans on Aug. 15 and whether he had threatened Nixon, Gaudet replied, "I have to talk to my attorney before I discuss anything in the nature of the case."

He then was taken to Albuquerque for an appearance before U.S. Magistrate Robert McCoy, who set bond. Another hearing was set for Aug. 30 to determine if there is enough evidence to warrant transferring him to New Orleans for trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and five years in prison.

The Secret Service said it has no evidence linking Gaudet to an alleged conspiracy to kill the President during a visit to New Orleans on Monday.

The warrant claims that Gaudet said in a New Orleans drug store on or about Aug. 15, "Somebody ought to kill President Nixon. If no one has the guts, I'll do it."

Mrs. Gaudet has said she and her husband were not in New Orleans Aug. 15.

Gaudet, known only as "Cat" in the commune, has a fear of police, Stanley Gaudet said.

Stanley said Edwin's fear stemmed from his experiences as a former policeman and as a defendant being held by police.

"He used to tell me all the stuff they used to do," said Stanley. "They used to roll drunks and all that kind of stuff, and he hated that."

Edwin Gaudet was arrested in New Orleans in 1970 for throwing a burning American flag on Nixon's car.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Temperatures dropped to record readings of 44 at Toledo and 43 at Youngstown early today as clear skies and light winds allowed the mercury to plunge in Ohio.

But the National Weather Service said sunshine today should push readings back up to 75 or 80 degrees.

A slow moving low pressure system west of the state could cause some showers in Ohio tonight or Friday, forecasters said. Temperatures tonight will be closer to normal, with lows in the upper 50s and lower 60s.

Highs Friday will be in the upper 70s and lower 80s.

Variable cloudiness is expected in Ohio Saturday, Sunday and Monday with a chance of scattered showers all three days. Highs will range from the upper 70s to the 80s with lows in the upper 50s and 60s.

Heavy rains bring floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms roaming northwestern and north-central Iowa and southeastern Minnesota dumped 9.45 inches of rain on Peterson, Iowa, Wednesday night and early today.

Heavy thunderstorms dashed the western Dakotas Wednesday evening, leaving two to four inches of rain northeast of Rapid City, S.D. Both La Crosse, Wis., and Spencer, Iowa, were soaked by almost 2.5 inches and nearly two inches doused Rochester, Minn.

Thundershowers clung to widely scattered areas of Montana, northern Utah and eastern Idaho but had no significant effect on the many forest fires still burning on thousand of acres in the Northwest where dry, brittle conditions persisted.

Air standards may be eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency soon may ease its tightest air quality standards to allow power plants to continue burning coal, an administration source says.

An announcement of the move could come as early as today or Friday, the source said.

The source indicated EPA was considering an easing of its secondary standard limiting the permissible concentration of sulfur oxides in the air.

But there would be no tampering with the federal primary standards designed to protect human health, the source insisted.

Both the primary standards and the more stringent secondary standards, designed to protect plants, animals, property and the environment, were set by EPA on April 30, 1971.

Lukens to test election law

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens said he would file suit in U.S. District Court here today to test an earlier ruling that he is ineligible to be a political candidate for the next five years.

Lukens, a former two-term conservative congressman from Middletown, attempted to file petitions for the U.S. Senate with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on Wednesday.

Brown, as he had done once before, turned down the effort, claiming Lukens was ineligible to seek any political office under Ohio law.

The one-time president of the national Young Republicans was rejected earlier as a Republican candidate for governor on the basis that he had filed his personal campaign expenditures from his last state senate campaign 12 days late.

Brown's rejection of Luken's petition was upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court last month.

Lukens told the Associated Press he wasn't necessarily a candidate for the Senate, but admitted "an interest" in the job. He said he was primarily interested in testing in federal court whether the Ohio statute would apply in federal elections.

If the law is declared unconstitutional, he said, it could make him eligible to run for governor or for his old congressional seat, now held by U.S. Rep. Walter E. Powell, a former state senator.

Lukens left Congress in 1969 to unsuccessfully run for governor in the GOP primary. He finished a surprising second in a three-way race that included two state officials, Auditor Roger Cloud and Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown.

Lukens' attempt to file candidacy petitions came less than one hour after he told a newsman they would be filed a day later. He said the change in plans came after his attorney told him he was planning to leave on a vacation early next week.

Less than two weeks ago, Lukens threatened to resign his Senate seat if he could get a good paying job. "I'm tired of being the only broke guy in the Ohio Senate," he said. "I'm going where the money is."

Watergate case

"Watergate is an episode that I deeply deplore and had I been running the campaign rather than trying to run the country, and particularly the foreign policy of this country at this time, it would never have happened," he said. "But that is water under the bridge, it is gone now."

Nixon's responses to the barrage of Watergate questions included a statement of apparent misplaced faith in John N. Mitchell, a more detailed rebuttal of certain charges by John W. Dean III and an explanation of what L. Patrick Gray III's warning meant to the President.

Mitchell told the Senate Watergate Committee that if Nixon had ever asked him about the break-in, Mitchell would have told all. But Mitchell said he hadn't volunteered the information because Nixon would have "lowered the boom" to the detriment of his campaign.

Nixon mentioned a March 22, 1973, meeting attended by Mitchell at which the President said "I kept pressing for the view that I had had throughout, that we must get this story out, get the truth out..."

He was then asked if this meant Mitchell was not telling the truth when he testified he would have told all if asked.

"I am not going to question Mr. Mitchell's veracity," said Nixon, "and I will only say that throughout I had confidence in Mr. Mitchell."

But he added: "Throughout I would have expected Mr. Mitchell to tell me in the event that he was involved or that anybody else was.

He did not tell me. I don't blame him for not telling me. He has given his reasons for not telling me. I regret that he did not, because he is exactly right. Had he told me, I would have blown my stack..."

Dean testified to the Senate committee that Nixon had discussed clemency for convicted Watergate figures and matter-of-factly discussed with Dean how there would be no problem in raising $1 million for the Watergate defendants.

Nixon has previously denied this talk took place, but Wednesday, he spelled out his version in greater detail.

The President said when Dean told him that one defendant, E. Howard Hunt, was demanding $120,000, Nixon pointed out that the defendants would also want clemency and "We can't give clemency." He said Dean agreed.

And then, said Nixon, he told Dean: "John, it is wrong, it won't work. We can't give clemency and we have got to get this story out."

Nixon said when he was warned by acting FBI director Gray that actions of White House aides might wound the President, he put Gray's remark into a context of discussions about whether the Central Intelligence Agency was involved.

There had been White House discussions of whether an FBI probe of Watergate might compromise unrelated CIA activities, according to Senate testimony.

But Nixon said Wednesday that he asked Gray if he had discussed the matter with the CIA deputy director, Gen. Vernon B. Walters.

"He said that he had," Nixon related. "He told me that Gen. Walters agreed that the investigation should be pursued and I told him to go forward with a full press on the investigation to which he has so testified."

"As far as the individuals were concerned, I assume that the individuals that he was referring to involved this operation with the CIA. That is why I asked him the Walters' question. When he cleared that up, he went forward with the investigation."

Thus, Nixon saw no other danger about which Gray might have been warning him. And later, he said he believed his two former top aides, John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, would be exonerated though they were forced to quit four months ago by the heat of Watergate.

Nixon again said he does not think tape recordings of his office conversations should be made available to the Watergate special prosecutor or the Senate Watergate committee.

Stock list posts gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market spurted ahead today, and analysts said the advance was primarily a technical recovery from a five-session decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which lost more than 23 points in the last week, had risen 9.33 to 861.23 at noon.

Advances held more than a 2-to-1 lead over declines in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The broadbased NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks had gained 0.49 to 54.04.

The rally carried over to the American Stock Exchange, where gainers outpaced losers and the price-change index was up .03 to 22.77.

On the Amex, Syntex added 3 to 88⅞ after a tardy opening. The drug maker announced that the fourth-quarter net had jumped from 68 cents a share in 1972 to 80 cents this year.

amount of pressure. He looked tired and worn," Holscher said.

Holscher said the superintendent has to insure the safety of the guards while trying to rehabilitate the inmates.

"That's a narrow and difficult track for the superintendent to handle," he said. He added that he hoped the task force would have a voice in selection of a new permanent superintendent.

Vic Everett, president of the Teamsters local which staged a guard sickout at the prison last week, said he believes Whealon resigned under duress.

"I have no way of knowing, but it's unfortunate that he has to get into a web that really was not of his making," Everett said.

About 70 Teamsters members called in sick after a fellow guard was disciplined for refusing to work alone in a cell block.

Dr. Harry Allen, an Ohio State University professor and task force member, said he was not surprised by the resignation either. But he said the committee's report to the governor did not contain a recommendation that Whealon be removed.

"We did not deal in personalities," he said.

The governor said he would make the task force report public in about a week. The report was written after committee members talked to inmates and prison staff Aug. 9 and 16.

Opinion And Comment

Moscow won't let them out

If the Soviet Union would like to make a gesture indicating a genuine desire for improved relations with the United States, it might try relaxing its harsh emigration policies. More specifically, it might life the heavy hand that prevents Soviet citizens with family ties in the United States from joining their loved ones in our country.

At the time of the June meetings between President Nixon and Communist Party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev it was hoped that Brezhnev would come bearing the gift of more humane emigration rules. Nothing of the kind occurred, despite Brezhnev's protestations of friendship and a yen for greater U.S.-Soviet rapport.

The number of people involved, so far as the United States is directly concerned, is not large. Still, the U.S. embassy in Moscow says there are 220 cases — involving a total of 650 persons — where there are legitimate grounds to enter the United States. For each of those individuals, this is a matter of the greatest importance.

One relatively new factor is that as a result of programs sponsored by the two governments there are more and more contacts between Soviet and American citizens. This leads increasingly to marriages, and in some cases Russians who married Americans have been denied permission to leave Russia.

The Soviet government's reluctance to permit emigration goes back a long time; indeed, this was evident in pre-revolutionary times. These days it appears to be strengthened by fear that easing emigration rules might lead to a big outflow of disaffected persons and members of Soviet minority groups.

The practical result of this tradition and these fears is that some people having a perfectly valid reason to emigrate to the United States are denied permission. Moscow should be insistently reminded by our government that this is a small but significant obstacle to continued improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Sound school fund plan

There are plausible grounds for disputing the government's claim that states must pay back 22.5 million dollars in allegedly misused educational aid funds. Many states contend that the misspending was not their fault, but can be blamed on faulty federal administration in the early years of the program.

Whatever interpretation one places on what occurred, it does appear that most of the sum in question did not get to the disadvantaged children for whom it was intended. The important thing is to see that ultimately such children will not be penalized by what is done to clear up the misspending controversy.

Seen in this light, the compromise now offered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is commendable. For what HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger is saying is that the government seeks to avoid further penalty against children aided unter Title I of the Elementary and Seconday Education Act. To this end the government proposes to withdraw demands for repayment by the states if they agree to spend an equivalent amount on aid to poor children.

The rationale is simple. If repayment were required, this would again deprive poor children of sums equivalent to those they already missed out on in previous years. Therefore, the thing is to see that such children get the money this time around. This would be a good solution, one that would satisfy the intent of federal aid-to-education law.

WASHINGTON CALLING. . .by Marquis Childs

Talks only to safe audiences

WASHINGTON — In his last year and a half in office Lyndon Johnson as a crippled President who had renounced re-election stayed with few exceptions in his public appearances within the confines of audiences certain to be if not sympathetic then safe. Military installations, hawkish groups supporting his bombing of North Vietnam and the expansion of the war in South Vietnam, this was the arena where he could hopefully get applause and where protesters would be at a minimum.

That is a dismaying precedent for President Richard Nixon who has three and a half years to go. He chose for his first appearance after his televised address the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans.

Sounding a clarion call to patriotism, coupled with an appeal for help against those who would exploit Watergate to interfere with his responsibilities to the nation and the world, he could anticipate a roaring response. Here, too, was a precedent with his responsibilities to the nation and the world, he could anticipate a roaring response. Here, too, was a precedent that finally found its way to the courts.

When the President went to Charlotte, N.C., for "Billy Graham Day" his mission in behalf of his great friend had been carefully plotted. A memorandum introduced in the Ervin committee investigation told of the threat of violent protests and demonstrations to disrupt the celebration. On this memorandum H.R. Haldeman, then one of the President's two chief lieutenants, had written "great" and "good."

"Did you really think that these demonstrators were subversives?" Sen. Lowell Weicker asked Haldeman.

"That was the information I had," he replied.

At the rally in Charlotte strong-arm tactics were used against young people, some of them with long hair, some passing out pamphlets, "Nixon Is a Sinner." Fourteen young people brought suit for damages charging they had been assaulted and deprived of their civil rights. In a remarkable opinion United States District Judge James B. McMillian spelled out in detail the bully-boy tactics used against the young protesters and ordered the case to trial on its merits.

The chief bully boy was Ernie Helms of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with a build, as Judge McMillan put it, like a Washington Redskins tackle. He seemed as chief bouncer to be coordinating the efforts of the army of Secret Service agents sent into Charlotte. Called to testify in the suit he refused, citing the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination.

In his 62-page opinion Judge McMillan found that the young people were no threat whatsoever to the President. Although they carried no weapons of any kind and for the most part were circumspect in their behavior, they were hustled out of the hall even when they had been admitted with bona fide tickets of admission. Under Helm's direction these tickets were declared counterfeit and the young shoved back out.

The Charlotte police and the Secret Service agents, Judge McMillan found, "Participated in a wholesale assault upon the civil right and liberties of numerous citizens, in violation of the First, Fourth, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution." Secrecy in government, refusal to account to oppressed citizens for actions they suffered, is a way, the judge wrote, to breed tyranny.

One of the few public addresses the President has made in the past three months was in late May when he spoke to the prisoners of war returned from Vietnam. Touching a half dozen patriotic themes he drew cheers and applause. The crescendo came when he said, "I think it is time in this country to quit making national heroes of those who steal secrets and publish them in the newspapers.

As he stated in the supplement to his Watergate television address he had previously stated — that the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist had been broken into by the "plumbers." So in denouncing Ellsberg without using his name in his talk to the prisoners of war he chose to ignore the fact of an illegal act to try to convict the alleged thief of secret papers.

"Bring us together" was the slogan Nixon picked up on the campaign trail in 1968. He may buttress his position with the right wing by the loud patriotic theme with its echo of the Communist hunter of the past. But this will not help to unite a deeply divided and doubting country.

Gilligan inks Majority Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan signed into law today a bill lowering the legal age of majority in Ohio from 21 to 18 years.

The bill lowers the minimum legal age in most areas, but maintains the minimum age at 21 in the purchase and consumption of hard liquor, requirements for becoming a policeman or highway patrolman, and in establishing the legal adult age of the mentally handicapped in most institutions dealing with the young.

Chief sponsors of the legislation were Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, and Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati.

—Sitting on juries.
—Contracting.

—The age under which females are covered by certain regulations in the employment of minors laws.

—Requirements regarding guardians or trustees to handle affairs of minors.

—In areas granting veterans assistance to veterans who were previously considered minors.

Skylab crewmen to replace gyros

Flight director Neil Hutchinson said the decision on the replacement was made Tuesday because of a slow deterioration in the main gyro system over the last several weeks.

"They're slowly but surely caving in," Hutchinson said.

He emphasized there was no danger to astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma since the spacemen could take action to stabilize the laboratory.

"CAN YOU GIVE US A DESCRIPTION OF THE GUNMEN AND THE POT ROASTS?"

Hal Boyle . Glenn Miller Band still alive

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 29 years after his death, the name and fame of bandleader Glenn Miller remain greatly alive, a musical legend that defies the changing years.

It had become the most popular organization of its kind when Glenn, a trombonist, put down his baton to take up another as a captain in the U.S. Army. Promoted to major, he was reported missing on a routine flight over the English Channel on Dec. 15, 1944. Neither the plane nor his body were ever found.

Although the United States is a hurry-up country with its attention on the future, not the past, nostalgia often finds a ready cash register here. So it has turned out with the Glenn Miller story. The fans still wanted his music.

Revived by the musician's estate after the close of World War II, the Glenn Miller Orchestra slowly worked its way back to the top.

In its third postwar director, Buddy DeFranco, the band has found a talent which rivals that of the founder himself. Tall, blue-eyed and friendly, Buddy started playing at the age of 9, and for 15 years has been many times rated in musicians' polls as the No. 1 clarinetist in the nation.

"I only met Glenn briefly," he recalled during a break at the St. Regis Roof, where the band is concluding a successful engagement. "He was quite strict, but always a gentleman."

Explaining the band's enduring appeal, DeFranco said:

"Few bands really have their own identifying sounds. Among those that do are Herb Alpert's, Duke Ellington's, Count Basie's and Guy Lombardo's. Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and Tommy Dorsey were more soloists.

"Miller was never a soloist. He was a skilled orchestrator and devised the new sound that made his band famous. It is a reed sound, based around the clarinet and four saxes. It is more than merely nostalgic. It is a romantic sound, and therefore has a fresh appeal to each generation."

The band still has 18 members, as in Miller's day, the same theme song, "Moonlight Serenade," and about 75 per cent of its numbers is the music Miller played, including such hits as "In the Mood," "String of Pearls," "A Serenade in Blue," and "Tuxedo Junction."

"But we play a lot of the new stuff, too, just as Glenn would if he were still here. You have to. We now appeal to the young fans as well as the 40 and up group."

Lukens to seek office

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Couple's dinnertime visits your own fault

DEAR ABBY: A nervy couple we know drops by unexpectedly several times a week-and always at dinnertime. They are breaking us in the food department. They finish off everything so we never have any leftovers. Also, they drink coffee (which isn't cheap) by the gallon. When one pot is empty the wife gets up and makes another pot, just like she's in her own home.

They invited us to dinner at their place twice, and both times they served rice while they bragged that they had a whole cow in their freezer!

Don't suggest that we tell them we ate already when they come over. We tried that once and they said: "So did we," came in and sat until midnight and everybody's stomach was growling so loud we could hardly hear ourselves talk.

So how do we tell this couple not to come for dinner without hurting their feelings?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: What feelings? If you permit unwelcome guests to impose on you, look for sympathy under "S" in the dictionary.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman of 43 who has been dating a 50-year-old bachelor for two years. I'd like to know if I'm wasting my time. I cook him a full hot meal at least four nights a week, and how that man loves to eat! He is so sweet and affectionate to my two daughters, who are 10 and 12, but he never kisses me unless I practically force myself on him. The first time he kissed me was boarding a bus to go visit my mother and I said: "Aren't you going to kiss me goodby!" So he kissed me.

Do you think there is something wrong with a man his age who can hardly keep his hands off 10 and 12-year-old girls but never makes a move toward a mature woman?

Also, he never says a word about our future. Should I bring it up? I would like to know where I stand.

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Don't waste any more time on him. But to be sure you aren't passing up a likely prospect, ask him how he feels about marriage. I'll bet he disappears in a hurry, which will be a break for you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother keeps telling me that a man's wife is nothing-his mother is the most important person in his life because a man can have 10 wives, but he can have only one mother.

I have the impression that she would like nothing more than to break up my marriage so she could have her son back home. She is twice-divorced.

My husband is a kind and gentle man, but he refuses to enter into any kind of controversy where his mother is concerned.

She thinks that because she attends church regularly and knows the Bible backwards and forwards she is a "good" woman.

Since my husband refuses to take my part against her, how can I defend myself?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Tell her to refer to her Bible: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife." (Genesis 2, 24)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HELP ME IN ALBANY, N.Y.": I doubt if any ethical doctor would be willing to remove all your female organs because you find "all that female business a nuisance." And at age 29, you may have regrets later for having done so.

Mrs. Kirk's Kitchen

By GLADYS KIRK

Making ice cream is a fun thing to do at any time of year — or at any age. But, what is better on a rainy day when the children are out of school, camp is not in — and "Hey, Mom, What's to Do?" shouts are heard? Make ice cream. It has more appeal for children than any other dairy product. When a youngster participates in the process of making ice cream at home, he learns about dairy products first hand.

There are many variations in ingredients used to make homemade ice cream in the crank freezer; however, the aim is the same - to produce a flavorful finely textured dessert. This fine texture results from the formation of many fine crystals rather than a few large crystals. Many recipes include some of the following agents which interfere with the formation of large gritty crystals; gelatin, beaten egg white, whole egg, cooked starch, fat furnished by plain or whipped cream, syrups, chocolate and sugar.

If you have a hand-cranked freezer turn the dasher slowly until ice partically melts and forms a brine. Then you can turn more rapidly and constantly till the crank turns hard. It is important to turn the dasher constantly as the agitation of the dasher also helps to prevent gritty ice cream. If you stop in the middle of the freezing because your arm is tired, the ice crystals already formed will grow larger resulting in gritty ice cream.

A Few Pointers: (1) Use 1 part salt to 8 parts ice - (2) Ice cream is better when ripened - so when ice cream is firm, draw off brine water, wipe off and remove lid, take out dasher. Plug opening in the lid with a cork. Replace lid. Pack more ice and salt around the can to fill the freezer. Cover and let ripen for a couple of hours.

PLAIN ICE CREAM
2 cups thin cream
2 cups milk
Pinch of salt
1¼ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sugar

Mix ingredients together and fill can two thirds full to allow for expansion of mixture as it freezes.

VANILLA CUSTARD ICE CREAM
¾ cup sugar
2 Tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 beaten eggs
2 cups whipping cream
1¼ Tablespoon vanilla

Combine sugar, flour and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Cook and stir over low heat till thick. Add small amount of hot mixture to eggs and mix well. Return to hot mixture, cook and stir 1 minute. Chill. Add cream and vanilla. Freeze and ripen. Since it makes 1¼ quarts freeze in 2 quart freezer.

Variations can be made by adding mashed fruit such as peaches or strawberries or flavoring such as cocoa or coffee.

MOM'S CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM
Combine: 3 Tablespoons flour and ½ cup sugar
Add: 3 cups milk
Cook on low heat in large heavy sauce pan or skillet until mixture starts to thicken.
Beat 4 egg yolks
Add part of cooked mixture to beaten egg yolks.
Combine and then pour back into cooked mixture.
Beat 4 egg whites while mixture cooks and thickens. (Be sure to stir mixture often)
Fold beaten egg whites into cooked mixture
Pour into freezer and add the following:
¾ can chocolate syrup
1 can condensed milk
pinch of salt
½ cup sugar
3 cups milk
vanilla to taste
Mixture will fill 1½ quart freezer two-thirds full.

Celery salt is a powdered form of dried fresh celery mixed with salt. Try adding it to a cream sauce or a salad dressing.

Processed cheddar cheese has one indisputable virtue: it mixed smoothly into a hot sauce and melts smoothly in a casserole dish.

Lutheran pastor wears 'skirt with her collar

By CAROL DEEGAN
AP Educational Services Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The pastor wears a skirt. But she also wears a collar and counsels college students on tough questions pertaining to the armed services, abortion and capital punishment.

She is Elizabeth Platz, the first woman to be ordained in the Lutheran Church in the northern hemisphere.

Her ordination was held more than two years ago at the University of Maryland, where she served as a Lutheran Church lay worker for five years.

Since her ordination, has she encountered any problems as the university's Lutheran chaplain because she is a woman?

"I've really been able to say in all honesty that there is not the kind of antagonism that many girls and the older women anticipate," the Rev. Miss Platz said.

She admits that some people haven't approved, including some clergy, but "by and large, the greater part of the negative comment has come from women."

The Rev. Miss Platz says she entered the ministry because of her interest in theology.

"I didn't realize the impact of being the first woman to have been ordained because I was really fat, dumb and happy in my own little world, doing the ministry," she recalled.

And in the years that have followed her ordination?

"It's just been really great. There's nothing like service in the church in terms of working with people as well as the structures," she said.

The Rev. Miss Platz said what she particularly likes about her job is that she gets involved in "all kinds of things where people really live.

"How do I live and maintain integrity? To me that seems to be a real question," she said. "The draft was a big one because it was a real question of conscience.

"Amnesty, abortion, capital punishment. I get a lot of questions like that," she added.

The Lutheran chaplain says that more and more, whether consciously or unconsciously, segments of American society have been buying into a "revenge motif.

"The revenge motif is very strong in the capital punishment thing. Abortion is a revenge motif. The whole question of amnesty is a revenge motif," the Rev. Miss Platz said.

And how do the young people view what is happening in the world around them?

The Rev. Miss Platz says that young people have seen, through the news media and through their own lives, a king of "immediacy" in the world today.

They are skeptical, she said, so there is "natural and healthy rejection of pat answers, things they had been told.

"Institutions, government, church, schools aren't as beautiful as we have made them out to be. Aren't as good. Aren't as powerful; sometimes they're too powerful," she said.

When you are adding cornstarch to a hot sauce mixture to thicken it, mix the cornstarch with a little cold water until smooth before stirring it in.

A small amount of sugar is usually added to non-sweet yeast breads because the sugar hastens the working of the yeast.

State award is won by Posy Garden Club

The Posy Garden Club received the Victor H. Ries Outstanding Garden Club Award at the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs State Convention held in Wooster recently. This is a state award given by Professor Ries to an OAGC garden club that has been active in state, region and county, as well as having well planned meetings, workshops, demonstrations, open meetings, gardens open to the public, flower shows, active in ecology, conservation and horticulture, therapy and work with junior garden club members. The award covered the club's activities over a two-year period.

Mrs. Jess Schilichter, club delegate, accepted the award and check for the club. Mrs. Forest Fry, also attended the three-day session. They attended the horticulture, program book and nature and conservation clinics.

Fred Galle of Callaway Gardens, Pine Mountain, Ga., was speaker and he gave a slide lecture, "What is a Garden?" The role of botanic gardens in their service to the public was his answer. He is widely known for his writing in horticulture subjects and gave a most interesting program.

William Hixon of Lakewood, was the designer for the convention. His first program, "Electicism in Flower Arranging" was given following the buffet on Tuesday evening, and "Serendipity and Schmaltz" was cleverly demonstrated Thursday morning. He made many unusual flower arrangements using dry, fresh and treated materials, and said that flower arranging is a craft, not an art, and can be learned by anyone wanting to learn the principles of design and a few simple rules.

The rules are made to be broken, so be different, but not strange he said.

The convention theme was "Hat's Off to the OAGC." The flower show was divided into four sections with three classes in each. The sections were titled "Our Concern for the Environment, Appreciation for Natural Beauty, Garden Clubs," "A Way of Life" and "Creativity and Character."

The 1974 Convention will be July 31, Aug. 1 and 2 at Stauffers Inn in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Frank Barrett gave a typed list of "Flowers to consider for your garden" with the botanical names and description of the flowers.

The business session held this week was in the home of Mrs. Fred Rivenbuegh, president, when it was announced that 10 members plan to attend 'Gardeners Day Out' Sept. 13 at Don Scott Field, Ohio State University, where a day of interest to garden club members has been planned. A tour of the new horticulture building, landscaped gardens and flower plots are a part of the activities with a beef barbecue planned at noon.

Mrs. Hary Thrailkill read an invitation from Phil French, to take part in the 'Nationsl Hunting and Fishing Day' to stimulate interest in ecology and conservation on Sept. 22 at the Fish and Game Lodge, Stafford Rd.

Mrs. Albert Bihl gave a program of OAGC slides of "Birds in an Ohio Garden" with Mrs. Barrett as the narrator.

An arrangement featuring a bird was made by Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, using brown cattails, a driftwood burl, white pine and a handpainted owl.

The club voted to send contributions to the Wildflower Book Funda and Wakeena.

Members attending the meeting with Mrs. Rivenburgh were Mrs. Lester Haines, Mrs. Lawrence Woods, Mrs. Thrailkill. Mrs. W.B. Edwards, Mrs. Fry, Mrs. H.W. Melvin, Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, Mrs. Jess Schlichter, Mrs. Bess Seaman and Mrs. Carmel Bowsher, a guest.

Mrs. Homer Wilson, now living in Columbus, sent congratulations to the club on winning the state award.

The hostess served a dessert course to members and invited them to tour her flower, fruit and vegetable gardens.

The September meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Thrailkill in Lakewood Hills. She now has 68 dahlias in bloom, and invited members to stop to view them.

It's not necessary to rinse a mold, as recipes sometimes direct, before adding a gelatin mixture. The rinsing does not help the unmolding.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Telvision Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Egad, you caught me at just the right moment," whooped Kristen Banfield. Her hair was in curlers. She wore faded blue jeans and an old shirt. And one of her maroon socks had a hole in the toe.

But then, she'd just entered an NBC makeup room to face the powder puff and otherwise prepare for the taping of 13 spots for NBC-TV's "What's On Tonight" announcements.

The spots, begun last September with actress Sharon Obeck, appear seven nights a week at the start of NBC's evening shows. They briefly describe coming attractions on the bill each night.

Miss Banfield, a merry, green-eyed lady, succeeded Miss Obeck as the "What's On" announcer— announceress? — last June 12. But she doesn't simply announce. She sings on one of the current spots and has a new RCA Records contract because of it.

"They (NBC officials) didn't know that I could sing when I got the job," said Miss Banfield, a native of Horseheads, N.Y.

"It was on my resume that I had done a lot of musicals," she said. "But they didn't know if I had only done chorus work or sang like Mrs. Miller or Tiny Tim."

Let it be known that Miss Banfield sounds like neither. She has studied formally at the University of Indiana, appeared in a number of summer stock musicals and spent 1½ years in the national road company production of "1776," cast as Martha Jefferson.

But her vocal talents didn't come to light at NBC until the authorities there approved a new series for the fall season— "Love Story," loosely based on the hit movie of the same name.

One day, she said, an NBC executive told her "they were planning a promotion spot for 'Love Story.' He said something to the effect that he assumed that since I had done musicals I was a competent vocalist."

She was whisked to a studio to do an up-tempo, jazz-rock version of the languid "Love Story" theme for a 60-second TV spot in which she gambols through a park singing said aria. The spot has been running for nearly two weeks now and it looks and sounds quite good.

RCA Records executives who heard the sound track were sufficiently impressed to sign her to a contract, order up a 42-piece orchestra and record a longer version of the song for commercial release.

NBC officials say 25,000 copies of the record have been printed up and it's now making the rounds of radio stations. They hope it'll do as well as the original, slower version of "Love Story."

But in the meantime, they're keeping Miss Banfield busy with "What's On" and getting ready to shoot a 10-minute TV feature in which she explains the workings of NBC News operations.

Feathered friends to be evicted

VENICE (AP) — City authorities here have decided on a new way to evict the 180,000 pigeons causing decay and health problems in St. Marks Square.

This time, they will move the birds' feeding places to the outskirts of the city, ban stands selling corn in the square and sterilize some of the birds.

Before, officials wanted to ship the birds to other parts of Italy and the world, but were unable to catch them.

Billingsgate, a famous fish market in London, was opened in 1558 as a landingstage for provisions.

Can't kick habit

NITEROI, Brazil (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest warned off a female admirer from the pulpit of his church.

"Please, stop sending me love letters," he said. "I will certainly not be tempted by anything, because I've always wanted to be a priest."

'Blue Knight' hard work for William Holden

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bystanders at the broken-down hotel next to the Harbor Freeway gazed twice at the deeply tanned patrolman in the blue uniform of the Los Angeles Police Department.

"No, it couldn't be," they muttered.

But it was William Holden. For six weeks citizens in the downtown area have spotted the actor in his policeman's garb. One man even asked for street directions.

Holden is starring in "The Blue Knight," an unusual venture in television and film programming. The Joseph Wambaugh novel is being filmed simultaneously for U.S. and Canadian television and for movie theaters in other countries.

"The Blue Knight" is scheduled to appear in four 60-minute segments on NBC on successive nights, Nov. 13-16. Later, foreign audiences will see a 100-minute version in theaters.

"The theatrical version will not merely be a trimmed-down version of the four television hours," explained Walter Coblenz, who is producing the film for Lorimar Productions, the company that makes "The Waltons."

"Many of the scenes are shot two ways. The theater version is a bit rougher, both in action and in language. There's one sequence where Holden walks into a burlesque house.

"The theater version will show seminudity on the stage. Naturally that won't appear in the television film."

Toward the end of the "Blue Knight" filming, Bill Holden was playing a scene in which he burst into a sleazy hotel room and arrested a suspect.

The scene was rehearsed and filmed by director Robert Butler with amazing speed, considering the close quarters in which the film crew had to work.

"It's a good script and a good character," he said. "Also, the deal is financially advantageous for me.

"I can get a three-way return on the project. First is the television play in this country; NBC has the right to two showings. Second is the showing of the film in theaters overseas.

"Third is the subsequent sale of the film to television in those countries. I participate in all three operations."

Holden is earning his pay. He said he had never worked so hard, not even during his early career under slave-driving Harry Cohn at Columbia.

"I found the greatest sleeping pill in the world: this script," he said with a grin. "Not that it's dull. But when I got home after a 13-hour day on the picture, I started to look at what I had to do the next day and I fell asleep."

Sale of assets barred for firm in state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Franklin County Common Pleas Court ordered officials of Sonic Systems, Inc., to hold up on the sale of their assets, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown says.

Brown said Wednesday he learned the firm's officers were trying to sell their assets before leaving Ohio.

The attorney general charged Sonic Systems last April with deceptive sales practices. The firm agreed to repay customers who were deceived the entire $500 purchase price of fire alarm systems.

Brown said that would be about 230 customers in Ohio.

Fayette Airport News

BY JUDY DENNIS

It has been a busy summer, and we have had a great deal of flying activity since my last article.

Bill has flight-tested several students and issued them pilot's licenses. Among the new pilots were six of our own people, the rest being from other airports in south-central Ohio. John Woodmansee, "Tex" Guerra, Louie Poole and Deane Carter are new pilots from our Fayette County School, and Charles McDonald and Jim Jones from our Ross County Airport also received their prized pilot's certificate. However, the private pilot certificate was not the final objective for three of these men, as John Woodmansee, Tex Guerra, and Charlie McDonald enrolled in our VA school, and are now working on their Commercial Pilot's certificate.

Howard Wright has completed his Commercial Pilot and Multi-engine rating under the G.I. Bill and is now enrolled in the instrument course. Dr. Chuck Pfersick is also taking instrument instruction in his own aircraft.

We have picked up several new students, and have a real rainbow of shirttails, which we cut off when the students made their first solo flights. The recent solos include Bob Woodmansee, Bill Mason, Paul Junk, Joe Kingery, Pete Walker, Jack Sanders, Gene Pfaff, Chuck Starkey, and Paul Rowland. Rowland is from Oak Hill, but we sold him an airplane, and he wanted us to teach him to fly it. He checked out for cross-country flying between here and Jackson and flies back and forth for instruction.

Bill Binzel is home from school for the summer, and is finishing his training with us. He is doing very well, but is having a heck of a time finishing his cross-country work, due to all the smog, haze, and rain, we have had recently. Bill is not alone with this problem, as all of our students have hit this snag in the cross-country phaze of their flying. Due to the bad visibility which has plagued us, the students cannot venture too far from home.

Pat Yager is home for a short vacation to visit his father, Dr. Jack Yager, and has been giving their Bonanza a work-out. Pat was one of Bill's first students, and is now an instructor in Florida.

Bud Shaw and Scott Wilson made an interesting trip a couple of weeks ago. They flew from here to Phoenix, Arizona, where Scott reported to the Air Base for assignment. They made the trip in Bud's little, two-seated J-3 Cub, which is an antique aircraft. Scott's brother, Wes, accompanied them by car, and wherever possible, they communicated back and forth by walkie-talkie radios. After dropping Scott in Arizona, Bud continued on alone to California. This was quite a trip to make in a J-3 Cub, and Bud stated they met a lot of friendly people along the way who were quite interested in their trip, and willing to lend them a helping hand when needed. Our Pilots' Association meeting was held Aug. 10, and Bud showed color slides of the trip.

Roy and Elizabeth Smith have done a lot of flying this summer, flying here and there for lunch, and recently making a trip to Kentucky to visit Roy's brother. Roy also uses his plane for business flying whenever possible.

Walt Gooldin and Dale Hardwick are finishing up their cross-country flying, and are on the home stretch of their training towards their private licenses.

Jack Patton won the free hour of flying for the month of August, and I'm betting he'll probably use the time in the Cherokee. Jack recently checked out in the Cherokee and likes that kind of flying.

Jack Sanders has really been flying the wheels off these planes, and is progressing very fast. Jack wants to get his license in a hurry, so he can go on to the G.I. Bill before his eligibility for his veterans training expires.

Ron Fitzwater and Tom Romph began their flight training while stationed at Wilmington Air Force Base, and although they are now stationed at Lockbourne, they still come back to good old Fayette County for their commercial training. Both boys are getting close to the hours needed for their Commercial licenses.

Mr. John Tudor and his son flew here from Tennessee in their twin-engine Aztec over the weekend to visit John's folks in Greenfield.

Licensed pilots taking friends and relatives for flights in our aircraft were Millard French, Kenny Smith, Paul Stuckey, and Bob Cannon. Also, flying with us was Mike Thompson, who was home on leave from the Air Force. Mike always comes to see us when he's home, and we're always glad to welcome back our very first line boy.

Steve Warner made a night flight to Somerset, Ky., to pick up a friend's wife. Mrs. Gary Kelley had been vacationing at Cumberland Lake, and Steve and Gary went after her, making the round trip in four hours, when it would have taken eight hours to drive it.

Eddie Pendergraft, Paul Crosby, Maurice Hopkins and Howard Wright have been flying the wings off their jointly owned aircraft. When the weather's fit, it's always up and going. Paul took his mother back to her home in Van Wert in it, and although it was her first ride, she loved every minute of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Loyd have been using their Navion this summer, and Owen Prince and Max Ours have made several flights in their Skyhawks.

Since Louie Poole received his license, both his wife, Peggy, and son, Lonnie, have gone up for their first lessons. It looks like we're going to have a flying family. Other new students are Ned Payne and Mike Johnston. Ned is from here and Mike is coming down from Columbus.

Curt Hiser, our stand-by charter pilot, spent a day at Hillsboro, helping to haul rides for the Mecto Tool Company of Greenfield. The past two years, the company has taken all its employes for rides, and we helped do the honors last year, also.

VA students Tim Vehnekamp and Bill Pauley have been working diligently on their commercial licenses, and whenever Charlie Doods and Mike Prickett have been able to take time out from their busy schedules, they have been working on their private licenses.

At the present time, the fog has rolled back in, so we are going to close up shop and head for home. See you next time.

Model city planned near Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The architects who planned Brasilia, Brazil's 13-year-old capital in the hinterland, have designed another model city — this time on the outskirts of Rio de Janeiro.

By the year 2000 the new city promises "a new way of life" for 2 million of Rio's anticipated 10 million residents — a life free from the congestion, pollution and noise that plague Rio's present population of 4.3 million.

present population of 4.3 million.

The site, called Barra da Tijuca, is 10 miles from Copacabana, which was considered a seaside paradise until the late '50s but now is three square miles of concrete housing 250,000 people. Barra da Tijuca is an unspoiled area flanked by mountains and dotted with lakes. It stretches for 14 miles along one of the most beautiful beaches in the world.

When the federal government announced plans in 1964 to build a highway through the area to connect Rio with the port of Santos, 250 miles to the southwest, urban development of Barra da Tijuca was inevitable.

"If urban growth had been left uncontrolled, Barra would have become another Copacabana within a few years, with a conglomeration of highrise buildings lining the highway and the beach, preventing free circulation of air and blocking a view of the sea," said Almir Machado, coordinator of the team of architects that is planning the area's development.

IN 1969, Lucio Costa — author of the master plan of Brasilia — presented an ambitious project to the government of the state of Guanabara (Greater Rio) to urbanize Barra while at the same time preserving the area's natural beauty, tranquility, and unpolluted environment. He proposed to concentrate the population of the 75-square-mile area in self-sufficient urban islands each containing about 12,000 people and separated from one another by five-block-wide green areas. Each urban island would have its own shopping area and school, and other essential services.

At opposite ends of the beach, sandwiched between the highway and the ocean, two super nuclei are being planned with projected populations of 80,000 to 100,000 each.

The larger of the two, called the Barra Center, is already under construction. It will be opened in 1974 and fully completed by 1980. Oscar Niemeyer, who designed the major public buildings in Brasilia, is chief architect.

THE BARRA CENTER will contain 70 cylindrical 34-story apartment towers. Seventy-five per cent of the center's 127 acres will consist of parkland, playgrounds, squares, walkways, and tropical gardens. There will be six office buildings, five schools, four yacht clubs, two movies and one legitimate theater, as well as supermarkets, gas stations and churches.

Niemeyer's idealistic plan separates pedestrians and traffic, residential and shopping areas.

The residential towers will be interlaced with walkways. Pedestrians will cross the main traffic arteries through underpasses. There will be two floors of underground parking in each tower.

No stores will be allowed in the residential area. Instead noise and activity will be concentrated in a commercial center that cuts diagonally through the development. Parking will be behind the shops and the area in front will be a mall for pedestrians only.

Many of Costa's and Niemeyer's idealistic designs for Brasilia did not work out. A typical main street has sprouted in the capital, despite plans that called for the city to be made up of self-contained living nuclei.

THE BARRA'S Commercial Center will contain about 1,000 stores as well as supermarkets, restaurants, bars, banks, boutiques, cinemas, beauty salons, and doctors' offices.

Prices range from $10,000 for a one-bedroom apartment to $30,000 for a deluxe three-bedroom apartment to $138,000 for a penthouse. If you pay cash the price is 18.5 per cent less.

The Barra area forms a triangle with two sides backed by mountains and one facing the sea. In the apex of the triangle there will be four non-polluting industries, the state government civic center, and a 2½ square-mile metropolitan center, expected to be the nerve center of Rio within 30 years. In the center of the triangle there will be 11 residential nuclei, a heliport and executive airport, an autodrome, a golf course, a biological reserve, a university, and an agricultural area, interspersed throughout with parks and woodland.

Allende fears Bolivian invasion

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende met with his national security council Wednesday night, and congressional sources said they discussed the threat of an invasion by Bolivia.

"The situation is delicate," Adm. Raul Montero, the commander of the navy, told newsmen. He would not elaborate. But there were unconfirmed reports of Bolivian troop movements along Chile's northeastern frontier.

Several opposition congressmen claimed the leftist government was circulating the reports to divert attention from the strikes plaguing the government.

Chile and Bolivia severed diplomatic relations 10 years ago over a river dispute but they have not been on friendly terms for a century. Bolivia lost its access to the sea when victorious Chile seized the port city of Antofagasta during the 1879 War of the Pacific against Bolivia and Peru.

Shortly before Allende met with the security council, the House of Deputies adopted a resolution accusing the Marxist president of "overstepping the constitution and the law." The resolution, which passed on an 81-47 vote, carries no legal sanctions. But it reflected the concern of the opposition majority in Congress over the street battles in which scores of persons were wounded during a 48-hour general strike Tuesday and Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the 140,000 members of the merchants' confederation ended their 48-hour strike against the government and planned to reopen their shops today. They didn't have much to sell, however, as much of the country's distribution system was paralyzed by the continuing truck owners' strike, now in its 29th day.

The doctors' union voted to remain on strike for three more days to press demands for the import of more medicine and medical equipment. They now are providing only emergency service.

County Schools adopt free lunch policy

Guy M. Foster, superintendent of Miami Trace Schools, has announced a free lunch policy for children unable to pay the full price of meals served in schools under the National School Lunch Program.

Foster said school officials have adopted a family-size, income scale for use in determining eligibility for free lunches.

FREE LUNCH SCALE

No. of children	Income
1	$2,740
2	$3,600
3	$4,460
4	$5,310
5	$6,100
6	$6,890
7	$7,600
8	$8,310
9	$8,960
10	$9,600
11	$10,240
12	$10,880

Eligibility determinations are made on a family basis, that is, all the children in the same family attending schools under the jurisdiction of the same school food authority are to receive the same benefits, Foster said.

Children from families whose income is at or below that shown on the scale are eligible for free meals. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses may also apply, according to Foster.

They may do so by filing application forms sent home with a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted anytime during the school year.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If parents have such children living with them and wish to apply for such meals, they should contact the school, Foster pointed out.

Under the provision of the policy the visiting teacher will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Foster for a hearing to appeal the decision. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the school superintendent where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

Firestone faces suit

Town & Country Driving School, Inc., also charges in its suit filed Wednesday that Firestone forced small independent tire manufacturers and distributors out of the replacement market by charging low prices until the companies were ruined, then raised prices.

The plaintiff says Firestone increased its share of the replacement tire market from 15 per cent in 1959 to 25 per cent in 1973. It charges Firestone with using illegal activities to increase its market share "to the detriment of the public interest."

A Firestone spokesman declined comment on the school's suit.

Q. My son is paying his own college tuition this year. Will this have any effect on whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes. Tuition payments are counted in determining total support. If you and your son furnish his total support for the year, and your son spent more on support items, such as food, clothing, shelter, education, etc., than you spent for his support, you will not be able to claim him as a dependent.

Q. Is it possible for me to reduce the amount of tax withheld from my pay?

A. Yes. This is done by filing a new W-4 form with your employer, claiming all the exemptions to which you are entitled. In addition, you may also qualify to claim the special withholding allowance. For details, see your employer or call your local IRS office.

State school aid plan being pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An attempt will be made next week to move out of the House Education Committee a bill aimed at aiding Ohio's financially troubled school districts.

Basically, it would require the state to pick up the interest tab for school districts forced to borrow money from outside sources to keep operating.

The main sponsor, Rep. Vernon F. Cook, D-39 Akron, said the main drawback experienced in lining up support is that most legislators believe the bill is aimed only at solving a problem in Summit County.

"I think if they look around, especially in counties that are undergoing a re-appraisal or switching tax collections to a computer set-up, that other school districts are in the same position," he said.

The bill has had two committee hearings in its present form. When it was introduced in February, it called for a direct state reimbursement of interest paid on borrowed money.

Several administration officials balked at that approach, so Cook rewrote the bill to pacify the complaints and hopefully to keep it from dying in committee.

As it is now, a school district in financial trouble would first be required to borrow against its incoming school foundation money.

If that source is depleted, it could go to private sources. Interest on the money would be deducted from the county's share of the local government fund.

The county could then go to the state Controlling Board asking the money taken from the fund be replaced. But it would have to prove that its tax collection setup was not at fault for the school district being short of cash.

A delay in the processing of tax collections in Summit County brought about the bill, Cook, a professor at the University of Akron said.

"But i don't think the problem is unique to Summit County," Cook said. "I think school districts elsewhere in the state have the same problem."

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — The paint on one of the outside walls of our house is peeling. I intend to scrape and sand it before repainting, but I don't want the same thing to happen again.

I was told that there probably was a leak somewhere in the wall and that water was getting behind it. I checked every inch of the wall and found not the slightest sign of an opening.

What could be causing this on only one wall?

A. — It is sometimes difficult to convince readers (judging by the mail) that excessive humidity inside the house can penetrate an inside wall, move into an outside wall and then push off the exterior paint. But it happens — and that would seem to be the case here.

Why did it occur on only one of the outside walls? I can only guess that the wall in question is outside walls? I can only guess that the wall in question is outside the bathroom or kitchen, where there usually is a large amount of water vapor.

You will have to find a way for the vapor to escape rather than permit it to get under the paint.

You can use a series of small vents lodged in the outside wall or use an exhaust fan inside the room where the moisture builds up. Sometimes even opening a window a few times a day is sufficient to send the moisture on its way.

Q. — There were several crayon marks on our kitchen wall. I scrubbed them thoroughly before my husband repainted the kitchen. It looked fine for several months, but now the crayon appears to be coming through; at least, there are outline marks the same as were on the wall originally, although a lot fainter.

My husband says he will repaint that one wall again, but I tell him the crayon probably will come through again. Am I right?

A. — It is possible that a new coat of paint will cover the crayon sufficiently so that it won't show through again. But to be sure, first go over the stained area with a coat of shellac, thinned about 50-50 with denatured alcohol.

Sand the shellac very lightly after it has dried thoroughly, then go ahead with the painting. The shellac will seal in the stains if they threaten to get rambunctious again.

Savings bond sales near 1973 goal

July 1973 sales of Series E & H United States Savings Bonds in Ohio were $32.7 million. At the end of July, the State attained 63.7 per cent of its 1973 sales goal of $393.8 million.

Richard E. Whiteside, Fayette County Volunteer Savings Bonds chairman, reported July sales of Savings Bonds in the County were $18,874. The County achieved 65.8 per cent of its annual sales goal July 31.

There were about 130,000 Indians living in the California region of the United States when it was discovered by the Spanish in 1542.

CADETS RETURN — The cadets above recently returned from an encampment exercise at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. They are members of the Civil Air Patrol Auxiliary. C.A.P. cadets end encampment

During the encampment the cadets went through 40 hours of classes covering aerospace education, history of the U.S. Air Force ROTC, and Advanced Civil Air Patrol training.

In addition to the 40 hours, the cadets toured the flight simulators where they could fly a simulated plane including take off and landing.

The cadets later went to the Strategic Air Command base where they were briefed on the major role of SAC in the defense of the country. Then they were taken inside the large planes.

They were also taken to the computer center where all informatiron is fed to the computers and put on tapes to be stored for later use. This center is the largest in the U.S.

Campaign reporting overhaul being pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says Ohio's campaign reporting laws need an overhaul.

Brown said on Wednesday he wants political candidates to report annually on contributions and expenditures.

He also suggested the fiveyear disqualification penalty for late filing should be replaced with a system of fines and injunctions.

Pollution - free steel mill building

ROTHERHAM, England (AP) — Britain's state-owned steel corporation is building this country's first pollution free steel mill, a plant designed to erase the grimy and noisy image of heavy industry.

The $67.5 million mill has been specially designed to eliminate air and water pollution and to minimize noise in the River Don Valley of Yorkshire.

The British Steel Corp.— BSC— boasts it will be as technically advanced as any in Europe. It will be built to specifications laid out by Lord Melchett, the BSC head until his death in June and a strong advocate of environment protection.

Preparation of the mill site, near Rotherham in northern England, started in May. Production is expected to begin in mid-1975, with the mill producing 400,000 metric tons of high quality steel bars annually by 1977.

The mill will be part of British Steel's Aldwarke and Roundwood steelmaking complex. It will be known as the Thrybergh Bar Mill.

Close attention has been paid by its designers to eradicating pollution from the production process.

A BSC spokesman said: "As far as air pollution is concerned, the crucial stage of the operation, which is the reheating furnace, will use a low sulphur fuel.

"This will result in no visible emission and the stack height will be so arranged to ensure effective dispersal and negligible contamination of the atmosphere."

The plant will take its water supply from the Don. The spokesman said: "Steps have been taken to ensure the water, used for cooling, will probably be cleaner when it is put back into the river than it was when we removed it."

He added: "The main noise problem comes toward the end of production when the finished bars are rattling about. We are doing as much as possible to damp this down."

The mill is being built on ground only half a mile from the village of Thrybergh which lies on the main Rotherham to Doncaster road.

A natural incline will hide most of the plant from view but additional landscaping is being included in the project to ensure that mill buildings do not interfere with the visual surroundings.

Savings and loan firms get branch office OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three building and loan associations in Ohio were given the go-ahead by state Commerce Director Dennis Shaul to set up branch offices.

Shaul said Wednesday the Ohio Savings Association of Cleveland can set up an office in Garfield Heights, the Union Savings Association can put a branch in Cleveland and the Ashtabula County Savings and Loan Co. can locate branches in North Madison and Perry Township.

Order no hunting on commission land

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Youth Commission says it's against the law to hunt on property belonging to youth institutions.

The commission took the action Tuesday after learning that employes were allowed to hunt at the Fairfield School for Boys.

The board acted after another state agency warned an inmate could overpower a hunter and use the gun in an escape.

HISTORY REVISITED — The world-famous Glacial Grooves of Kelleys Island, carved and shaped more than a million years ago by continental glaciers, are among the many tourist attractions surrounding Kelleys Island State Park. The grooves, subject of extensive studies by geologists, are the largest in the world.

Kelleys Island State Park 'relaxed world of its own'

Located seven miles away from the hustle and bustle of mainland life, Kelleys Island, one of Ohio's Lake Erie islands, is a relaxed world all its own.

The 594-acre park is the focal point for Kelley's Island's many activities. The park sports outstanding boating, swimming, camping and picnicking facilities. Nearby are the Bass Islands, the many activities of Catawba Island and the Marblehead Peninsula plus Pelee Island in Canada. And, all around is Lake Erie, offering a 2¼-million acres of family fun in the Ohio portion alone.

Kelleys Island State Park, on the northern shore of the 2,888-acre island, has a broad 800-foot swimming beach; an excellent place for a cool dip in Lake Erie on a hot, humid summer afternoon. Boating launching facilities, picnic grounds and 125 grassy, tree-shaded Class B campsites complete the park's facilities.

THE PARK woodlands and open meadows are extensively used by hikers and by participants in the popular nature interpretation program. Interpretive hikes are offered and children can take part in Junior Naturalist and Naturalist Aide training programs.

Visitors to the park and island can travel by car, ferry or by airplane.

"Getting to the park is half the fun of a visit," said Natural Resources Director William B. Nye. "You can take a relaxing 20-minute ride by ferry from Marblehead or a shorter five minute ride on the famous "Tim Goose" Ford tri-motor or one of the other light planes owned by the Island Airlines."

Cars are allowed on the island, but once people get there, the most popular means of transportation is two-wheeled, not four. The bicycle is extensively used by both residents and visitors to Kelleys Island. Bicycles and golf carts can be rented at hourly or daily rates at several places on the island.

"Bicycling is the best method of seeing the island," said Kelleys Island park manager Jan Saffer. A bicycle trip along the island coastline provides riders with views of great expanses of Lake Erie stretching toward the horizon, wave-splashed rocky shorelines, motorboats kicking-up white froths of water or sailboats scudding before the wind.

TURNING INLAND, riders travel winding tree-shaded lanes bordered by open fields overflowing with wild-flowers. The woods and fields are full of wildlife and the Kelleys Island pheasant hunting is described as "excellent."

The relaxed, serene atmosphere is evident everywhere on the island and it is infectious. "It's a nice, quiet place. You get completely away from all of hubbub of the outside world," Saffer said.

Among the island's many attractions are the world-famous Glacial Grooves. The grooves are limestone rocks which were carved and shapped into long, smooth troughs by continental glaciers more than one million years ago. The grooves, subject of extensive studies by geologists, are the largest in the world.

Many of the original glacial grooves were quarried for their limestone but the remaining have been protected by the Ohio Historical Society. The grooves, which are next to the state park, are open to the public.

Early Indian visitors to Kelleys Island carved intricate designs in another rock, Inscription Rock, which is also preserved by the Ohio Historical Society and is open to the public.

Saffer, who has spent all of his 72 years on Kelleys Island, said the island used to support a large commercial fishing industry, fruit orchards, limestone quarries and several wineries. All are gone now, with the last quarry closing early in 1973.

"Prohibition put the wineries out of business," Saffer said. "They tried to make a go of it by selling grape juice for home wine making but that didn't work out."

Visitors can visit an abandoned winery on Kelleys Island or they can tour several commercial wineries still in operation on South and Middle Bass islands and on the mainland.

Kelleys Island State Park is 40 miles east of Toledo and can be reached from Cleveland on the Ohio Turnpike or from the south by U.S. 23 to Ohio 56 north. Ferry transportation is available from Marblehead or Sandusky. The Island Airlines operates from Port Clinton.

Swiss called 'most trusted'

GENEVA (AP) — Switzerland emerged as the most trusted nation in a field of eight countries in a recent poll conducted in France, Germany, Italy, Holland and Belgium.

The survey was made by Ronald Inglehart, of Michigan State University, and David Handley, University of Geneva, in cooperation with the European Community Information Center.

Switzerland ranked first with a trust rating of 78 per cent against a negative total of 11 per cent, while the United States received a 69 per cent against 23 per cent unfavorable.

Britain scored 61 and 30 per cent while the Russians had a distrust rating of 68 per cent, with only 23 per cent positive. The Chinese recorded 9 per cent favorable, 74 per cent unfavorable.

Other ratings were: French, 52 per cent favorable and 38 per cent unfavorable; Germans, 45 and 46 per cent; and Italians 31 and 59 percent.

The total difference between the Newfoundland time zone in the east to the Yukon time zone in the northwest is 5½ hours.

Caves, castles tour suggested

EDITOR's NOTE: The following is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by The Fayette County Automobile Club for The Record-Herald.

Caves and castles are the top attractions on the AAA suggested tour this week over scenic routes in the north central-western section of Ohio.

You'll visit Ohio's largest cave at Ohio Caverns near West Liberty and the well-known Piatt castles, owned and operated by William and J.J.Piatt, are only three miles away.

A walk through the Ohio Caverns takes nearly an hour. The one-mile path is all one way. There is no backtracking and just about every turn provides another spectacular sight. Many accomodations are available — shelter house, picnic tables, rest rooms and amusements for the children and plenty of good drinking water.

Next stop is the Piatt castles, named Mac-A-Cheek and Mac-O-Chee. The older of the two castles, Mac-A-Cheek, is in the form of a French fortified castle, has 35 rooms on its three floors and a five-story tower. Piatt had it built from materials found on the estate — hand chiseled cream limestone from a quarry and mortar of lime burned in the kiln located near the quarry. It took four years to complete the two-foot thick walls.

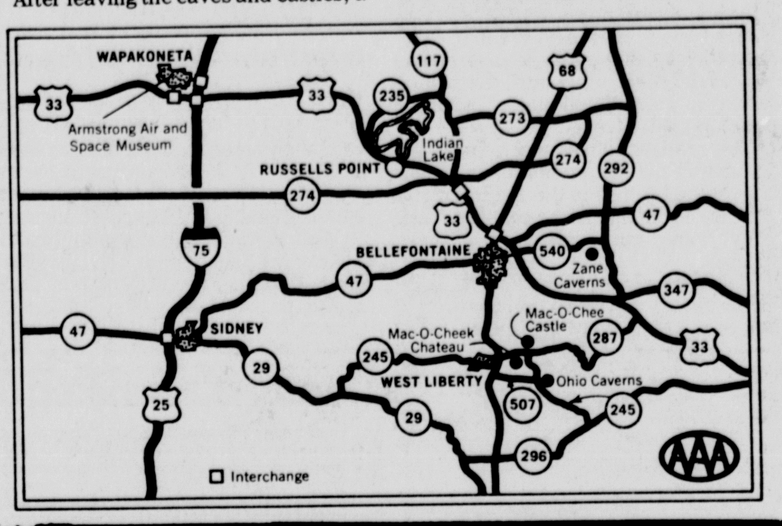
After leaving the caves and castles, a drive through the area near Bellefontaine will bring you to Indian Lake, one of the state's largest (5,800 acres) with excellent facilities for water sport lovers, especially boating.

Other places of interest in the vicinity are Ohio Caverns on Ohio 245 and Zane Caverns on Ohio 540. Both offer guided tours that require about an hour.

In the same general area is Wapakoneta on U.S. 33, the home of Neil Armstong, "The First Civilian Astronaut" and the "First Man on the Moon."

The 14,00 square foot Armstong Air and Space Museum is located at the Fisher-Wapakoneta Road interesection of I-75. It is dedicated to those Ohioans who have played a major role in man's conquest of gravity. The museum is administered by The Ohio Historical Society and is open weekdays, Sundays and holidays and closed on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Washington C.H. go to Springfiled and take Ohio 68 north to West Liberty to the points of interest in that area. From there take U.S. 33 north-west to Wapakoneta. Then return home of I-75 South.



Gilligan signs bill to set up lottery panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill establishing a state lottery commission was signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan on Wednesday.

One of the major bills of the 110th Ohio General Assembly, the legislation permits Gilligan to name a five-member commission to design an Ohio lottery. The bill becomes effective Nov. 21.

Gilligan also signed a bill lowering the age of majority for Ohio residents from 21 to 18. That bill becomes law Jan. 1, 1974.

Last November, Ohio voters lifted a constitutional ban on a state lottery. The proposed law to institute a lottery was offered in the House by Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton.

The lottery bill's most outspoken supporter over the past three years, however, was State Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma.

Gilligan said he was proud to sign the bill lowering the age of majority.

"I am proud that Ohio has become a leader in establishing individual rights and privileges for citizens of all ages," the governor said.

The bill prohibits 18-20 year olds from buying liquor or high alcohol-content beer. It also denies them the right to become city policemen or highway patrol officers, although they could be elected sheriffs.

Under the law, they also will have the right to sue — or be sued.

Cosmetics firms banned from activities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two cosmetics firms were prohibited by a Franklin County Common Pleas Court from doing business in Ohio.

Judge Craig Wright directed officers of New World Cosmetics, Inc., and Teen and Twenty Cosmetics Corp. to appear in court Sept. 14 to answer the order.

State Commerce Director Dennis Shaul charged the firms with selling exclusive distributorships, something he said is against the law in Ohio.

Life is greener

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the generation since World War II, the entire life style and economy of Greenland has changed radically, the National Geographic Society reports.

Thanks to the nearly $100 million poured into Greenland annually by a benevolent Danish government, a former Stone Age people has moved into the 20th century.

Chicago outlasts Cincy, 6-5

Pappas struggling in bid for 100 NL pitching wins

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's like pulling teeth," says Milt Pappas of the Chicago Cubs about his laborious try to become the second modern pitcher to win 100 games in both the National and American Leagues.

Pappas finally notched his sixth victory in 16 decisions Wednesday although he failed to last out a 6-5 verdict over the Cincinnati Reds which gave him his 98th National League triumph.

"I didn't think when this season began it would be that tough to win just eight more games," said the 34-year-old Pappas, whose 17-7 record last season gave him a NL career total of 92-78.

Pappas, who had a 110-74 mark with Baltimore in the American League, is trying to emulate the only modern 100-game winner in both leagues, Jim Bunning who won 106 in the NL and 108 in the AL.

"It was a welcome sight to see us get some runs, tainted or not," said Pappas, who hadn't won since June 28 and lost five straight decisions in seven starts. "I've been trying to get untracked for two months after early season arm trouble but I wasn't getting any runs."

The Cubs, outhit by Cincinnati 13-6, with 11 of the hits off Pappas, were given five unearned runs, including four in a five-run fourth inning capped by Paul Popovich's three-run homer.

It was the season's first homer for Popovich and 13th of his major league career.

That prompted some wag to inscribe on a clubhouse blackboard: "Ruth 714 Aaron 704 Popo 13."

"Anyway, you're the Serbian home run king," outfielder Rick Monday shouted at Popovich, who countered with: "Maybe in 60 years I can catch those other guys."

Pappas, who has completed only one game in 24 starts, was yanked in the seventh when the Reds closed their deficit to 6-4. His successor, Dave LaRoche, pitched a leadoff homer to Johnny Bench in the eighth.

Hank Aaron, the second greatest home run hitter in baseball history, has dispelled his own fear that he was possibly becoming a singles and doubles hitter.

What had prompted the notion was that the 39-year-old Atlanta slugger had gone three consecutive days without a homer. After slamming one homer each day last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aaron bounced into a double play in his only appearance Sunday.

Then the Braves were idle Monday, and on Tuesday he had three hits—two singles and a double—against St. Louis, prompting his light-hearted description of himself as "a singles and doubles hitter."

But Wednesday night, Aaron regained his home run touch, slamming his 32nd of the season and the 705th of his career, putting him within nine of Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714.

"I'll take that way of getting out of a singles and doubles rut any time," he quipped.

It was surprising that Aaron was in such a jocular mood, because the Braves had lost to the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 on pinch hitter Jose Cruz' two-run pinch homer in the ninth.

Pirates 4, Astros 0

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose allowed only six hits in a 4-0 victory for his ninth triumph in 10 lifetime decisions against the Astros.

The Pirates scored all their runs in the seventh off Tom Griffin, with the key hits being a run-scoring double by Richie Hebner and RBI singles by Rennie Stennett and Gene Clines.

Mets 4, Dodgers 3

John Milner's second game-winning hit in two games, a run-scoring single with two out in the bottom of the ninth, capped a two-run New York rally and lifted the Mets to their 4-3 triumph over Los Angeles. The setback left the pacesetting Dodgers two games ahead of runner-up Cincinnati in the NL West.

Giants 3, Expos 2

Gray Matthews' tie-breaking, run-scoring single in the seventh provided San Franisco with its 3-2 victory over the Expos and gave the Giants a sweep of their three-game series in Montreal.

Padres 8, Phillies 3

Fred Kendall drove in three runs with two triples, as San Diego trounced Philadelphia 8-3 and handed 1972 NL Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton his 15th loss in 26 decisions.

Gronen, of Boulder, Colo., who was disqualified, Derby officials announced two days after the race, because of illegal equipment found in his racer. Fayette grid squads prep for scrimmages

Pre-season high school football practice is nearing the end of its second full week and both Washington C.H. and Maimi Trace are now preparing for their interscholastic scrimmages.

At Miami Trace, the Panthers gridders spent the bulk of their practice session working on sweeps. New head coach Fred Zechman was especially impressed with the performances of senior Greg Wieland and Mark Moore. Both are guards and pulled from their positions well to lead the blocking, according to the Miami Trace mentor.

The Miami Trace booster club membership drive will be held Thursday. Members of the Miami Trace football team will start canvassing at 5 p.m. Memberships are priced at $2 per person.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer sent his Washington C.H. footballers through defensive drills in Wednesday's morning drills and through an offensive workout in the afternoon.

Washington C.H. was minus senior Garth Cox and Billy Shaw at Wednesday's practice session. Both are sidelined with back problems.

U.S. Cagers face Brazil

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States basketball team, tense and upset after surviving a fist fight with Cuban rivals, faced another tough match today in a bid for a gold medal at the World University games.

The Americans were scheduled to play Brazil in the semifinals—and hoping for something more peaceful than the scenes that erupted at Moscow's Red Army Gymnasium Wednesday.

The United States beat Cuba 98-76. In the last two minutes of the game, the entire Cuban team raced from the bench and launched into a wild fist-flailing, chair-swinging melee.

It was the first violence involving athletes in these Games, which have been in progress for a week and involve more than 50 countries.

Tommy Burleson, 7-foot-4 star from North Carolina State who was in the center of the brawl, said, "We were so shaken afterwards that we couldn't speak as we rode back to the athletes' village in the bus."

The winner of Thursday's game is expected to meet the Soviet Union in the final Friday. The Americans are thirsting for victory over the Russians as revenge for the 51-50 defeat at the 1972 Munich Olympics.

The American swimmers didn't have a happy day, either. They were expected to clean up all, or most, of the six gold medals at stake but instead shared them 3-3 with the Russians.

A hectic day

We all know that football season has arrived and among the aching muscles and sleepy boys are a few dishelved mothers.

Here's how one mother described a rather hectic day during pre-season high school practice:

"Around 4:30 a.m. I was awakened by the droning of a hungry mosquito. Turning on the light I began persuit of the crafty insect and at 5 a.m. I decided to give up and go back to bed.

"At 7:25 a.m. the phone awakened me and to my surprise I had slept through the 6 a.m. alarm. It was my turn to take the football players to practice. They were due at 7:35 a.m.

"Needless to say, my neighbors had to take their own boys to practice and my husband tumbled out of bed having worked until 1:30 a.m. and said he would take our son. Quickly I threw a so-called breakfast together and helped with the football gear that was still in the dryer from the night before.

"OFF THEY went in a tear. Pulling my robe close and brushing the hair from my brow I sipped on a cup of well-needed tea and wandered into the living room and what to my eyes should appear but my son's game book!

"Into our other son's car I jumped and tried to catch up with them At 7:55 a.m. the book was to be used. At least I would catch my husband on the way back so he could deliver the book since I wasn't dressed for the occasion. Red pajamas and a terrycloth robe just didn't seem right.

"The 10 miles to Miami Trace seemed endless but finally the high school appeared, but no husband. I discovered later that he had gone home the other way through Jeffersonville.

"A nice boy was standing at the edge of the school. Hopefully, I drove up and asked him to do me a great favor. He said he would take the book in for me sensing my distress. My son did receive his book, but guess who gave it to him — you're right — the coach!

"By evening things had settled down and we went to my daughter's softball game. Only one thing, I locked the car doors and left the keys in the ignition. Just one of those days."

Mike Reid serious about music

"It's irritating," growls the usually-placid Cincinnati Bengals' defensive star whom opposing quarterbacks contend is strong enough to pack his own piano to the many concerts in which he performs.

The time has come to set the record straight, says Reid.

"Music is not a hobby with me. It's a damn important part of my life.

"I've been labeled as the serious, classical type. The writers like to give the impression that I walk on stage in long tails and white ties. A lot has been written about it and a lot of it isn't true. It makes good copy," sayd the former All-American from Penn State.

"I've yet to meet a writer who will make an effort to understand what music means to me. Music is the ultimate to me. It's a natural feeling of release," says Reid, who often finishes a demanding day with a soothing hour-long setting at the campus chapel organ at Wilmington College.

"Musical involvement is a personal thing. It's my greatest satisfaction," says Reid, an AllPro defensive tackle in the National Football League last year in only his third season.

The 25-year-old Pennsylvanian says he plans a heavy schedule of concerts in the off-season next year.

Cowboys meet Oilers in pro grid reunion

HOUSTON (AP) — Instead of calling it the Texas pro football championship game, tonight's Dallas Cowboy-Houston Oiler exhibition might more aptly be named the reunion.

The Cowboys, like visiting kin, are anxious to see what Oiler General Manager Sid Gillman has accomplished since he left the Cowboy family as assistant coach last season to rebuild the Oilers.

The Cowboys' visit may be a little premature. Although Gillman has taken forward strides, it may take him awhile to get the house in order.

Houston has lost all three of its exhibition games, extending the Oilers' losing string to 14. Last season's record was 1-13, worst in the National Football League.

The Cowboys have continued to prosper without Gillman and come into the game with a 2-1 exhibition record, including last week's 24-14 victory over New Orleans.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry will start Roger Staubach at quarterback and Coach Bill Peterson will counter with Dan Pastorini for the Oilers.

Lance Rentzel, a former Cowboy, was expected to learn today whether he also is a former member of the Los Angeles Rams.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, suspended Rentzel July 20 "for conduct detrimental" to the NFL.

Rentzel, who is appealing a marijuana possession case, also appealed the suspension. Superior Court Judge David A. Thomas said in Los Angeles he would rule today on whether to issue a preliminary injunction which would allow the 29-year-old wide receiver to rejoin the Rams.

The Rams will be in Miami for one of two exhibition games scheduled for Friday night. But Miami's No. 3 quarterback won't be there.

Jim Del Gaizo was traded by the Dolphins to the Green Bay Packers Wednesday for the Packers' next two second-round draft choices.

The Cincinnati Bengals, who will be at Detroit for the other Friday night game, traded veteran linebacker Bill Peterson to the New England Patriots for a future draft pick.

The Kansas City Chiefs, at home to Green Bay Sunday night, gave up a 1974 draft choice Wednesday for New York Giants lineman Wayne Walton. The 6-foot-5, 265-pounder was the Giants No. 2 draft pick in 1971 from Abilene Christian.

The Giants meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday afternoon and the Chicago Bears will be at Buffalo in another afternoon game.

The Redskins are at home to Baltimore in one of six games scheduled for Saturday. Other action puts Oakland at Minnesota, Atlanta at Cleveland, New England at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis.

Running back John Riggins, who has failed to come to contract terms with Coach Weeb Ewbank, ended his holdout Wednesday night. The third-year man showed up at the Jets training camp in good condition and said he and Ewbank would "iron out" his request for a $150,000 season.

The Cards, meanwhile, lost veteran defensive end Don Brumm to retirement. Brumm, a 6-foot-4, 250-pound lineman, was the Cardinals' first-round draft pick in 1963 and an all-pro in 1968.

Midget car races expected to attract large audience

A fine crowd is expected to attend the midget car races which will be held Saturday night at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Qualifications for the midget races, sponsored by Raceway Promotions, of Washington C.H., will begin at 7 p.m. with a six-event program scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

The midget races, the first to be held in Washington C.H. since 1965, are sanctioned by the Buckeye Auto Racing Association. Officials have scheduled a Sept. 2 rain date.

At least 25 entries are expected for the special program which will open with a four-lap trophy dash to be followed by three eight-lap heats, a 10-lap semifinal and a 25-lap feature.

Some of the top drivers on the midget racing circuit will be entering the program here. The drivers will be battling for a $1,500 purse against 40 per cent of the gate receipts.

Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1 for children ages 6-12. Children six and under will be admitted without charge.

MIDGET RACE LEADER — Bob Walters, of Dayton, who holds fourth place in the midget auto race point standings, will be one of the drivers entering a special program of midget races here Saturday night.

Crenshaw tourney favorite

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw, a pro for a week with career earnings of $903, was beseiged by autograph hounds when he finished play in the pro-am.

"I'm not used to all this attention," the 21-year-old Texan said as he scribbled his name time after time. "But this is fun."

Despite his youth and relative inexperience, the personable young man with the mod-length hair ranked as one of the favorites—certainly one of the gallery's favorites—going into today's first round in the $100.000 I.&M Open.

The game's big guns—Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf—don't get into action until this weekend in the second half of pro golf's only doubleheader. They'll play in the rich Match Play Championship Saturday and Sunday.

With those glamor names on the sidelines until Saturday, the crowds at the 6,786-yard, par-71 MacGregor Downs Golf and Country Club course—site of both tournaments—centered their attention on Crenshaw and 23-year-old Lanny Wadkins.

16-year-old wins clay target crown

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — John C. Comly, a 16-year-old from Lambertville, N. J., who won the Clay Target Championship of America at the 74th annual Grand American Trapshooting tournament Wednesday is the youngest shooter to ever hold that title.

But Comly won the youngest laurels by only a matter of days. He will be 17 next Tuesday.

Bengals face Detroit

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals will be on the rebound Friday when they meet the rugged Detroit Lions in Detroit in a pre-season National Football League game. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

The Bengals, stung 24-6 by the Cleveland Browns, will have to be at their best to topple the Lions, who are 2-1 in the pre-season with victories over Washington and Kansas City and a narrow loss to Baltimore.

"THE LIONS have a veteran team and a club that is very physical," commented Paul Brown, Bengals' general manager and head coach, who saw his team's record tumble to 1-2 with the loss to the Browns.

"I know that we'll have to play better than we did against the Browns if we expect to win," added Brown.

Brown indicated that Ken Anderson, who did not see action in the Cleveland game, would open at quarterback against the Lions. Anderson had a sore leg last week and Brown decided not to use him against Cleveland.

The Bengals hope to get a look at first round draft choice Issac Curtis, a wide receiver from San Diego State, for the first time in the pre-season Friday night. Curtis pulled a hamstring muscle shortly after reporting to camp following the College All-Stars-Miami Dolphins game.

It is also hoped that guard Pat Matson, defensive end Ken Johnson and linebacker Bill Peterson will be off the injury list and ready to go against Detroit.

Lions' coach Don McCafferty has two top-flight quarterbacks in Greg Landry and Bill Munson and is expected to alternate them against the Bengals. Landry threw touchdown strikes to Charley Sanders and Al Barnes in the Lions' loss to Baltimore last week.

The Detroit running game revolves around Altie Taylor, Steve Owens and Mel Farr.

THE BENGALS' pre-season record shows a victory over Philadelphia, 45-21, and losses to Cleveland, 24-6, and Miami, 14-13. The Lions have downed Washington, 17-14, and Kansas City, 17-16, and lost to Baltimore 32-28.

The Bengals have beaten the Lions twice and lost to them once in pre-season play.

Cincinnati toppled Detroit, 31-24, in 1971 and 28-20 last year. The Lions belted the Bengals, 31-14, in 1970.

The Lions won the only regular season game between the two teams 31-3 in 1970.

The game will be broadcast over the Bengal Network with WLW in Cincinnati the originating station. WLW-T will televise the game back to the Cincinnati area.

Linebacker traded by Cincinnati Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— One linebacker was traded and another fined in developments Wednesday at the Cincinnati Bengals training camp.

Bill Peterson, a 28-year-old veteran of five seasons, was sent to the New England Patriots for a future undisclosed draft choice, the Bengals said.

Tim Kearney, a second-year linebacker from Northern Michigan, was notified by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the fine for fighting that led to his ejection in Sunday's game against the Cleveland Browns.

Lucky Lowell wins feature at Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Longshot Lucky Lowell burst out of sixth place in the stretch to win the featured conditioned pace Wednesday night at the Latonia Trots.

The victory, in 2:04 over the mile course, paid $35.40, $11.60 and $3.80 at 16-1 odds.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Diabetic Must Face Facts

During my husband's yearly health examination it was found that he has diabetes.

He has no symptoms and we wonder why he needs insulin. He is 42 years old and is terribly upset that he will need treatment for the rest of his life.

Mrs. H.J., Mich.

Dear Mrs. J.:

It often comes as a shocking surprise for a healthy person to learn that he or she has diabetes.

At first, many patients resent the diagnosis and even refuse to accept its reality. Physicians are accustomed to such emotional responses and spend a great deal of time assuring their patients that the discovery of this condition actually is a great boon in disguise.

The greatest single problem confronting the physician today is to uncover disease long before there is gross evidence of it. The ultimate aim of all good medical practice is to bring to light unrecognized and symptomless conditions.

The pre-diabetic and the early diabetic, when brought out into the open, are the best candidates for control.

It is only when a condition becomes ingrained and complicated that treatment and control become difficult.

It is an axiom about diabetes that once you are a diabetic, treatment, with or without insulin, must be continued indefinitely.

It should be recalled that before the revolutionary discovery of insulin, the life and productivity of a diabetic were precarious. Today, with insulin, with controlled diet, and with drugs taken by mouth, the diabetic can live a normal, uncomplicated and productive life.

Your husband will adjust himself psychologically and physically to his newly uncovered condition, especially when he realizes how fortunate it is that the condition was discovered early and treated promptly.

The decision to use insulin is entirely a medical one based on studies of the blood made at regular intervals. It is understandable that patients would prefer to be treated with the oral drugs or by diet alone. Sometimes this is possible. Yet the ultimate objective is to control diabetes without a patient's pressure for one or another kind of treatment.

At first, your husband may think it is a monumental job to be under constant surveillance. After a short while he will find that the advantages of good prolonged health completely overshadow the initial nuisance of regular treatment.

The fact that his condition was discovered during a routine physical examination further emphasizes the value of yearly checkups.

My 17-year-old daughter is prone to develop sties. Is it possible that she has less resistance to these infections than other people? Can they be avoided?

Mrs. I.B.N., Ky.

Dear Mrs. N.:

A sty, or hordeolum, is a tiny abscess in one of the glands near the edge of the eyelid.

There is no special inherited weakness for sties. More likely, they are the result of rubbing the eyes with unclean fingers.

Sometimes, overuse of eye makeup is followed by too rough removal.

Anti-theft devices said not helpful

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston detective says anti-theft devices on new cars help very little in preventing a car from being stolen.

"The professionals always seem to find the ways and means to take cars they want," burglary and theft Det. J.D. Hunt says.

Late model cars have been rolling off the assembly lines equipped with what manufacturers call improved ignition safety systems and other items such as locking steering wheel mechanisms. Burglary alarms on a few makes of cars were offered as optional equipment.

"A big screw driver is usually all it takes to break the steering wheel locks," Hunt says. "And thieves have even used wrenches to haul away some cars."

Hunt says the last real improvement on cars came a few years ago when one manufacturer stopped making ignitions where the car could be started without the key — in the "off" instead of "lock" position.

"That was changed and it probably had some effect on the 'joy riding' thieves," Hunt says.

Wheat farm return ignores size

By DON KENDELL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wheat farm of 1,500 acres returns about as much money in proportion to investment as an operation of 12,000 acres, according to a study by the Agriculture Department.

That conclusion, however, is carefully qualified in a report published in August's "Farm Index". The publication is issued monthly by the Economic Research Service.

"Economists who studied wheat farms in the Great Plains found very little difference in the rate of return, if you don't count purchase discounts or sales premiums and land appreciation," the report said.

All considered, the report said, the return to wheat farmers regardless of size — assuming full ownership — worked out to about 5 per cent on their investment after taxes.

The study contained interviews with 80 large-scale farmers. There was no breakdown of net profits by size of operations. But some advantages were noted for big operators.

"The larger farms held the edge when considering the discounts on purchased inputs (such as fuel and fertilizer) and the premiums on sales (for high quality)," the report said.

"The study estimated that discounts for volume purchases can reduce costs by about $1 per acre, and premiums on grain sales can lift income by around $1.30 per acre."

When those advantages are considered, the larger farms showed slightly higher profits than the smaller units but in no case exceeded 7 per cent of equity, the report said.

"Land appreciation (increase in value) raises rates of returns on all sizes but slightly more on the larger farms," the report said.

Other findings included:

—Sixteen of the 80 wheat farms surveyed were incorporated. The report, however, said all were "closely held family corporations."

—Thirty-one had ownership and management interests in businesses besides farming. About two-thirds of those investments were related to farming, including grain elevators, machinery dealerships and other businesses.

—Production techniques varied little by farm size except that larger units used more fertilizer and had yields averaging about two bushels per acre larger. Also, the larger farms used more custom combines to harvest wheat.

—Sixty per cent of the farmers received volume discounts on machinery purchases, 45 per cent on fuels and 41 per cent on herbicides. Rates of discounts varied widely.

Hunting, Fishing Day activities planned here

National Hunting and Fishing Day, a day of recognition for hunters and fishermen who have contributed millions of dollars for conservation projects over the years, will be observed in Fayette County Saturday, Sept. 22.

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association is in the process of planning a full day of activities at its lodge on Stafford Road in observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

The Fish and Game Association here will have conservation exhibits and displays plus several types of outdoor recreation. The public is invited to participate in the activities.

Hunters and anglers across the nation are holding special programs on National Hunting and Fishing Day in an attempt to get the general public concerned about conservation.

Train nicks front section of vehicle

The reverberating bellows which erupt from train engines are often annoying, especially at night, but Samuel Wood was thankful that he heard them yesterday.

Wood, 19, of Chillicothe, was driving north on S. Fayette Street Wednesday morning when the wailing horns of a B&O engine alerted him to an approaching train. He was momentarily caught in the terror of not being able to stop short of the track, nor make it across.

Fortunately, he was able to stop and back up far enough that the train barely caught the front end of the truck he was driving. He was not injured and damage to the truck was less than $100.

2 burglaries investigated

While on routine patrol Thursday morning, Deputy Sheriff Don L. Cox discovered an open door at the rear of Ritt's Pizza, located on U.S. 41 at Elm Street. The building had been entered and its vending machines rifled.

Later in the morning, the sheriff's office received a report that Warner's Arco station, U.S.35-SE, had been broken into and a money box taken.

Both burglaries are still under investigation by the sheriff's department. The Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, has been contacted and will assist the department in its efforts.

A 14-year-old county youth has been apprehended by the Sheriff in connection with an incident at the Hickory Lane Church of Christ. The Rev. Keith Wooley reported Wednesday that windows of the church had been broken out, apparently with a BB gun, sometime Tuesday night. The youth was picked up Wednesday evening.

Halsey Ward, of Bloomingburg, reported a similar incident at the Bloomingburg water pumping station Tuesday night, but as yet there seems to be no connection between the two.

Auto stolen from city lot

A bicycle stolen Wednesday was found by the police about 4 a.m. today at the corner of Washington Avenue and Grove Street. The bike was claimed today by Mrs. Malcom Jette.

John Sullivan, 914 E. Market St., reported to city police Tuesday that his car had been stolen from the city parking lot. He left the auto in the lot Monday night and discovered that it was missing when he returned for it the next day. He said that he had the keys in his possession while he was away, but also stated that he had lost a set of keys about two weeks ago which had not been recovered. Investigation of the theft is continuing.

Keith Eckles, 1407 Washington Ave., reported that a 10-speed bicycle was taken from his garage sometime Tuesday night.

Indict 10 persons in statewide stolen car ring

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)-A special Franklin County grand jury indicted 10 persons Wednesday in connection with a car theft ring police said had been operating in 21 cities in Ohio for about 10 years, Prosecutor George C. Smith said.

Smith said an untold number of cars had been stolen by members of the ring with losses running into thousands of dollars.

Cars stolen from used car dealers or leasing agencies were altered and then sold to individuals through newspaper advertisements, the prosecutor said.

The indictments climaxed a three-month investigation by Columbus police, the Ohio Highway Patrol, the National Auto Theft Bureau and Smith's office.

Those indicted were identified as Clarence F. Moyer and Donald Moyer of Crestline; Oakley Barnett, Robert Barnett, Kenneth Barnett and Melvin Barnett of Willard, and James M. McCoy, Robert F. Guinsler, Margaret Frum and Tadesuz Zaleweski of Columbus.

Charges in the indictments included 60 counts of auto theft conspiracy, auto conversion, receiving and concealing stolen motor vehicles, altering registrations and titles, forgery and larceny by trick. The defendant were not all indicted on the same charges.

Smith said the operation involved the purchase of "junk" cars from Moyer's Used Cars, a junkyard in Crestline. He said the vehicle identification plates were then taken from those cars and titles obtained from the junk dealer. Cars were then stolen matching the description on the titles, the prosecutor said.

Smith said the thefts and subsequent sales occurred in Akron, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Crestline, Dover, Coshocton, Willard, Lima, Newark, Milan, Norwalk, Wooster, Monroeville, Mansfield, Bowling Green, Xenia, Findlay, Washington Court House and Millersville.

Sirica hears 2-hour debate

Expect Nixon tapes ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tough federal judge who presided over the Watergate trial says he will decide within a week whether to order President Nixon to release tape recordings of nine presidential conversations.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who already had received 123 pages of written argument, listened to a two-hour courtroom debate Wednesday between Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox and Charles Alan Wright, President Nixon's lawyer.

He said he would rule by next Wednesday on Cox's request that he order the President to obey a subpoena demanding the tapes of conversations about Watergate.

Wright disclosed in his argument that he has not heard the tapes.

"The President has told me that in one of the tapes there is national security information so sensitive that he does not feel free even to reveal it to me," Wright said.

In his news conference Wednesday, the President repeated that "we will not agree to the Senate committee's desire to have, for example, its chief investigator listen to the tapes, or the special prosecutor's desire to listen to the tapes also."

Nixon said he would oppose "any compromise to the principle of confidentiality."

Wright argued that "if we go back only 18 months...no body of responsible opinion said that the court has the power to overrule the judgment of the President."

It was Watergate, said Wright, that has brought about this change in interpretation of the Constitution.

Wright also contended that to hold that Sirica, a district court judge, has the power to order the President to surrender confidential documents would set a precedent for all 400 federal District court judges in the country.

Ex-officials deny burglary claims

But some officials from those administrations deny any knowledge of such break-ins.

"No activity was authorized by me and I think we're entitled to know what he's talking about," said former Atty. Gen. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who served in the Justice Department in various positions under both Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

George Christian, former press secretary to Johnson, said: "I don't know what he is talking about." Nixon, at his press conference Wednesday in San Clemente, Calif., said he views as "illegal, unauthorized and completely deplorable" the burglary of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg by a unit directed by White House aides.

But he also noted that under both Kennedy and Johnson, "burglarizing of this type" took place "on a very large scale."

Nixon did not elaborate and Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused to give details.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman refused to confirm or deny that such burglaries had taken place in the past, saying the information "can only come from the White House."

Nixon last May, in a lengthy statement on Watergate, first mentioned that there may have been burglaries for national security purposes engaged in by the FBI during previous administrations.

But, he said, the FBI had halted such activities in 1966.

Nixon also admitted, in the same May 22 statement, that in 1970 he had approved a plan for expanded domestic intelligence gathering that included "surreptitious entry—breaking and entering, in effect" in national security situations. But Nixon said the plan, proposed by former presidential aide Tom Charles Huston, never was put into effect because of opposition from the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Katzenbach, who was deputy attorney general under former Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and served as attorney general from 1965-1966, said he felt Nixon's accusations were unfair.

"He ought to say who authorized it and who knew about it," said Katzenbach.

Nixon fields Watergate questions

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Declaring that Watergate is "water under the bridge," and giving explanations that conceded no personal negligence, Richard Nixon responded Wednesday for the first time in five months to direct questions about the scandal that has shaken his presidency.

"I shall not resign," Nixon said.

And in the latest of his attempts to put Watergate behind him, he declared it is time to get on with the "business of the people."

Polls show Nixon's prior statements and speeches of Watergate innocence were unconvincing to many. So the President sought this time to regain public confidence by answering questions at a news conference, a move urged by many of his political friends.

Nixon's replies during the 50-minute event outside the Western White House contained few new disclosures to add to the mountain of often contradictory Watergate detail produced by investigations and statements.

But they provided the President's view of how certain events struck him and why he reacted to them as he did. And though there was not time for many of the lingering Watergate questions to be raised or answered, Nixon, by holding the news conference, could now say he had made himself available to answer any of those questions.

Nixon opened with the announcement that William P. Rogers is resigning as secretary of state and will be succeeded by Henry A. Kissinger.

But the preoccupation with Watergate showed strikingly when reporters asked not a single question about that toplevel change, which in more normal times would have produced a barrage of inquiries.

Instead, when questioning did veer from Watergate, it moved to another area of rumored scandal, the Maryland political payoff probe involving Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Nixon expressed confidence in his two-time running mate and, as Agnew did Tuesday, voiced outrage at leaks to news media from sources close to the case.

In another cover-up area touched at the end of the session under hot California sunshine, the President said he had no apology for ordering bombing in neutral Cambodia during 1969. The bombing was a secret until recently and had been covered up by false military reports. Nixon said it helped save American lives.

Kissinger named Secretary of State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger, the principal foreign-policy theoretician in the Nixon administration, is moving in as secretary of state in a Cabinet shift that dramatizes the drive for warm relations with China and the Soviet Union.

William P. Rogers is giving way, as affable as ever — he said Wednesday he felt like "the last of the whooping cranes" — to return to a successful law practice in New York.

Rogers, 60, was the only remaining member of President Nixon's initial Cabinet. He said he never intended to stay past the first term but remained an additional seven months to help nail down the ceasefire in Vietnam and to fulfill other diplomatic missions.

"I would have left whether there had been a Watergate or not," he told reporters.

At a news conference in San Clemente, Calif., President Nixon announced Rogers' resignation and said he is nominating Kissinger to replace him.

If confirmed by the Senate, Kissinger, a 50-year-old bachelor who admires movie actresses and other fashionable women, will be the first Jew and the first naturalized citizen to serve as secretary of state. Kissinger's family fled Nazi Germany when he was a teenager.

Foreign policy is considered the administration's strongest point, and Kissinger is clearly the chief strategist. He promoted Nixon's overture to China, including the historic trip last year to Peking, the summit exchanges with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and the current effort to reshape U.S. relations with European allies and Japan.

And he was the driving force to negotiate a ceasefire agreement in Vietnam.

However Rogers may have felt privately, he spoke proudly of the administration's foreign-policy accomplishments and of his own role. The 1970 ceasefire that halted the war between Israel and the Arab states gave him the greatest personal satisfaction.

"My sole regret is that we were not able to end the war in Indochina more speedily," he told a group of newsmen as he sipped a soft drink in his comfortable eighth-floor office at the State Department. "I don't see much more that we could have accomplished than we have."

Kissinger still will hold his position as Nixon's national security adviser. The dual role is unprecedented. Even Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who generally had his way, was denied it by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nixon explained that the purpose of keeping Kissinger on the White House staff is to smooth cooperation with other departments.

Food price surge seen after Sept. 12

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can expect another surge in food prices after Sept. 12, but the administration says it shouldn't be as bad as the last big increase.

The Cost of Living Council Wednesday released its proposed new Phase 4 food price controls scheduled to take effect Sept. 12.

The council said the controls basically will put the food industry under the same restrictions on price increases as the rest of the economy.

Officials said the controls will require "a substantial cost absorption on the part of food wholesalers and retailers" and will keep prices below what they might otherwise be.

Council director John T. Dunlop said "some price increases at the consumer level are expected" when the regulations go into effect. But he predicted consumers would not be as hard-hit as they were when the price freeze was lifted from food on July 18.

Administration economists have acknowledged that postfreeze price increases were higher than expected.

The council invited public comment on the regulations until Sept. 4, after which they could be revised.

Under the prevailing temporary food regulations that went into effect on July 18, all levels of the food industry may increase prices only to reflect increased costs at the producer level, known as raw agricultural costs.

The new regulations will allow food wholesalers and retailers, such as supermarkets, to increase their prices to reflect other justified costs, such as for labor or transportation.

They will not allow price increases for profit. A supermarket, for example, must maintain the same profit markup, or margin, as it had in a base period.

State Fair opens today; hope for 2.5 million gate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Fair opened today amidst predictions of record-breaking attendance should the weather hold out.

The National Weather Service forecast partly cloudy skies through Friday with the temperature in the upper 70s to lower 80s.

Gov. John Gilligan cut the ribbon to officially open the 12-day exposition of livestock and farm equipment displays, entertainment and amusement rides.

He ushered into the fair two Columbus youths, who set a new record for camping out to be the first to enter the fair. Keith Robinette, 12, and Darrell Thompson, 14, camped at the gate of the fair grounds 344 and one-half hours. The previous record was 216 hours.

The governor's wife, Katie, also attended a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the Columbus Building where items made by residents of the state's mental health and mental retardation institutes would be sold.

Champions were selected in three 4-H saddle horse showmanship classes. Amy Knerr of Licking County won in the Western Showmanship Class, Lorie Naylor of Tuscarawas County in the English Showmanship Class, hunt type, and Ricky Barricklow of Brown County in the English Showmanship, saddle type.

Thursday's grand stand shows will be at 4:30 and 8:30 p.m. featuring singers Helen Reddy and Mac Davis.

"I would like to think we will have 2.5 million people come to the fair this year," said Victor Lucas, fair manager.

He has until Labor Day, Sept. 3 to meet that goal.

"I definitely feel, the weather being good, that we will surpass last year's attendance. We lost two weekends last year because of bad weather," he said.

The three-day extended forecast this weekend through Monday calls for a chance of showers daily. High temperatures are expected in the upper 70s and 80s with nighttime lows in the upper 50s and 60s.

The current attendance record was set in 1970 with 2,219,000. Last year, 2,209,000 fairgoers paraded through the Columbus exposition gates.

Scheduled for Friday on Crippled Children's Day, Auctioneer's Day and Agricultural Hall of Fame Day is a breakfast in honor of the agriculturalists.

Also on the program are a luncheon for crippled children, H.R. Pufnstuf Circus, senior citizens talent show, amateur boxing tournament and singers Helen Reddy and Mac Davis once again at the grandstand.

Seek new warden for Lucasville Prison

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William J. Whealon, the 44-year-old sociologist who became the first superintendent of the state's troubled, new maximum security prison at Lucasville, resigned Wednesday.

The announcement came from Dr. Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Ohio Department of Correction and Rehabilitation. Cooper who said Whealon cited bad health as the reason for his departure.

Bernard I. Barton, the department's director of institutional operators and former superintendent of the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, will take over temporarily, Cooper said.

The Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, set in rural Scioto County, has been besieged with problems since it opened last fall.

Those problems boiled over July 24 when two guards died at the prison, one at the hands of an inmate and another when a fellow correctional officer mistakenly shot him while trying to subdue the prisoner.

The shootings brought in their wake a massive shakedown of the prison's 1,000 inmates, combined with extra security measures. The actions resulted in an outcry from prisoners, their families and members of the Governor's Task Force on Correction.

At the same time, the nearly 400 guards at the institution complained conditions were unsafe.

"I was aware he had not been well," Cooper said of his former superintendent whose resignation at the prison was immediately effective. But the director added Whealon's letter of resignation did not state the nature of any medical problem.

Cooper said Whealon will go on sick leave and be assigned to other duties within the department when he returns.

Barton, who has 17 years experience in corrections, will serve until a permanent replacement can be found, Cooper said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan voiced complete confidence in Cooper's ability to iron out the problems at Lucasville.

"I have the fullest confidence in Cooper to make the decisions that have to be made," Gilligan said.

At least one member of the governor's task force on corrections felt the resignation might herald a policy switch at the facility.

Cleveland attorney Gerald Messerman, a member of the Governor's Task Force on Corrections, said, "His (Whealon's) intentions were good. He wanted to establish an enlightened and sophisticated program and it's unfortunate it didn't work out.

"He's one of the first treatment-oriented (superintendents) that this state has had, and I think that from this point on it's likely to be more custodial oriented."

James Marshall, executive secretary of the Ohio Civil Service Employes Association, said his group wrote Cooper two weeks ago calling for Whealon's resignation.

"To begin with, we like Whealon. He is an extremely qualified person, but not in the area of custody. His whole background is in treatment," Marshall said.

Marshall said the July 24 shootings confirmed the concerns of the OCSEA, which he said represents a majority of the guards at Lucasville.

He called for a permanent replacement with a background in maximum-security custody.

John Holscher of Columbus, another member of the governor's Task Force, said he was not surprised by the resignation. He visited the prison last week.

"Whealon was under a tremendous

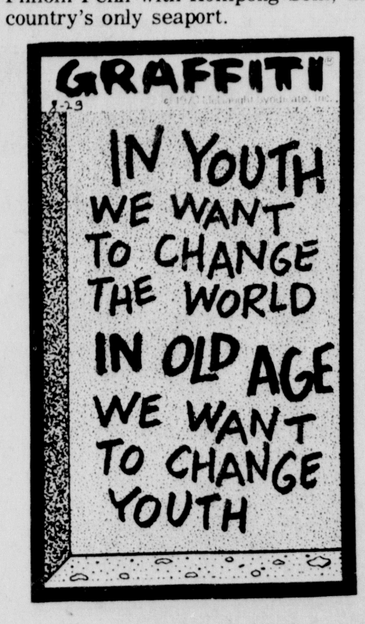
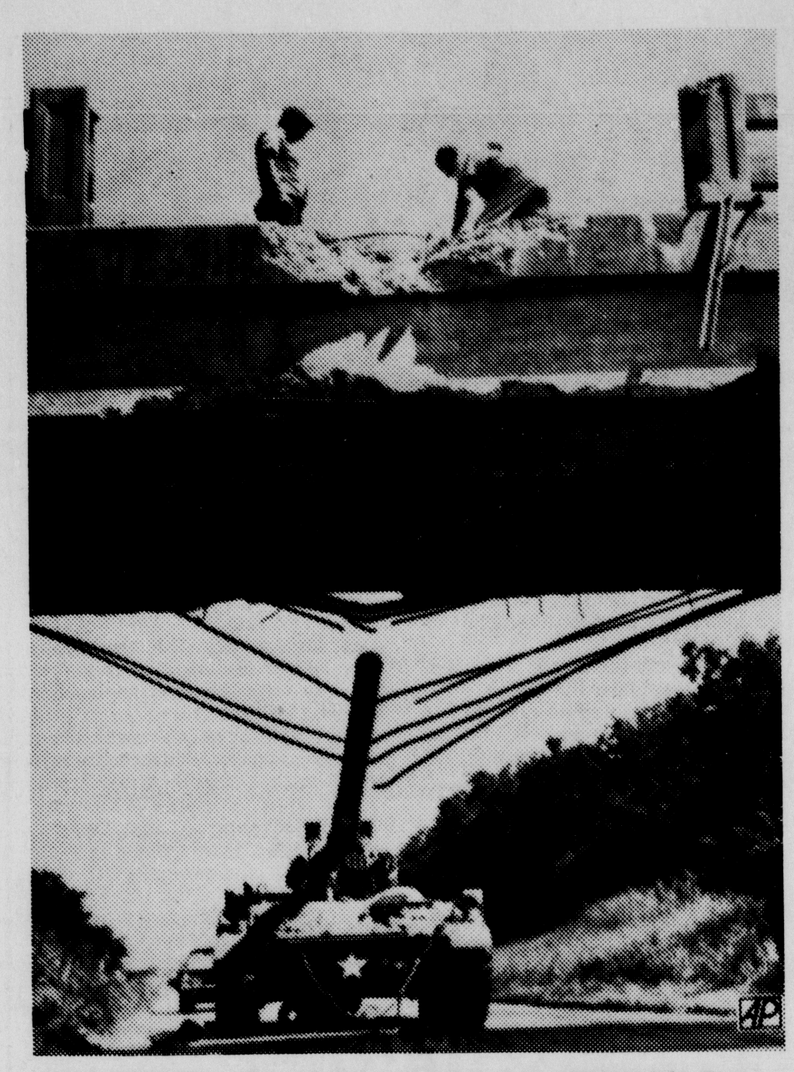
Cambodian units retake positions

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government troops have recaptured three positions important to the defense of the provincial capital of Kompong Speu and Phnom Penh's highway to the sea, the Cambodian military command reported today.

The positions are five, six and seven miles west of Kompong Speu, which is 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh on Highway 4. The highway connects Phnom Penh with Kompong Som, the country's only seaport.





GUNNED DOWN — This old overpass on Highway 69 at Whitewright, Texas, was wrecked when a Ft. Sill, Okla, 175 mm howitzer rammed its long barrel through the 12-inch concrete floor. The 30-ton gun was being hauled on a low-boy trailer to Ft. Benning, Ga., with its barrel slightly elevated as a safety precaution for rear-end traffic, but not accounting for the lower clearance of the Whitewright bridge.

Nixon threatener remains in jail

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Edwin M. Gaudet, a former New Orleans policeman accused of threatening President Nixon's life, remains in the Bernalillo County Jail today in lieu of $100,000 bond.

The 29-year-old resident of a Taos-area commune surrendered peacefully Wednesday after federal and local officers had combed the Sangre de Cristo Mountains for him for almost three days.

The surrender followed three trips into the rugged northern New Mexico mountains by Gaudet's wife Judy and a cousin, Stanley Gaudet of New Orleans.

The search began Monday afternoon when Edwin Gaudet slipped away from a Secret Service agent who was trying to serve a federal warrant at the Morning Star commune, about 12 miles north of Taos.

After surrendering, Gaudet told newsmen, "The government is organized crime. The Pope is the head of the Mafia. And I support Angela Davis for president."

Asked whether he had been in New Orleans on Aug. 15 and whether he had threatened Nixon, Gaudet replied, "I have to talk to my attorney before I discuss anything in the nature of the case."

He then was taken to Albuquerque for an appearance before U.S. Magistrate Robert McCoy, who set bond. Another hearing was set for Aug. 30 to determine if there is enough evidence to warrant transferring him to New Orleans for trial.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and five years in prison.

The Secret Service said it has no evidence linking Gaudet to an alleged conspiracy to kill the President during a visit to New Orleans on Monday.

The warrant claims that Gaudet said in a New Orleans drug store on or about Aug. 15, "Somebody ought to kill President Nixon. If no one has the guts, I'll do it."

Mrs. Gaudet has said she and her husband were not in New Orleans Aug. 15.

Gaudet, known only as "Cat" in the commune, has a fear of police, Stanley Gaudet said.

Stanley said Edwin's fear stemmed from his experiences as a former policeman and as a defendant being held by police.

"He used to tell me all the stuff they used to do," said Stanley. "They used to roll drunks and all that kind of stuff, and he hated that."

Edwin Gaudet was arrested in New Orleans in 1970 for throwing a burning American flag on Nixon's car.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Temperatures dropped to record readings of 44 at Toledo and 43 at Youngstown early today as clear skies and light winds allowed the mercury to plunge in Ohio.

But the National Weather Service said sunshine today should push readings back up to 75 or 80 degrees.

A slow moving low pressure system west of the state could cause some showers in Ohio tonight or Friday, forecasters said. Temperatures tonight will be closer to normal, with lows in the upper 50s and lower 60s.

Highs Friday will be in the upper 70s and lower 80s.

Variable cloudiness is expected in Ohio Saturday, Sunday and Monday with a chance of scattered showers all three days. Highs will range from the upper 70s to the 80s with lows in the upper 50s and 60s.

Heavy rains bring floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms roaming northwestern and north-central Iowa and southeastern Minnesota dumped 9.45 inches of rain on Peterson, Iowa, Wednesday night and early today.

Heavy thunderstorms dashed the western Dakotas Wednesday evening, leaving two to four inches of rain northeast of Rapid City, S.D. Both La Crosse, Wis., and Spencer, Iowa, were soaked by almost 2.5 inches and nearly two inches doused Rochester, Minn.

Thundershowers clung to widely scattered areas of Montana, northern Utah and eastern Idaho but had no significant effect on the many forest fires still burning on thousand of acres in the Northwest where dry, brittle conditions persisted.

Air standards may be eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency soon may ease its tightest air quality standards to allow power plants to continue burning coal, an administration source says.

An announcement of the move could come as early as today or Friday, the source said.

The source indicated EPA was considering an easing of its secondary standard limiting the permissible concentration of sulfur oxides in the air.

But there would be no tampering with the federal primary standards designed to protect human health, the source insisted.

Both the primary standards and the more stringent secondary standards, designed to protect plants, animals, property and the environment, were set by EPA on April 30, 1971.

Dollar sharply higher on marts

Lukens to test election law

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens said he would file suit in U.S. District Court here today to test an earlier ruling that he is ineligible to be a political candidate for the next five years.

Lukens, a former two-term conservative congressman from Middletown, attempted to file petitions for the U.S. Senate with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on Wednesday.

Brown, as he had done once before, turned down the effort, claiming Lukens was ineligible to seek any political office under Ohio law.

The one-time president of the national Young Republicans was rejected earlier as a Republican candidate for governor on the basis that he had filed his personal campaign expenditures from his last state senate campaign 12 days late.

Brown's rejection of Luken's petition was upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court last month.

Lukens told the Associated Press he wasn't necessarily a candidate for the Senate, but admitted "an interest" in the job. He said he was primarily interested in testing in federal court whether the Ohio statute would apply in federal elections.

If the law is declared unconstitutional, he said, it could make him eligible to run for governor or for his old congressional seat, now held by U.S. Rep. Walter E. Powell, a former state senator.

Lukens left Congress in 1969 to unsuccessfully run for governor in the GOP primary. He finished a surprising second in a three-way race that included two state officials, Auditor Roger Cloud and Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown.

Lukens' attempt to file candidacy petitions came less than one hour after he told a newsman they would be filed a day later. He said the change in plans came after his attorney told him he was planning to leave on a vacation early next week.

Less than two weeks ago, Lukens threatened to resign his Senate seat if he could get a good paying job. "I'm tired of being the only broke guy in the Ohio Senate," he said. "I'm going where the money is."

"Watergate is an episode that I deeply deplore and had I been running the campaign rather than trying to run the country, and particularly the foreign policy of this country at this time, it would never have happened," he said. "But that is water under the bridge, it is gone now."

Nixon's responses to the barrage of Watergate questions included a statement of apparent misplaced faith in John N. Mitchell, a more detailed rebuttal of certain charges by John W. Dean III and an explanation of what L. Patrick Gray III's warning meant to the President.

Mitchell told the Senate Watergate Committee that if Nixon had ever asked him about the break-in, Mitchell would have told all. But Mitchell said he hadn't volunteered the information because Nixon would have "lowered the boom" to the detriment of his campaign.

Nixon mentioned a March 22, 1973, meeting attended by Mitchell at which the President said "I kept pressing for the view that I had had throughout, that we must get this story out, get the truth out..."

He was then asked if this meant Mitchell was not telling the truth when he testified he would have told all if asked.

"I am not going to question Mr. Mitchell's veracity," said Nixon, "and I will only say that throughout I had confidence in Mr. Mitchell."

But he added: "Throughout I would have expected Mr. Mitchell to tell me in the event that he was involved or that anybody else was.

He did not tell me. I don't blame him for not telling me. He has given his reasons for not telling me. I regret that he did not, because he is exactly right. Had he told me, I would have blown my stack..."

Dean testified to the Senate committee that Nixon had discussed clemency for convicted Watergate figures and matter-of-factly discussed with Dean how there would be no problem in raising $1 million for the Watergate defendants.

Nixon has previously denied this talk took place, but Wednesday, he spelled out his version in greater detail.

The President said when Dean told him that one defendant, E. Howard Hunt, was demanding $120,000, Nixon pointed out that the defendants would also want clemency and "We can't give clemency." He said Dean agreed.

And then, said Nixon, he told Dean: "John, it is wrong, it won't work. We can't give clemency and we have got to get this story out."

Nixon said when he was warned by acting FBI director Gray that actions of White House aides might wound the President, he put Gray's remark into a context of discussions about whether the Central Intelligence Agency was involved.

There had been White House discussions of whether an FBI probe of Watergate might compromise unrelated CIA activities, according to Senate testimony.

But Nixon said Wednesday that he asked Gray if he had discussed the matter with the CIA deputy director, Gen. Vernon B. Walters.

"He said that he had," Nixon related. "He told me that Gen. Walters agreed that the investigation should be pursued and I told him to go forward with a full press on the investigation to which he has so testified."

"As far as the individuals were concerned, I assume that the individuals that he was referring to involved this operation with the CIA. That is why I asked him the Walters' question. When he cleared that up, he went forward with the investigation."

Thus, Nixon saw no other danger about which Gray might have been warning him. And later, he said he believed his two former top aides, John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, would be exonerated though they were forced to quit four months ago by the heat of Watergate.

Nixon again said he does not think tape recordings of his office conversations should be made available to the Watergate special prosecutor or the Senate Watergate committee.

Stock list posts gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market spurted ahead today, and analysts said the advance was primarily a technical recovery from a five-session decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which lost more than 23 points in the last week, had risen 9.33 to 861.23 at noon.

Advances held more than a 2-to-1 lead over declines in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The broadbased NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks had gained 0.49 to 54.04.

The rally carried over to the American Stock Exchange, where gainers outpaced losers and the price-change index was up .03 to 22.77.

On the Amex, Syntex added 3 to 88⅞ after a tardy opening. The drug maker announced that the fourth-quarter net had jumped from 68 cents a share in 1972 to 80 cents this year.

amount of pressure. He looked tired and worn," Holscher said.

Holscher said the superintendent has to insure the safety of the guards while trying to rehabilitate the inmates.

"That's a narrow and difficult track for the superintendent to handle," he said. He added that he hoped the task force would have a voice in selection of a new permanent superintendent.

Vic Everett, president of the Teamsters local which staged a guard sickout at the prison last week, said he believes Whealon resigned under duress.

"I have no way of knowing, but it's unfortunate that he has to get into a web that really was not of his making," Everett said.

About 70 Teamsters members called in sick after a fellow guard was disciplined for refusing to work alone in a cell block.

Dr. Harry Allen, an Ohio State University professor and task force member, said he was not surprised by the resignation either. But he said the committee's report to the governor did not contain a recommendation that Whealon be removed.

"We did not deal in personalities," he said.

The governor said he would make the task force report public in about a week. The report was written after committee members talked to inmates and prison staff Aug. 9 and 16.

Opinion And Comment

Moscow won't let them out

If the Soviet Union would like to make a gesture indicating a genuine desire for improved relations with the United States, it might try relaxing its harsh emigration policies. More specifically, it might life the heavy hand that prevents Soviet citizens with family ties in the United States from joining their loved ones in our country.

At the time of the June meetings between President Nixon and Communist Party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev it was hoped that Brezhnev would come bearing the gift of more humane emigration rules. Nothing of the kind occurred, despite Brezhnev's protestations of friendship and a yen for greater U.S.-Soviet rapport.

The number of people involved, so far as the United States is directly concerned, is not large. Still, the U.S. embassy in Moscow says there are 220 cases — involving a total of 650 persons — where there are legitimate grounds to enter the United States. For each of those individuals, this is a matter of the greatest importance.

One relatively new factor is that as a result of programs sponsored by the two governments there are more and more contacts between Soviet and American citizens. This leads increasingly to marriages, and in some cases Russians who married Americans have been denied permission to leave Russia.

The Soviet government's reluctance to permit emigration goes back a long time; indeed, this was evident in pre-revolutionary times. These days it appears to be strengthened by fear that easing emigration rules might lead to a big outflow of disaffected persons and members of Soviet minority groups.

The practical result of this tradition and these fears is that some people having a perfectly valid reason to emigrate to the United States are denied permission. Moscow should be insistently reminded by our government that this is a small but significant obstacle to continued improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Sound school fund plan

There are plausible grounds for disputing the government's claim that states must pay back 22.5 million dollars in allegedly misused educational aid funds. Many states contend that the misspending was not their fault, but can be blamed on faulty federal administration in the early years of the program.

Whatever interpretation one places on what occurred, it does appear that most of the sum in question did not get to the disadvantaged children for whom it was intended. The important thing is to see that ultimately such children will not be penalized by what is done to clear up the misspending controversy.

Seen in this light, the compromise now offered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is commendable. For what HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger is saying is that the government seeks to avoid further penalty against children aided unter Title I of the Elementary and Seconday Education Act. To this end the government proposes to withdraw demands for repayment by the states if they agree to spend an equivalent amount on aid to poor children.

The rationale is simple. If repayment were required, this would again deprive poor children of sums equivalent to those they already missed out on in previous years. Therefore, the thing is to see that such children get the money this time around. This would be a good solution, one that would satisfy the intent of federal aid-to-education law.

WASHINGTON CALLING. . .by Marquis Childs

Talks only to safe audiences

WASHINGTON — In his last year and a half in office Lyndon Johnson as a crippled President who had renounced re-election stayed with few exceptions in his public appearances within the confines of audiences certain to be if not sympathetic then safe. Military installations, hawkish groups supporting his bombing of North Vietnam and the expansion of the war in South Vietnam, this was the arena where he could hopefully get applause and where protesters would be at a minimum.

That is a dismaying precedent for President Richard Nixon who has three and a half years to go. He chose for his first appearance after his televised address the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans.

Sounding a clarion call to patriotism, coupled with an appeal for help against those who would exploit Watergate to interfere with his responsibilities to the nation and the world, he could anticipate a roaring response. Here, too, was a precedent with his responsibilities to the nation and the world, he could anticipate a roaring response. Here, too, was a precedent that finally found its way to the courts.

When the President went to Charlotte, N.C., for "Billy Graham Day" his mission in behalf of his great friend had been carefully plotted. A memorandum introduced in the Ervin committee investigation told of the threat of violent protests and demonstrations to disrupt the celebration. On this memorandum H.R. Haldeman, then one of the President's two chief lieutenants, had written "great" and "good."

"Did you really think that these demonstrators were subversives?" Sen. Lowell Weicker asked Haldeman.

"That was the information I had," he replied.

At the rally in Charlotte strong-arm tactics were used against young people, some of them with long hair, some passing out pamphlets, "Nixon Is a Sinner." Fourteen young people brought suit for damages charging they had been assaulted and deprived of their civil rights. In a remarkable opinion United States District Judge James B. McMillian spelled out in detail the bully-boy tactics used against the young protesters and ordered the case to trial on its merits.

The chief bully boy was Ernie Helms of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with a build, as Judge McMillan put it, like a Washington Redskins tackle. He seemed as chief bouncer to be coordinating the efforts of the army of Secret Service agents sent into Charlotte. Called to testify in the suit he refused, citing the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination.

In his 62-page opinion Judge McMillan found that the young people were no threat whatsoever to the President. Although they carried no weapons of any kind and for the most part were circumspect in their behavior, they were hustled out of the hall even when they had been admitted with bona fide tickets of admission. Under Helm's direction these tickets were declared counterfeit and the young shoved back out.

The Charlotte police and the Secret Service agents, Judge McMillan found, "Participated in a wholesale assault upon the civil right and liberties of numerous citizens, in violation of the First, Fourth, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution." Secrecy in government, refusal to account to oppressed citizens for actions they suffered, is a way, the judge wrote, to breed tyranny.

One of the few public addresses the President has made in the past three months was in late May when he spoke to the prisoners of war returned from Vietnam. Touching a half dozen patriotic themes he drew cheers and applause. The crescendo came when he said, "I think it is time in this country to quit making national heroes of those who steal secrets and publish them in the newspapers.

As he stated in the supplement to his Watergate television address he had previously stated — that the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist had been broken into by the "plumbers." So in denouncing Ellsberg without using his name in his talk to the prisoners of war he chose to ignore the fact of an illegal act to try to convict the alleged thief of secret papers.

"Bring us together" was the slogan Nixon picked up on the campaign trail in 1968. He may buttress his position with the right wing by the loud patriotic theme with its echo of the Communist hunter of the past. But this will not help to unite a deeply divided and doubting country.

Gilligan inks Majority Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan signed into law today a bill lowering the legal age of majority in Ohio from 21 to 18 years.

The bill lowers the minimum legal age in most areas, but maintains the minimum age at 21 in the purchase and consumption of hard liquor, requirements for becoming a policeman or highway patrolman, and in establishing the legal adult age of the mentally handicapped in most institutions dealing with the young.

Chief sponsors of the legislation were Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, and Sen. Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati.

—Voting in all elections.
—Sitting on juries.
—Contracting.

—The age under which females are covered by certain regulations in the employment of minors laws.

—Requirements regarding guardians or trustees to handle affairs of minors.

—In areas granting veterans assistance to veterans who were previously considered minors.

Skylab crewmen to replace gyros

Flight director Neil Hutchinson said the decision on the replacement was made Tuesday because of a slow deterioration in the main gyro system over the last several weeks.

"They're slowly but surely caving in," Hutchinson said.

He emphasized there was no danger to astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma since the spacemen could take action to stabilize the laboratory.

"CAN YOU GIVE US A DESCRIPTION OF THE GUNMEN AND THE POT ROASTS?"

Hal Boyle . Glenn Miller Band still alive

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 29 years after his death, the name and fame of bandleader Glenn Miller remain greatly alive, a musical legend that defies the changing years.

It had become the most popular organization of its kind when Glenn, a trombonist, put down his baton to take up another as a captain in the U.S. Army. Promoted to major, he was reported missing on a routine flight over the English Channel on Dec. 15, 1944. Neither the plane nor his body were ever found.

Although the United States is a hurry-up country with its attention on the future, not the past, nostalgia often finds a ready cash register here. So it has turned out with the Glenn Miller story. The fans still wanted his music.

Revived by the musician's estate after the close of World War II, the Glenn Miller Orchestra slowly worked its way back to the top.

In its third postwar director, Buddy DeFranco, the band has found a talent which rivals that of the founder himself. Tall, blue-eyed and friendly, Buddy started playing at the age of 9, and for 15 years has been many times rated in musicians' polls as the No. 1 clarinetist in the nation.

"I only met Glenn briefly," he recalled during a break at the St. Regis Roof, where the band is concluding a successful engagement. "He was quite strict, but always a gentleman."

Explaining the band's enduring appeal, DeFranco said:

"Few bands really have their own identifying sounds. Among those that do are Herb Alpert's, Duke Ellington's, Count Basie's and Guy Lombardo's. Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and Tommy Dorsey were more soloists.

"Miller was never a soloist. He was a skilled orchestrator and devised the new sound that made his band famous. It is a reed sound, based around the clarinet and four saxes. It is more than merely nostalgic. It is a romantic sound, and therefore has a fresh appeal to each generation."

The band still has 18 members, as in Miller's day, the same theme song, "Moonlight Serenade," and about 75 per cent of its numbers is the music Miller played, including such hits as "In the Mood," "String of Pearls," "A Serenade in Blue," and "Tuxedo Junction."

"But we play a lot of the new stuff, too, just as Glenn would if he were still here. You have to. We now appeal to the young fans as well as the 40 and up group."

Lukens to seek office

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Couple's dinnertime visits your own fault

DEAR ABBY: A nervy couple we know drops by unexpectedly several times a week-and always at dinnertime. They are breaking us in the food department. They finish off everything so we never have any leftovers. Also, they drink coffee (which isn't cheap) by the gallon. When one pot is empty the wife gets up and makes another pot, just like she's in her own home.

They invited us to dinner at their place twice, and both times they served rice while they bragged that they had a whole cow in their freezer!

Don't suggest that we tell them we ate already when they come over. We tried that once and they said: "So did we," came in and sat until midnight and everybody's stomach was growling so loud we could hardly hear ourselves talk.

So how do we tell this couple not to come for dinner without hurting their feelings?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: What feelings? If you permit unwelcome guests to impose on you, look for sympathy under "S" in the dictionary.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman of 43 who has been dating a 50-year-old bachelor for two years. I'd like to know if I'm wasting my time. I cook him a full hot meal at least four nights a week, and how that man loves to eat! He is so sweet and affectionate to my two daughters, who are 10 and 12, but he never kisses me unless I practically force myself on him. The first time he kissed me was boarding a bus to go visit my mother and I said: "Aren't you going to kiss me goodby!" So he kissed me.

Do you think there is something wrong with a man his age who can hardly keep his hands off 10 and 12-year-old girls but never makes a move toward a mature woman?

Also, he never says a word about our future. Should I bring it up? I would like to know where I stand.

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Don't waste any more time on him. But to be sure you aren't passing up a likely prospect, ask him how he feels about marriage. I'll bet he disappears in a hurry, which will be a break for you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother keeps telling me that a man's wife is nothing-his mother is the most important person in his life because a man can have 10 wives, but he can have only one mother.

I have the impression that she would like nothing more than to break up my marriage so she could have her son back home. She is twice-divorced.

My husband is a kind and gentle man, but he refuses to enter into any kind of controversy where his mother is concerned.

She thinks that because she attends church regularly and knows the Bible backwards and forwards she is a "good" woman.

Since my husband refuses to take my part against her, how can I defend myself?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Tell her to refer to her Bible: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife." (Genesis 2, 24)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HELP ME IN ALBANY, N.Y.": I doubt if any ethical doctor would be willing to remove all your female organs because you find "all that female business a nuisance." And at age 29, you may have regrets later for having done so.

Milk price hike still not enough?

By TERESA C. PITTS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Last month's penny-a-quart milk increase was only a drop in the bucket in what's needed to boost Ohio's sagging dairy industry, dairymen say.

"It's certainly a step in the right direction, but I doubt seriously if it will be sufficient," said Gordon Riehl, marketing director for Milk Inc., of Cleveland.

Not only are feed costs up 36 per cent over a year ago, but farmers are finding more profit in butchering their cows for beef than in milking them, he said.

This has a long-range effect, he said, because it means lower production until herds can be built up again.

"Besides, dairy farming's a seven-day-a-week job. Farmers are finding out they can do a little grain farming, take a job in town and during the winter, work only five days a week like everybody else."

Small profits and a shaky importation picture have caused more than 8,000 dairy farmers to bail out of the industry since 1963, said agricultural economist David Hahn.

Hahn noted the farm price of raw milk has increased a little over 50 per cent since 1963, compared to a four-fold increase for some meats and poultry.

Farmers are reluctant to pass on rising feed and labor costs to consumers because of a growing inclination among federal officials to relax import quotas on dairy goods whenever demand exceeds supply, he said.

Riehl said the U.S. has bought 145 million tons of nonfat dry milk from Ireland and the Netherlands since the first of the year.

The overall result has been a 7 per cent decrease in Ohio milk production since last year, and importation of billions of pounds of milk every year from Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Federal records show June to June milk production in Ohio and parts of western Pennsylvania down by 46 million pounds— or enough milk to feed 1.5 million Americans for a month.

Decreases in the number of dairy farmers have been offset by increased production by the remaining farms. But this year, the size of the average dairy farm decreased, Riehl said.

Currently, Ohio ranks eighth among the states in milk production with 9,800 dairy farms and 428,000 milk cows. Milk products also are the state's number one cash crop.

"We're concerned about having a supply of milk for this fall as production drops off," Riehl said. "Nationally, production has been running between one and two per cent below last year."

"Last year was the first year in a long while in which milk consumption increased. In early spring of 1972 we were very concerned about overproduction. Since that time, because of weather and economic conditions, this thing has turned around.

"You have to understand that if you have one per cent too much, you've got a real surplus. If you have one per cent too little, you have one hell of a shortage," Riehl said.

"Most of the daily industry has been operating at a deficit for a number of years."

He wouldn't estimate what kind of price increase it would take to reverse the downward trend.

Telephone talks held

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Contract talks between representatives of General Telephone Co. and striking communications workers were scheduled to resume here today.

In Ironton, in the meantime, Ronald Lee Murnahan was scheduled to go to court to face a charge of cutting phone cables belonging to General Telephone.

A federal mediator, Howard Hughes, called for the resumption of negotiations. They broke off a week ago with little progress reported.

About 2,800 Communications Workers of America walked off the job July 16 in a dispute over wages and other matters.

General Telephone offered a 7 per cent hike in pay, but the CWA insisted on 10 per cent raises.

General Telephone reported more than $700,000 in damages from vandals since the strike began.

Opening lead - nine of clubs.

This deal occurred in the Canadian Trials to choose that nation's team for the 1972 World Bridge Olympiad.

When Crissey and Charney held the North-South cards for Toronto, against Montreal, the bidding went as shown. Crissey made a good decision in jumping to six hearts. He reasoned he had a much better hand than his one spade bid had shown, and so paid homage to his partner's virtually singlehanded undertaking of eleven tricks.

Charney justified that faith when he ruffed the opening club lead, playing the ace of trumps, catching the king, then cashed two more trumps before leading the queen of diamonds. West followed low, of course, and later scored his king of diamonds, but that did not stop Charney from bringing the slam home.

When the Montreal pair held the North-South cards, they also arrived at six hearts and got a club lead. But the declarer went down one at this table when he adopted an inferior line of play, paying the supreme penalty.

He also ruffed the club lead, but at trick two played a low diamond to the nine. The finesse worked, all right, but the hand suddenly collapsed when East ruffed the diamond and returned a club. It did not matter whether declarer ruffed high or low; in either case West was sure to make a trump trick and so stop the slam.

South was undoubtedly unlucky to fail as he did — but good judgment in critical situations like this is what often determines whether a team wins or loses a match.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, AUG. 24

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Panetary influences now give slow-moving projects new momentum, indicate better results than even you may have anticipated. Get going!

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
You may overreach your mark now because of anxiety or miscalculation. Try to avoid this by taking things in stride and following routine at an easy pace.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Some jolts possible. Let your sense of proportion and discerning judgment guide you. And don't try to do things alone. If you need help, ask for it!

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Personal relationships under excellent aspects. You can now combine business and pleasure to practical advantage.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Review winning methods of the past. Use again, with added flair, enthusiasm. Some "inside information" will prove extremely useful.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
What pleases one may not please another. You may have to juggle a bit to avoid undesirable contention and hassling. Some new offers worthy of note, however.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
A sharp and, in some areas, unexpected surge of activity. But you will have to keep order and maintain the right temp to keep pace.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
You may find it difficult to get things done in the way you prefer. Also, you may run into unexpected snags. Take all in stride and avoid argument. Things will right themselves.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
A day for some re-evaluation. Dress up an old idea, give an inert interest new life, investigate new avenues to progress. Projects close to your heart can be furthered notably with the right push.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Some situations await your incisiveness and knack for managing people at the right moments. You may have to do some persuading, but you are good at this.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Planetary influences, somewhat adverse, call for about as careful routines as you can muster. Beware of schemers and avoid recklessness.

YOU BORN TODAY are a clear-thinking, level-headed individual; a tower of strength to others and, on your own, can work your way to unbelievable achievements. You are gregarious by nature and make friends easily but sometimes alienate them by being overly critical. Most of the trouble lies in the fact that, being highly idealistic, you expect others to live up to your lofty standards and consider it almost a personal affront when they don't — or can't. Try to curb this trait. You are extremely practical and meticulous in all your undertakings; could especially succeed in the medical or legal fields, in journalism, finance or in a governmental position.

Abortion clinic restrictions urged

Kohnen urged the council Wednesday to ask the Board of Health to tighten rules and regulations to "control and police" abortions.

The Republican councilman charged that two Cincinnati area abortion clinics "operate under few, if any, rules or regulations."

He said lack of safety regulations "creates a potential for great danger and injury."

Mrs. Kirk's Kitchen

By GLADYS KIRK

Making ice cream is a fun thing to do at any time of year — or at any age. But, what is better on a rainy day when the children are out of school, camp is not in — and "Hey, Mom, What's to Do?" shouts are heard? Make ice cream. It has more appeal for children than any other dairy product. When a youngster participates in the process of making ice cream at home, he learns about dairy products first hand.

There are many variations in ingredients used to make homemade ice cream in the crank freezer; however, the aim is the same - to produce a flavorful finely textured dessert. This fine texture results from the formation of many fine crystals rather than a few large crystals. Many recipes include some of the following agents which interfere with the formation of large gritty crystals; gelatin, beaten egg white, whole egg, cooked starch, fat furnished by plain or whipped cream, syrups, chocolate and sugar.

If you have a hand-cranked freezer turn the dasher slowly until ice partically melts and forms a brine. Then you can turn more rapidly and constantly till the crank turns hard. It is important to turn the dasher constantly as the agitation of the dasher also helps to prevent gritty ice cream. If you stop in the middle of the freezing because your arm is tired, the ice crystals already formed will grow larger resulting in gritty ice cream.

A Few Pointers: (1) Use 1 part salt to 8 parts ice - (2) Ice cream is better when ripened - so when ice cream is firm, draw off brine water, wipe off and remove lid, take out dasher. Plug opening in the lid with a cork. Replace lid. Pack more ice and salt around the can to fill the freezer. Cover and let ripen for a couple of hours.

PLAIN ICE CREAM
2 cups thin cream
2 cups milk
Pinch of salt
1¼ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sugar

Mix ingredients together and fill can two thirds full to allow for expansion of mixture as it freezes.

VANILLA CUSTARD ICE CREAM
¾ cup sugar
2 Tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 beaten eggs
2 cups whipping cream
1¼ Tablespoon vanilla

Combine sugar, flour and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Cook and stir over low heat till thick. Add small amount of hot mixture to eggs and mix well. Return to hot mixture, cook and stir 1 minute. Chill. Add cream and vanilla. Freeze and ripen. Since it makes 1¼ quarts freeze in 2 quart freezer.

Variations can be made by adding mashed fruit such as peaches or strawberries or flavoring such as cocoa or coffee.

MOM'S CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM
Combine: 3 Tablespoons flour and ½ cup sugar
Add: 3 cups milk
Cook on low heat in large heavy sauce pan or skillet until mixture starts to thicken.
Beat 4 egg yolks
Add part of cooked mixture to beaten egg yolks.
Combine and then pour back into cooked mixture.
Beat 4 egg whites while mixture cooks and thickens. (Be sure to stir mixture often)
Fold beaten egg whites into cooked mixture
Pour into freezer and add the following:
¾ can chocolate syrup
1 can condensed milk
pinch of salt
½ cup sugar
3 cups milk
vanilla to taste
Mixture will fill 1½ quart freezer two-thirds full.

Lutheran pastor wears 'skirt with her collar

By CAROL DEEGAN
AP Educational Services Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The pastor wears a skirt. But she also wears a collar and counsels college students on tough questions pertaining to the armed services, abortion and capital punishment.

She is Elizabeth Platz, the first woman to be ordained in the Lutheran Church in the northern hemisphere.

Her ordination was held more than two years ago at the University of Maryland, where she served as a Lutheran Church lay worker for five years.

Since her ordination, has she encountered any problems as the university's Lutheran chaplain because she is a woman?

"I've really been able to say in all honesty that there is not the kind of antagonism that many girls and the older women anticipate," the Rev. Miss Platz said.

She admits that some people haven't approved, including some clergy, but "by and large, the greater part of the negative comment has come from women."

The Rev. Miss Platz says she entered the ministry because of her interest in theology.

"I didn't realize the impact of being the first woman to have been ordained because I was really fat, dumb and happy in my own little world, doing the ministry," she recalled.

And in the years that have followed her ordination?

"It's just been really great. There's nothing like service in the church in terms of working with people as well as the structures," she said.

The Rev. Miss Platz said what she particularly likes about her job is that she gets involved in "all kinds of things where people really live.

"How do I live and maintain integrity? To me that seems to be a real question," she said. "The draft was a big one because it was a real question of conscience.

"Amnesty, abortion, capital punishment. I get a lot of questions like that," she added.

The Lutheran chaplain says that more and more, whether consciously or unconsciously, segments of American society have been buying into a "revenge motif.

"The revenge motif is very strong in the capital punishment thing. Abortion is a revenge motif. The whole question of amnesty is a revenge motif," the Rev. Miss Platz said.

And how do the young people view what is happening in the world around them?

The Rev. Miss Platz says that young people have seen, through the news media and through their own lives, a king of "immediacy" in the world today.

They are skeptical, she said, so there is "natural and healthy rejection of pat answers, things they had been told.

"Institutions, government, church, schools aren't as beautiful as we have made them out to be. Aren't as good. Aren't as powerful; sometimes they're too powerful," she said.

When you are adding cornstarch to a hot sauce mixture to thicken it, mix the cornstarch with a little cold water until smooth before stirring it in.

A small amount of sugar is usually added to non-sweet yeast breads because the sugar hastens the working of the yeast.

State award is won by Posy Garden Club

The Posy Garden Club received the Victor H. Ries Outstanding Garden Club Award at the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs State Convention held in Wooster recently. This is a state award given by Professor Ries to an OAGC garden club that has been active in state, region and county, as well as having well planned meetings, workshops, demonstrations, open meetings, gardens open to the public, flower shows, active in ecology, conservation and horticulture, therapy and work with junior garden club members. The award covered the club's activities over a two-year period.

Mrs. Jess Schilichter, club delegate, accepted the award and check for the club. Mrs. Forest Fry, also attended the three-day session. They attended the horticulture, program book and nature and conservation clinics.

Fred Galle of Callaway Gardens, Pine Mountain, Ga., was speaker and he gave a slide lecture, "What is a Garden?" The role of botanic gardens in their service to the public was his answer. He is widely known for his writing in horticulture subjects and gave a most interesting program.

William Hixon of Lakewood, was the designer for the convention. His first program, "Electicism in Flower Arranging" was given following the buffet on Tuesday evening, and "Serendipity and Schmaltz" was cleverly demonstrated Thursday morning. He made many unusual flower arrangements using dry, fresh and treated materials, and said that flower arranging is a craft, not an art, and can be learned by anyone wanting to learn the principles of design and a few simple rules.

The rules are made to be broken, so be different, but not strange he said.

The convention theme was "Hat's Off to the OAGC." The flower show was divided into four sections with three classes in each. The sections were titled "Our Concern for the Environment, Appreciation for Natural Beauty, Garden Clubs," "A Way of Life" and "Creativity and Character."

The 1974 Convention will be July 31, Aug. 1 and 2 at Stauffers Inn in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Frank Barrett gave a typed list of "Flowers to consider for your garden" with the botanical names and description of the flowers.

The business session held this week was in the home of Mrs. Fred Rivenbuegh, president, when it was announced that 10 members plan to attend 'Gardeners Day Out' Sept. 13 at Don Scott Field, Ohio State University, where a day of interest to garden club members has been planned. A tour of the new horticulture building, landscaped gardens and flower plots are a part of the activities with a beef barbecue planned at noon.

Mrs. Hary Thrailkill read an invitation from Phil French, to take part in the 'Nationsl Hunting and Fishing Day' to stimulate interest in ecology and conservation on Sept. 22 at the Fish and Game Lodge, Stafford Rd.

Mrs. Albert Bihl gave a program of OAGC slides of "Birds in an Ohio Garden" with Mrs. Barrett as the narrator.

An arrangement featuring a bird was made by Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, using brown cattails, a driftwood burl, white pine and a handpainted owl.

The club voted to send contributions to the Wildflower Book Funda and Wakeena.

Members attending the meeting with Mrs. Rivenburgh were Mrs. Lester Haines, Mrs. Lawrence Woods, Mrs. Thrailkill. Mrs. W.B. Edwards, Mrs. Fry, Mrs. H.W. Melvin, Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, Mrs. Jess Schlichter, Mrs. Bess Seaman and Mrs. Carmel Bowsher, a guest.

Mrs. Homer Wilson, now living in Columbus, sent congratulations to the club on winning the state award.

The hostess served a dessert course to members and invited them to tour her flower, fruit and vegetable gardens.

The September meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Thrailkill in Lakewood Hills. She now has 68 dahlias in bloom, and invited members to stop to view them.

It's not necessary to rinse a mold, as recipes sometimes direct, before adding a gelatin mixture. The rinsing does not help the unmolding.

Frying chicken (about 3 pounds), cut up
2 medium onions, finely diced
1 large green pepper, finely diced
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon flour
1/4 cup cold water
1 cup sour cream

In a 12-inch skillet, heat the butter and oil; add chicken and brown; remove chicken and excess fat. To skillet add onion and green pepper; cook gently until wilted. Return chicken to skillet; sprinkle with salt and paprika. Cover and cook gently until tender — about 30 minutes. Remove chicken and keep warm. In a small bowl stir together the flour and cold water until smooth; whisk in the sour cream; add to skillet. Stirring constantly, cook gently until blended and boiling; pour over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Telvision Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Egad, you caught me at just the right moment," whooped Kristen Banfield. Her hair was in curlers. She wore faded blue jeans and an old shirt. And one of her maroon socks had a hole in the toe.

But then, she'd just entered an NBC makeup room to face the powder puff and otherwise prepare for the taping of 13 spots for NBC-TV's "What's On Tonight" announcements.

The spots, begun last September with actress Sharon Obeck, appear seven nights a week at the start of NBC's evening shows. They briefly describe coming attractions on the bill each night.

Miss Banfield, a merry, green-eyed lady, succeeded Miss Obeck as the "What's On" announcer— announceress? — last June 12. But she doesn't simply announce. She sings on one of the current spots and has a new RCA Records contract because of it.

"They (NBC officials) didn't know that I could sing when I got the job," said Miss Banfield, a native of Horseheads, N.Y.

"It was on my resume that I had done a lot of musicals," she said. "But they didn't know if I had only done chorus work or sang like Mrs. Miller or Tiny Tim."

Let it be known that Miss Banfield sounds like neither. She has studied formally at the University of Indiana, appeared in a number of summer stock musicals and spent 1½ years in the national road company production of "1776," cast as Martha Jefferson.

But her vocal talents didn't come to light at NBC until the authorities there approved a new series for the fall season— "Love Story," loosely based on the hit movie of the same name.

One day, she said, an NBC executive told her "they were planning a promotion spot for 'Love Story.' He said something to the effect that he assumed that since I had done musicals I was a competent vocalist."

She was whisked to a studio to do an up-tempo, jazz-rock version of the languid "Love Story" theme for a 60-second TV spot in which she gambols through a park singing said aria. The spot has been running for nearly two weeks now and it looks and sounds quite good.

RCA Records executives who heard the sound track were sufficiently impressed to sign her to a contract, order up a 42-piece orchestra and record a longer version of the song for commercial release.

NBC officials say 25,000 copies of the record have been printed up and it's now making the rounds of radio stations. They hope it'll do as well as the original, slower version of "Love Story."

But in the meantime, they're keeping Miss Banfield busy with "What's On" and getting ready to shoot a 10-minute TV feature in which she explains the workings of NBC News operations.

Feathered friends to be evicted

VENICE (AP) — City authorities here have decided on a new way to evict the 180,000 pigeons causing decay and health problems in St. Marks Square.

This time, they will move the birds' feeding places to the outskirts of the city, ban stands selling corn in the square and sterilize some of the birds.

Before, officials wanted to ship the birds to other parts of Italy and the world, but were unable to catch them.

Billingsgate, a famous fish market in London, was opened in 1558 as a landingstage for provisions.

Can't kick habit

"Please, stop sending me love letters," he said. "I will certainly not be tempted by anything, because I've always wanted to be a priest."

'Blue Knight' hard work for William Holden

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bystanders at the broken-down hotel next to the Harbor Freeway gazed twice at the deeply tanned patrolman in the blue uniform of the Los Angeles Police Department.

"No, it couldn't be," they muttered.

But it was William Holden. For six weeks citizens in the downtown area have spotted the actor in his policeman's garb. One man even asked for street directions.

Holden is starring in "The Blue Knight," an unusual venture in television and film programming. The Joseph Wambaugh novel is being filmed simultaneously for U.S. and Canadian television and for movie theaters in other countries.

"The Blue Knight" is scheduled to appear in four 60-minute segments on NBC on successive nights, Nov. 13-16. Later, foreign audiences will see a 100-minute version in theaters.

"The theatrical version will not merely be a trimmed-down version of the four television hours," explained Walter Coblenz, who is producing the film for Lorimar Productions, the company that makes "The Waltons."

"Many of the scenes are shot two ways. The theater version is a bit rougher, both in action and in language. There's one sequence where Holden walks into a burlesque house.

"The theater version will show seminudity on the stage. Naturally that won't appear in the television film."

Toward the end of the "Blue Knight" filming, Bill Holden was playing a scene in which he burst into a sleazy hotel room and arrested a suspect.

The scene was rehearsed and filmed by director Robert Butler with amazing speed, considering the close quarters in which the film crew had to work.

"It's a good script and a good character," he said. "Also, the deal is financially advantageous for me.

"I can get a three-way return on the project. First is the television play in this country; NBC has the right to two showings. Second is the showing of the film in theaters overseas.

"Third is the subsequent sale of the film to television in those countries. I participate in all three operations."

Holden is earning his pay. He said he had never worked so hard, not even during his early career under slave-driving Harry Cohn at Columbia.

"I found the greatest sleeping pill in the world: this script," he said with a grin. "Not that it's dull. But when I got home after a 13-hour day on the picture, I started to look at what I had to do the next day and I fell asleep."

Those named as "Outstanding of the Day" in each class will include the persons rated highest on each of the two lists, the number depending upon the size of the class. In the 3:30 p.m. Style Revue that day Marianne Arnold will also be competing for the State Fashion Board and Julie Frost will be submitting forms to try for the National Dress Revue.

Sale of assets barred for firm in state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Franklin County Common Pleas Court ordered officials of Sonic Systems, Inc., to hold up on the sale of their assets, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown says.

Brown said Wednesday he learned the firm's officers were trying to sell their assets before leaving Ohio.

The attorney general charged Sonic Systems last April with deceptive sales practices. The firm agreed to repay customers who were deceived the entire $500 purchase price of fire alarm systems.

Brown said that would be about 230 customers in Ohio.

Fayette Airport News

BY JUDY DENNIS

It has been a busy summer, and we have had a great deal of flying activity since my last article.

Bill has flight-tested several students and issued them pilot's licenses. Among the new pilots were six of our own people, the rest being from other airports in south-central Ohio. John Woodmansee, "Tex" Guerra, Louie Poole and Deane Carter are new pilots from our Fayette County School, and Charles McDonald and Jim Jones from our Ross County Airport also received their prized pilot's certificate. However, the private pilot certificate was not the final objective for three of these men, as John Woodmansee, Tex Guerra, and Charlie McDonald enrolled in our VA school, and are now working on their Commercial Pilot's certificate.

Howard Wright has completed his Commercial Pilot and Multi-engine rating under the G.I. Bill and is now enrolled in the instrument course. Dr. Chuck Pfersick is also taking instrument instruction in his own aircraft.

We have picked up several new students, and have a real rainbow of shirttails, which we cut off when the students made their first solo flights. The recent solos include Bob Woodmansee, Bill Mason, Paul Junk, Joe Kingery, Pete Walker, Jack Sanders, Gene Pfaff, Chuck Starkey, and Paul Rowland. Rowland is from Oak Hill, but we sold him an airplane, and he wanted us to teach him to fly it. He checked out for cross-country flying between here and Jackson and flies back and forth for instruction.

Bill Binzel is home from school for the summer, and is finishing his training with us. He is doing very well, but is having a heck of a time finishing his cross-country work, due to all the smog, haze, and rain, we have had recently. Bill is not alone with this problem, as all of our students have hit this snag in the cross-country phaze of their flying. Due to the bad visibility which has plagued us, the students cannot venture too far from home.

Pat Yager is home for a short vacation to visit his father, Dr. Jack Yager, and has been giving their Bonanza a work-out. Pat was one of Bill's first students, and is now an instructor in Florida.

Bud Shaw and Scott Wilson made an interesting trip a couple of weeks ago. They flew from here to Phoenix, Arizona, where Scott reported to the Air Base for assignment. They made the trip in Bud's little, two-seated J-3 Cub, which is an antique aircraft. Scott's brother, Wes, accompanied them by car, and wherever possible, they communicated back and forth by walkie-talkie radios. After dropping Scott in Arizona, Bud continued on alone to California. This was quite a trip to make in a J-3 Cub, and Bud stated they met a lot of friendly people along the way who were quite interested in their trip, and willing to lend them a helping hand when needed. Our Pilots' Association meeting was held Aug. 10, and Bud showed color slides of the trip.

Roy and Elizabeth Smith have done a lot of flying this summer, flying here and there for lunch, and recently making a trip to Kentucky to visit Roy's brother. Roy also uses his plane for business flying whenever possible.

Walt Gooldin and Dale Hardwick are finishing up their cross-country flying, and are on the home stretch of their training towards their private licenses.

Jack Patton won the free hour of flying for the month of August, and I'm betting he'll probably use the time in the Cherokee. Jack recently checked out in the Cherokee and likes that kind of flying.

Jack Sanders has really been flying the wheels off these planes, and is progressing very fast. Jack wants to get his license in a hurry, so he can go on to the G.I. Bill before his eligibility for his veterans training expires.

Ron Fitzwater and Tom Romph began their flight training while stationed at Wilmington Air Force Base, and although they are now stationed at Lockbourne, they still come back to good old Fayette County for their commercial training. Both boys are getting close to the hours needed for their Commercial licenses.

Mr. John Tudor and his son flew here from Tennessee in their twin-engine Aztec over the weekend to visit John's folks in Greenfield.

Licensed pilots taking friends and relatives for flights in our aircraft were Millard French, Kenny Smith, Paul Stuckey, and Bob Cannon. Also, flying with us was Mike Thompson, who was home on leave from the Air Force. Mike always comes to see us when he's home, and we're always glad to welcome back our very first line boy.

Steve Warner made a night flight to Somerset, Ky., to pick up a friend's wife. Mrs. Gary Kelley had been vacationing at Cumberland Lake, and Steve and Gary went after her, making the round trip in four hours, when it would have taken eight hours to drive it.

Eddie Pendergraft, Paul Crosby, Maurice Hopkins and Howard Wright have been flying the wings off their jointly owned aircraft. When the weather's fit, it's always up and going. Paul took his mother back to her home in Van Wert in it, and although it was her first ride, she loved every minute of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Loyd have been using their Navion this summer, and Owen Prince and Max Ours have made several flights in their Skyhawks.

Since Louie Poole received his license, both his wife, Peggy, and son, Lonnie, have gone up for their first lessons. It looks like we're going to have a flying family. Other new students are Ned Payne and Mike Johnston. Ned is from here and Mike is coming down from Columbus.

Curt Hiser, our stand-by charter pilot, spent a day at Hillsboro, helping to haul rides for the Mecto Tool Company of Greenfield. The past two years, the company has taken all its employes for rides, and we helped do the honors last year, also.

VA students Tim Vehnekamp and Bill Pauley have been working diligently on their commercial licenses, and whenever Charlie Doods and Mike Prickett have been able to take time out from their busy schedules, they have been working on their private licenses.

At the present time, the fog has rolled back in, so we are going to close up shop and head for home. See you next time.

Model city planned near Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The architects who planned Brasilia, Brazil's 13-year-old capital in the hinterland, have designed another model city — this time on the outskirts of Rio de Janeiro.

By the year 2000 the new city promises "a new way of life" for 2 million of Rio's anticipated 10 million residents — a life free from the congestion, pollution and noise that plague Rio's present population of 4.3 million.

present population of 4.3 million.

The site, called Barra da Tijuca, is 10 miles from Copacabana, which was considered a seaside paradise until the late '50s but now is three square miles of concrete housing 250,000 people. Barra da Tijuca is an unspoiled area flanked by mountains and dotted with lakes. It stretches for 14 miles along one of the most beautiful beaches in the world.

When the federal government announced plans in 1964 to build a highway through the area to connect Rio with the port of Santos, 250 miles to the southwest, urban development of Barra da Tijuca was inevitable.

"If urban growth had been left uncontrolled, Barra would have become another Copacabana within a few years, with a conglomeration of highrise buildings lining the highway and the beach, preventing free circulation of air and blocking a view of the sea," said Almir Machado, coordinator of the team of architects that is planning the area's development.

IN 1969, Lucio Costa — author of the master plan of Brasilia — presented an ambitious project to the government of the state of Guanabara (Greater Rio) to urbanize Barra while at the same time preserving the area's natural beauty, tranquility, and unpolluted environment. He proposed to concentrate the population of the 75-square-mile area in self-sufficient urban islands each containing about 12,000 people and separated from one another by five-block-wide green areas. Each urban island would have its own shopping area and school, and other essential services.

At opposite ends of the beach, sandwiched between the highway and the ocean, two super nuclei are being planned with projected populations of 80,000 to 100,000 each.

The larger of the two, called the Barra Center, is already under construction. It will be opened in 1974 and fully completed by 1980. Oscar Niemeyer, who designed the major public buildings in Brasilia, is chief architect.

THE BARRA CENTER will contain 70 cylindrical 34-story apartment towers. Seventy-five per cent of the center's 127 acres will consist of parkland, playgrounds, squares, walkways, and tropical gardens. There will be six office buildings, five schools, four yacht clubs, two movies and one legitimate theater, as well as supermarkets, gas stations and churches.

Niemeyer's idealistic plan separates pedestrians and traffic, residential and shopping areas.

The residential towers will be interlaced with walkways. Pedestrians will cross the main traffic arteries through underpasses. There will be two floors of underground parking in each tower.

No stores will be allowed in the residential area. Instead noise and activity will be concentrated in a commercial center that cuts diagonally through the development. Parking will be behind the shops and the area in front will be a mall for pedestrians only.

Many of Costa's and Niemeyer's idealistic designs for Brasilia did not work out. A typical main street has sprouted in the capital, despite plans that called for the city to be made up of self-contained living nuclei.

THE BARRA'S Commercial Center will contain about 1,000 stores as well as supermarkets, restaurants, bars, banks, boutiques, cinemas, beauty salons, and doctors' offices.

Prices range from $10,000 for a one-bedroom apartment to $30,000 for a deluxe three-bedroom apartment to $138,000 for a penthouse. If you pay cash the price is 18.5 per cent less.

The Barra area forms a triangle with two sides backed by mountains and one facing the sea. In the apex of the triangle there will be four non-polluting industries, the state government civic center, and a 2½ square-mile metropolitan center, expected to be the nerve center of Rio within 30 years. In the center of the triangle there will be 11 residential nuclei, a heliport and executive airport, an autodrome, a golf course, a biological reserve, a university, and an agricultural area, interspersed throughout with parks and woodland.

Allende fears Bolivian invasion

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende met with his national security council Wednesday night, and congressional sources said they discussed the threat of an invasion by Bolivia.

"The situation is delicate," Adm. Raul Montero, the commander of the navy, told newsmen. He would not elaborate. But there were unconfirmed reports of Bolivian troop movements along Chile's northeastern frontier.

Several opposition congressmen claimed the leftist government was circulating the reports to divert attention from the strikes plaguing the government.

Chile and Bolivia severed diplomatic relations 10 years ago over a river dispute but they have not been on friendly terms for a century. Bolivia lost its access to the sea when victorious Chile seized the port city of Antofagasta during the 1879 War of the Pacific against Bolivia and Peru.

Shortly before Allende met with the security council, the House of Deputies adopted a resolution accusing the Marxist president of "overstepping the constitution and the law." The resolution, which passed on an 81-47 vote, carries no legal sanctions. But it reflected the concern of the opposition majority in Congress over the street battles in which scores of persons were wounded during a 48-hour general strike Tuesday and Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the 140,000 members of the merchants' confederation ended their 48-hour strike against the government and planned to reopen their shops today. They didn't have much to sell, however, as much of the country's distribution system was paralyzed by the continuing truck owners' strike, now in its 29th day.

The doctors' union voted to remain on strike for three more days to press demands for the import of more medicine and medical equipment. They now are providing only emergency service.

Town & Country Driving School, Inc., also charges in its suit filed Wednesday that Firestone forced small independent tire manufacturers and distributors out of the replacement market by charging low prices until the companies were ruined, then raised prices.

The plaintiff says Firestone increased its share of the replacement tire market from 15 per cent in 1959 to 25 per cent in 1973. It charges Firestone with using illegal activities to increase its market share "to the detriment of the public interest."

County Schools adopt free lunch policy

Guy M. Foster, superintendent of Miami Trace Schools, has announced a free lunch policy for children unable to pay the full price of meals served in schools under the National School Lunch Program.

Foster said school officials have adopted a family-size, income scale for use in determining eligibility for free lunches.

FREE LUNCH SCALE

No. of children	Income
1	$2,740
2	$3,600
3	$4,460
4	$5,310
5	$6,100
6	$6,890
7	$7,600
8	$8,310
9	$8,960
10	$9,600
11	$10,240
12	$10,880

Eligibility determinations are made on a family basis, that is, all the children in the same family attending schools under the jurisdiction of the same school food authority are to receive the same benefits, Foster said.

Children from families whose income is at or below that shown on the scale are eligible for free meals. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses may also apply, according to Foster.

They may do so by filing application forms sent home with a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted anytime during the school year.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If parents have such children living with them and wish to apply for such meals, they should contact the school, Foster pointed out.

Under the provision of the policy the visiting teacher will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Foster for a hearing to appeal the decision. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the school superintendent where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

NOTE TO EDITOR: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My son is paying his own college tuition this year. Will this have any effect on whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes. Tuition payments are counted in determining total support. If you and your son furnish his total support for the year, and your son spent more on support items, such as food, clothing, shelter, education, etc., than you spent for his support, you will not be able to claim him as a dependent.

Q. Is it possible for me to reduce the amount of tax withheld from my pay?

A. Yes. This is done by filing a new W-4 form with your employer, claiming all the exemptions to which you are entitled. In addition, you may also qualify to claim the special withholding allowance. For details, see your employer or call your local IRS office.

State school aid plan being pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An attempt will be made next week to move out of the House Education Committee a bill aimed at aiding Ohio's financially troubled school districts.

Basically, it would require the state to pick up the interest tab for school districts forced to borrow money from outside sources to keep operating.

The main sponsor, Rep. Vernon F. Cook, D-39 Akron, said the main drawback experienced in lining up support is that most legislators believe the bill is aimed only at solving a problem in Summit County.

"I think if they look around, especially in counties that are undergoing a re-appraisal or switching tax collections to a computer set-up, that other school districts are in the same position," he said.

The bill has had two committee hearings in its present form. When it was introduced in February, it called for a direct state reimbursement of interest paid on borrowed money.

Several administration officials balked at that approach, so Cook rewrote the bill to pacify the complaints and hopefully to keep it from dying in committee.

As it is now, a school district in financial trouble would first be required to borrow against its incoming school foundation money.

If that source is depleted, it could go to private sources. Interest on the money would be deducted from the county's share of the local government fund.

The county could then go to the state Controlling Board asking the money taken from the fund be replaced. But it would have to prove that its tax collection setup was not at fault for the school district being short of cash.

A delay in the processing of tax collections in Summit County brought about the bill, Cook, a professor at the University of Akron said.

"But i don't think the problem is unique to Summit County," Cook said. "I think school districts elsewhere in the state have the same problem."

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q. — The paint on one of the outside walls of our house is peeling. I intend to scrape and sand it before repainting, but I don't want the same thing to happen again.

I was told that there probably was a leak somewhere in the wall and that water was getting behind it. I checked every inch of the wall and found not the slightest sign of an opening.

What could be causing this on only one wall?

A. — It is sometimes difficult to convince readers (judging by the mail) that excessive humidity inside the house can penetrate an inside wall, move into an outside wall and then push off the exterior paint. But it happens — and that would seem to be the case here.

Why did it occur on only one of the outside walls? I can only guess that the wall in question is outside walls? I can only guess that the wall in question is outside the bathroom or kitchen, where there usually is a large amount of water vapor.

You will have to find a way for the vapor to escape rather than permit it to get under the paint.

You can use a series of small vents lodged in the outside wall or use an exhaust fan inside the room where the moisture builds up. Sometimes even opening a window a few times a day is sufficient to send the moisture on its way.

Q. — There were several crayon marks on our kitchen wall. I scrubbed them thoroughly before my husband repainted the kitchen. It looked fine for several months, but now the crayon appears to be coming through; at least, there are outline marks the same as were on the wall originally, although a lot fainter.

My husband says he will repaint that one wall again, but I tell him the crayon probably will come through again. Am I right?

A. — It is possible that a new coat of paint will cover the crayon sufficiently so that it won't show through again. But to be sure, first go over the stained area with a coat of shellac, thinned about 50-50 with denatured alcohol.

Sand the shellac very lightly after it has dried thoroughly, then go ahead with the painting. The shellac will seal in the stains if they threaten to get rambunctious again.

Savings bond sales near 1973 goal

July 1973 sales of Series E & H United States Savings Bonds in Ohio were $32.7 million. At the end of July, the State attained 63.7 per cent of its 1973 sales goal of $393.8 million.

Richard E. Whiteside, Fayette County Volunteer Savings Bonds chairman, reported July sales of Savings Bonds in the County were $18,874. The County achieved 65.8 per cent of its annual sales goal July 31.

There were about 130,000 Indians living in the California region of the United States when it was discovered by the Spanish in 1542.

C.A.P. cadets end encampment

During the encampment the cadets went through 40 hours of classes covering aerospace education, history of the U.S. Air Force ROTC, and Advanced Civil Air Patrol training.

In addition to the 40 hours, the cadets toured the flight simulators where they could fly a simulated plane including take off and landing.

The cadets later went to the Strategic Air Command base where they were briefed on the major role of SAC in the defense of the country. Then they were taken inside the large planes.

They were also taken to the computer center where all informatiron is fed to the computers and put on tapes to be stored for later use. This center is the largest in the U.S.

Campaign reporting overhaul being pushed

Brown said on Wednesday he wants political candidates to report annually on contributions and expenditures.

He also suggested the fiveyear disqualification penalty for late filing should be replaced with a system of fines and injunctions.

Pollution - free steel mill building

ROTHERHAM, England (AP) — Britain's state-owned steel corporation is building this country's first pollution free steel mill, a plant designed to erase the grimy and noisy image of heavy industry.

The $67.5 million mill has been specially designed to eliminate air and water pollution and to minimize noise in the River Don Valley of Yorkshire.

The British Steel Corp.— BSC— boasts it will be as technically advanced as any in Europe. It will be built to specifications laid out by Lord Melchett, the BSC head until his death in June and a strong advocate of environment protection.

Preparation of the mill site, near Rotherham in northern England, started in May. Production is expected to begin in mid-1975, with the mill producing 400,000 metric tons of high quality steel bars annually by 1977.

The mill will be part of British Steel's Aldwarke and Roundwood steelmaking complex. It will be known as the Thrybergh Bar Mill.

Close attention has been paid by its designers to eradicating pollution from the production process.

A BSC spokesman said: "As far as air pollution is concerned, the crucial stage of the operation, which is the reheating furnace, will use a low sulphur fuel.

"This will result in no visible emission and the stack height will be so arranged to ensure effective dispersal and negligible contamination of the atmosphere."

The plant will take its water supply from the Don. The spokesman said: "Steps have been taken to ensure the water, used for cooling, will probably be cleaner when it is put back into the river than it was when we removed it."

He added: "The main noise problem comes toward the end of production when the finished bars are rattling about. We are doing as much as possible to damp this down."

The mill is being built on ground only half a mile from the village of Thrybergh which lies on the main Rotherham to Doncaster road.

A natural incline will hide most of the plant from view but additional landscaping is being included in the project to ensure that mill buildings do not interfere with the visual surroundings.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three building and loan associations in Ohio were given the go-ahead by state Commerce Director Dennis Shaul to set up branch offices.

Shaul said Wednesday the Ohio Savings Association of Cleveland can set up an office in Garfield Heights, the Union Savings Association can put a branch in Cleveland and the Ashtabula County Savings and Loan Co. can locate branches in North Madison and Perry Township.

Order no hunting on commission land

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Youth Commission says it's against the law to hunt on property belonging to youth institutions.

The commission took the action Tuesday after learning that employes were allowed to hunt at the Fairfield School for Boys.

The board acted after another state agency warned an inmate could overpower a hunter and use the gun in an escape.

HISTORY REVISITED — The world-famous Glacial Grooves of Kelleys Island, carved and shaped more than a million years ago by continental glaciers, are among the many tourist attractions surrounding Kelleys Island State Park. The grooves, subject of extensive studies by geologists, are the largest in the world.

Kelleys Island State Park 'relaxed world of its own'

The 594-acre park is the focal point for Kelley's Island's many activities. The park sports outstanding boating, swimming, camping and picnicking facilities. Nearby are the Bass Islands, the many activities of Catawba Island and the Marblehead Peninsula plus Pelee Island in Canada. And, all around is Lake Erie, offering a 2¼-million acres of family fun in the Ohio portion alone.

Kelleys Island State Park, on the northern shore of the 2,888-acre island, has a broad 800-foot swimming beach; an excellent place for a cool dip in Lake Erie on a hot, humid summer afternoon. Boating launching facilities, picnic grounds and 125 grassy, tree-shaded Class B campsites complete the park's facilities.

THE PARK woodlands and open meadows are extensively used by hikers and by participants in the popular nature interpretation program. Interpretive hikes are offered and children can take part in Junior Naturalist and Naturalist Aide training programs.

Visitors to the park and island can travel by car, ferry or by airplane.

"Getting to the park is half the fun of a visit," said Natural Resources Director William B. Nye. "You can take a relaxing 20-minute ride by ferry from Marblehead or a shorter five minute ride on the famous "Tim Goose" Ford tri-motor or one of the other light planes owned by the Island Airlines."

Cars are allowed on the island, but once people get there, the most popular means of transportation is two-wheeled, not four. The bicycle is extensively used by both residents and visitors to Kelleys Island. Bicycles and golf carts can be rented at hourly or daily rates at several places on the island.

"Bicycling is the best method of seeing the island," said Kelleys Island park manager Jan Saffer. A bicycle trip along the island coastline provides riders with views of great expanses of Lake Erie stretching toward the horizon, wave-splashed rocky shorelines, motorboats kicking-up white froths of water or sailboats scudding before the wind.

TURNING INLAND, riders travel winding tree-shaded lanes bordered by open fields overflowing with wild-flowers. The woods and fields are full of wildlife and the Kelleys Island pheasant hunting is described as "excellent."

The relaxed, serene atmosphere is evident everywhere on the island and it is infectious. "It's a nice, quiet place. You get completely away from all of hubbub of the outside world," Saffer said.

Among the island's many attractions are the world-famous Glacial Grooves. The grooves are limestone rocks which were carved and shapped into long, smooth troughs by continental glaciers more than one million years ago. The grooves, subject of extensive studies by geologists, are the largest in the world.

Many of the original glacial grooves were quarried for their limestone but the remaining have been protected by the Ohio Historical Society. The grooves, which are next to the state park, are open to the public.

Early Indian visitors to Kelleys Island carved intricate designs in another rock, Inscription Rock, which is also preserved by the Ohio Historical Society and is open to the public.

Saffer, who has spent all of his 72 years on Kelleys Island, said the island used to support a large commercial fishing industry, fruit orchards, limestone quarries and several wineries. All are gone now, with the last quarry closing early in 1973.

"Prohibition put the wineries out of business," Saffer said. "They tried to make a go of it by selling grape juice for home wine making but that didn't work out."

Visitors can visit an abandoned winery on Kelleys Island or they can tour several commercial wineries still in operation on South and Middle Bass islands and on the mainland.

Kelleys Island State Park is 40 miles east of Toledo and can be reached from Cleveland on the Ohio Turnpike or from the south by U.S. 23 to Ohio 56 north. Ferry transportation is available from Marblehead or Sandusky. The Island Airlines operates from Port Clinton.

Swiss called 'most trusted'

GENEVA (AP) — Switzerland emerged as the most trusted nation in a field of eight countries in a recent poll conducted in France, Germany, Italy, Holland and Belgium.

The survey was made by Ronald Inglehart, of Michigan State University, and David Handley, University of Geneva, in cooperation with the European Community Information Center.

Switzerland ranked first with a trust rating of 78 per cent against a negative total of 11 per cent, while the United States received a 69 per cent against 23 per cent unfavorable.

Britain scored 61 and 30 per cent while the Russians had a distrust rating of 68 per cent, with only 23 per cent positive. The Chinese recorded 9 per cent favorable, 74 per cent unfavorable.

Other ratings were: French, 52 per cent favorable and 38 per cent unfavorable; Germans, 45 and 46 per cent; and Italians 31 and 59 percent.

The total difference between the Newfoundland time zone in the east to the Yukon time zone in the northwest is 5½ hours.

Caves, castles tour suggested

EDITOR's NOTE: The following is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by The Fayette County Automobile Club for The Record-Herald.

Caves and castles are the top attractions on the AAA suggested tour this week over scenic routes in the north central-western section of Ohio.

You'll visit Ohio's largest cave at Ohio Caverns near West Liberty and the well-known Piatt castles, owned and operated by William and J.J.Piatt, are only three miles away.

A walk through the Ohio Caverns takes nearly an hour. The one-mile path is all one way. There is no backtracking and just about every turn provides another spectacular sight. Many accomodations are available — shelter house, picnic tables, rest rooms and amusements for the children and plenty of good drinking water.

Next stop is the Piatt castles, named Mac-A-Cheek and Mac-O-Chee. The older of the two castles, Mac-A-Cheek, is in the form of a French fortified castle, has 35 rooms on its three floors and a five-story tower. Piatt had it built from materials found on the estate — hand chiseled cream limestone from a quarry and mortar of lime burned in the kiln located near the quarry. It took four years to complete the two-foot thick walls.

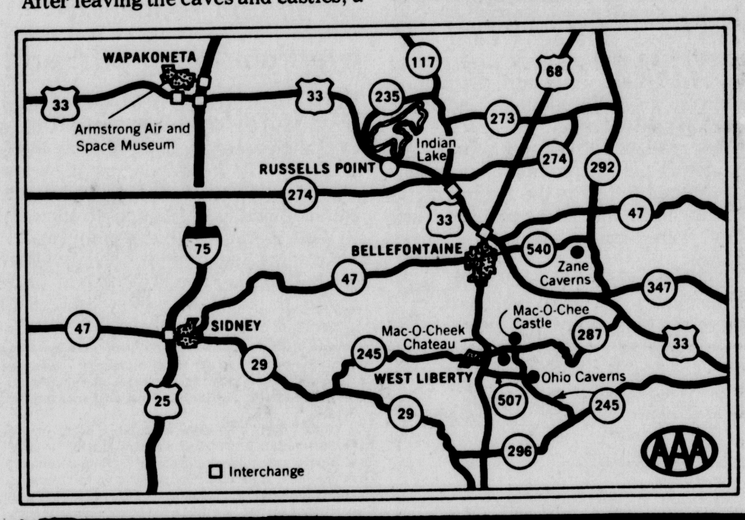
After leaving the caves and castles, a drive through the area near Bellefontaine will bring you to Indian Lake, one of the state's largest (5,800 acres) with excellent facilities for water sport lovers, especially boating.

Other places of interest in the vicinity are Ohio Caverns on Ohio 245 and Zane Caverns on Ohio 540. Both offer guided tours that require about an hour.

In the same general area is Wapakoneta on U.S. 33, the home of Neil Armstong, "The First Civilian Astronaut" and the "First Man on the Moon."

The 14,00 square foot Armstong Air and Space Museum is located at the Fisher-Wapakoneta Road interesection of I-75. It is dedicated to those Ohioans who have played a major role in man's conquest of gravity. The museum is administered by The Ohio Historical Society and is open weekdays, Sundays and holidays and closed on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Washington C.H. go to Springfiled and take Ohio 68 north to West Liberty to the points of interest in that area. From there take U.S. 33 north-west to Wapakoneta. Then return home of I-75 South.



Gilligan signs bill to set up lottery panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill establishing a state lottery commission was signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan on Wednesday.

One of the major bills of the 110th Ohio General Assembly, the legislation permits Gilligan to name a five-member commission to design an Ohio lottery. The bill becomes effective Nov. 21.

Gilligan also signed a bill lowering the age of majority for Ohio residents from 21 to 18. That bill becomes law Jan. 1, 1974.

Last November, Ohio voters lifted a constitutional ban on a state lottery. The proposed law to institute a lottery was offered in the House by Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton.

The lottery bill's most outspoken supporter over the past three years, however, was State Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma.

Gilligan said he was proud to sign the bill lowering the age of majority.

"I am proud that Ohio has become a leader in establishing individual rights and privileges for citizens of all ages," the governor said.

The bill prohibits 18-20 year olds from buying liquor or high alcohol-content beer. It also denies them the right to become city policemen or highway patrol officers, although they could be elected sheriffs.

Under the law, they also will have the right to sue — or be sued.

Cosmetics firms banned from activities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two cosmetics firms were prohibited by a Franklin County Common Pleas Court from doing business in Ohio.

Judge Craig Wright directed officers of New World Cosmetics, Inc., and Teen and Twenty Cosmetics Corp. to appear in court Sept. 14 to answer the order.

State Commerce Director Dennis Shaul charged the firms with selling exclusive distributorships, something he said is against the law in Ohio.

Life is greener

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the generation since World War II, the entire life style and economy of Greenland has changed radically, the National Geographic Society reports.

Thanks to the nearly $100 million poured into Greenland annually by a benevolent Danish government, a former Stone Age people has moved into the 20th century.

City legislators to continue study of trash collection

BY LARRY JOSEPH
Record-Herald City Editor

Washington City Council lacked the necessary three-fourths membership to take final action on legislation at its regular session Wednesday night, but spent the evening hearing progress reports on a variety of projects now under study.

Trash collection was again a topic of discussion as Council heard three resident's comments on what should be done to regulate haulers in the city.

The trash hauling subject was a carryover from the Council session two weeks ago when city residents aired their complaints to an order by the haulers that all trash be placed within three feet of the curbing on the day of collection.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT, William B. Johnson, who previously aired his objections to the order via a letter to The Record-Herald and at the meeting Aug. 8, said Wednesday night that City Council should adopt some type of licensing for persons in the hauling business, and for their vehicles. He said he would like to see the committee suggested previously by Council Chairman Billie Wilson become active and make a study of the trash collection problems and present recommendations to City Council.

Wilson said last night that another meeting is to be held with the haulers. He said that if the city officials continue to find the haulers unwilling to cooperate, the committee would be established and some type of controls would be instituted. "If we can't get the job done on a voluntary basis," Wilson said, "we will have to go that route."

City Manager Dan Wolford said he had sent letters to all haulers requesting their schedule of collections and their rate proposals. He said he had received two replies and expected to have the remainder within a week. He said the results would be discussed at the meeting with the haulers.

Johnson said he had no personal fight with the haulers, but added that he felt they should go through proper channels when changing their methods of operation, rather than making an order to the people they serve.

Also calling for Council control of the haulers were Chester Hamulak, 1028 Center St., and Phillip Tatman, 437 Warren Ave.

COUNCIL also reviewed a traffic light proposal for the intersection of Elm and Cedar streets, tabled a Millikan Street sidewalk request, confirmed the appointment of a new member on the Planning Commission and placed two ordinances on the first reading.

Wolford said a study of vehicular and pedestrian traffic had been conducted on Elm Street, and he recommended that a traffic signal be placed at Cedar Street. He is to contact school officials and report back to council next week.

The city manager told Council that two poles had been obtained, and the signals could probably be obtained in two to three weeks. He said the Police Department would assist Eastside School children until the traffic signal is installed. The cost of the installation is about $2,000.

Wolford also reported that the anticipated cost of installing a sidewalk along Millikan Avenue is $4,500 to $5,000. He said the sidewalk would be six feet wide and 970 feet in length. Council tabled the matter until next spring.

Councilman Joseph O'Brien, reporting on a request for the cleaning of the old cemetery, said the Union Township Trustees, cemetery officials and the city are to each furnish one man to clean the old cemetery. After the initial cleanup, Washington Cemetery workers will mow the cemetery once each week.

Wolford reported that studies are being made of problems with the storm sewer on Oak Street, and the Belle Aire Ditch. He said reports should be available in about two weeks.

Council confirmed the appointment of Carleton C. Johnson to the Planning Commission. He will replace Elmer E. Burrall who recently moved from the city.

ORDINANCES to designate public depositories and accept the low bid for resurfacing city streets were placed on the first reading. Mai Kai Hot Mix, Inc., was the low bidder on materials for street resurfacing. Also submitting a bid was L. P. Cavett.

Council approved the payment of $2,500 to National Cash Register Co. for the repair of bookkeeping machines, $729 to Gale L. Helms and Associates for the preparation of maps, and $619.80 to Kirk's Furniture for items purchased for the Police Department.

OYC director denies charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Youth Commission Director William Ensign said Wednesday's criticism of his department by a state labor leader was precipitated by union membership troubles.

Ensign made the comment shortly after a news conference in which Jim Marshall, head of the Ohio Civil Service Employes Association, accused the OYC of misuse of funds.

Marshall claimed the OYC was using a 23 per cent budget increase to build plush offices and hire more administrative personnel while services were being cut back at youth rehabilitation facilities.

"I'm surprised at Jim. He usually comes to me first if he thinks we are having any problems," Ensign said.

"I believe that his real concern is that under a new OYC policy of taking youths out of institutions and placing them in foster homes, we are experiencing a reduction in employes."

For example, he said, the staff at the Fairfield School for Boys at Lancaster has been reduced from 458 to 400 since 1970.

But, he said, the reduction was the result of attrition, and no one was layed off.

In the past, Marshall criticized the OYC for housing 623 youngsters at the Fairfield School on a budget meant for 400, and alleged the commission turned down the school on meat requests.

Mike LoPresti, school administrator, confirmed 623 residents at the facility, but said many of the younger boys were scheduled to be transferred to other facilities geared to handle them.

He also denied a meat shortage, or being turned down on meat requests. The school had enough meat to last through September, he said.

C. B. Hayslett, superintendent for the Columbus Juvenile Diagnostic Center, denied Marshall's allegations that the center was sending youngsters to a hospital 20 minutes away for night medical treatment because it couldn't afford to hire a night nurse.

He said the center was in the process of filling four vacancies on the 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. shift, but that two nurses were on duty and a doctor on call during the overnight hours.

Money was available to hire personnel for the early evening shift, he said, "but we just can't find the people to fill them."

Marshall claimed most of the OYC's budget boost went to increase office floor space at a new suburban Columbus office site.

Ensign said the new offices represented a consolidation of several OYC bureaus and were less expensive than maintaining offices in downtown Columbus.

He said the 23 per cent budget increase figure included anticipated federal revenues and that the commission's budget had actually been decreased by $4 million this year by the General Assembly.

Dayco Corp. reports higher sales, earnings

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sales totaling $289.8 million, 19 per cent more than a year ago, were reported by the Dayco Corp. for the nine months ended July 31, 1973.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS — Sarah James, of Buckhurst Hill Essex, near London, presents Paul Crosby, of the Washington C.H. Rotary, with the banner of the East Ham Rotary, London, of which her father is a member. Miss James has been staying with the Crosbys for three weeks through the exchange program and will be leaving Sunday. Beth Crosby, right, recently returned from a three-week stay with the James family.

Gas company would help in insulation of homes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. says it wants its customers to use less fuel to heat their homes and that it is willing to help them meet the cost of installing insulation.

The utility, which serves the Detroit area, describes the proposal as the first of its kind in the nation. It says it could serve as a model for other communities concerned with conserving energy.

In a proposal filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission on Tuesday, Michigan Consolidated said it would loan its customers 80 per cent of the cost of installing six inches of insulation in the attics of their homes.

If the money is paid back on monthly gas bills within three months of installation, there would be no interest charge, Michigan Consolidated President Hugh Daly said Wednesday.

If the homeowner decides to repay the loan on a 36-month basis, the company proposed a financing charge, with interest of 1 per cent and no profit for the company.

The plan, originally suggested by Commission Chairman William Rosenberg, is scheduled to be considered in public hearings.

Michigan Consolidated Gas said it agreed to the proposal because officials felt it would not reduce total gas sales.

"The energy situation being what it is, we are confident that we will be able to sell all the gas we can get," Daly said.

The company said a study it conducted showed that six inches of insulation can reduce fuel consumption for heating by about 17 per cent in a typical two-story home built in Detroit before 1940.

Pope may make latin mandatory for services

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI says he's considering reinstating Latin as the mandatory language for hymns in the Roman Catholic Mass.

The pontiff said Wednesday at his weekly public audience that "many are asking that the Latin and Gregorian singing of the Gloria, Credo, Sanctus and Agnus Dei be preserved in all countries. May God let it be so. Study can be resumed to see how this can be done."

Vatican sources said many favored reinstating Latin as a symbolic gesture of unity for the world's Roman Catholics.

Latin has been abolished as the mandatory language of Roman Catholic services for about six years. In the wake of the renewal started by the Vatican Ecumenical Council, a papal decree allowed churches to use their national languages.

Forest fire center ablaze with activity

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Boise Interagency Fire Center, hub of the fight to stop the raging timberland blazes in the West, is itself ablaze with activity.

And at the core of activity is Ed Heikkenen, who attempts to move with the precision of a chess master as he directs some 7,000 men and an army of firefighting equipment.

And there are problems other than those involved in meeting the emergencies posed by fires which have charred some 100000 acres in several Western states.

"The compassionate decisions — those are the hardest to make," Heikkenen, chief coordinator for the center, said Wednesday.

In the center and on the fire lines, the situation was critical.

There were scores of new lightning strikes in the parched Northwest. Firefighting supplies were short in some areas and the transportation of men and equipment was a concern.

From the center's Logistics Room, Heikkenen, an 18-year veteran of the U.S. Forest Service, could only call it "a fastmoving day."

In one decision, he transferred a brigade of firefighters from Montana to California. And in another he determined which fire crew was to receive the last portable shower available in the Northwest.

He has about a dozen men working for him, and most of them are on 12-hour shifts now. Representatives of the Bureau of Land Management and National Weather Service work beside him.

Services scheduled for board member

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Friday services were scheduled for Paul Walker, 62, a long-time member of the state Board of Education.

Walker died of cancer Tuesday.

He had been a member of the board since 1956, and had not missed a meeting until early this year.

Chicago outlasts Cincy, 6-5

Pappas struggling in bid for 100 NL pitching wins

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's like pulling teeth," says Milt Pappas of the Chicago Cubs about his laborious try to become the second modern pitcher to win 100 games in both the National and American Leagues.

Pappas finally notched his sixth victory in 16 decisions Wednesday although he failed to last out a 6-5 verdict over the Cincinnati Reds which gave him his 98th National League triumph.

"I didn't think when this season began it would be that tough to win just eight more games," said the 34-year-old Pappas, whose 17-7 record last season gave him a NL career total of 92-78.

Pappas, who had a 110-74 mark with Baltimore in the American League, is trying to emulate the only modern 100-game winner in both leagues, Jim Bunning who won 106 in the NL and 108 in the AL.

"It was a welcome sight to see us get some runs, tainted or not," said Pappas, who hadn't won since June 28 and lost five straight decisions in seven starts. "I've been trying to get untracked for two months after early season arm trouble but I wasn't getting any runs."

The Cubs, outhit by Cincinnati 13-6, with 11 of the hits off Pappas, were given five unearned runs, including four in a five-run fourth inning capped by Paul Popovich's three-run homer. It was the season's first homer for Popovich and 13th of his major league career.

"Anyway, you're the Serbian home run king," outfielder Rick Monday shouted at Popovich, who countered with: "Maybe in 60 years I can catch those other guys."

Pappas, who has completed only one game in 24 starts, was yanked in the seventh when the Reds closed their deficit to 6-4. His successor, Dave LaRoche, pitched a leadoff homer to Johnny Bench in the eighth.

Hank Aaron, the second greatest home run hitter in baseball history, has dispelled his own fear that he was possibly becoming a singles and doubles hitter.

What had prompted the notion was that the 39-year-old Atlanta slugger had gone three consecutive days without a homer. After slamming one homer each day last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aaron bounced into a double play in his only appearance Sunday.

Then the Braves were idle Monday, and on Tuesday he had three hits—two singles and a double—against St. Louis, prompting his light-hearted description of himself as "a singles and doubles hitter."

But Wednesday night, Aaron regained his home run touch, slamming his 32nd of the season and the 705th of his career, putting him within nine of Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714.

"I'll take that way of getting out of a singles and doubles rut any time," he quipped.

It was surprising that Aaron was in such a jocular mood, because the Braves had lost to the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 on pinch hitter Jose Cruz' two-run pinch homer in the ninth.

Pirates 4, Astros 0

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose allowed only six hits in a 4-0 victory for his ninth triumph in 10 lifetime decisions against the Astros.

The Pirates scored all their runs in the seventh off Tom Griffin, with the key hits being a run-scoring double by Richie Hebner and RBI singles by Rennie Stennett and Gene Clines.

Mets 4, Dodgers 3

John Milner's second game-winning hit in two games, a run-scoring single with two out in the bottom of the ninth, capped a two-run New York rally and lifted the Mets to their 4-3 triumph over Los Angeles. The setback left the pacesetting Dodgers two games ahead of runner-up Cincinnati in the NL West.

Giants 3, Expos 2

Gray Matthews' tie-breaking, run-scoring single in the seventh provided San Franisco with its 3-2 victory over the Expos and gave the Giants a sweep of their three-game series in Montreal.

Padres 8, Phillies 3

Fred Kendall drove in three runs with two triples, as San Diego trounced Philadelphia 8-3 and handed 1972 NL Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton his 15th loss in 26 decisions.

Fayette grid squads prep for scrimmages

Pre-season high school football practice is nearing the end of its second full week and both Washington C.H. and Maimi Trace are now preparing for their interscholastic scrimmages.

Washington C.H.'s Blue Lions are polishing their techniques for Saturday's opening scrimmage at Kettering Fairmont West while Miami Trace's Panthers are preparing for Saturday's invasion for future South Central Ohio League member Unioto.

At Miami Trace, the Panthers gridders spent the bulk of their practice session working on sweeps. New head coach Fred Zechman was especially impressed with the performances of senior Greg Wieland and Mark Moore. Both are guards and pulled from their positions well to lead the blocking, according to the Miami Trace mentor.

The Miami Trace booster club membership drive will be held Thursday. Members of the Miami Trace football team will start canvassing at 5 p.m. Memberships are priced at $2 per person.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer sent his Washington C.H. footballers through defensive drills in Wednesday's morning drills and through an offensive workout in the afternoon.

Washington C.H. was minus senior Garth Cox and Billy Shaw at Wednesday's practice session. Both are sidelined with back problems.

Senior tailback Chuck Wilson was back in the Blue Lion Wednesday after being sidelined with a minor knee injury for a couple of days.

Cowboys meet Oilers in pro grid reunion

HOUSTON (AP) — Instead of calling it the Texas pro football championship game, tonight's Dallas Cowboy-Houston Oiler exhibition might more aptly be named the reunion.

The Cowboys, like visiting kin, are anxious to see what Oiler General Manager Sid Gillman has accomplished since he left the Cowboy family as assistant coach last season to rebuild the Oilers.

The Cowboys' visit may be a little premature. Although Gillman has taken forward strides, it may take him awhile to get the house in order.

Houston has lost all three of its exhibition games, extending the Oilers' losing string to 14. Last season's record was 1-13, worst in the National Football League.

The Cowboys have continued to prosper without Gillman and come into the game with a 2-1 exhibition record, including last week's 24-14 victory over New Orleans.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry will start Roger Staubach at quarterback and Coach Bill Peterson will counter with Dan Pastorini for the Oilers.

Lance Rentzel, a former Cowboy, was expected to learn today whether he also is a former member of the Los Angeles Rams.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, suspended Rentzel July 20 "for conduct detrimental" to the NFL.

Rentzel, who is appealing a marijuana possession case, also appealed the suspension. Superior Court Judge David A. Thomas said in Los Angeles he would rule today on whether to issue a preliminary injunction which would allow the 29-year-old wide receiver to rejoin the Rams.

The Rams will be in Miami for one of two exhibition games scheduled for Friday night. But Miami's No. 3 quarterback won't be there.

Jim Del Gaizo was traded by the Dolphins to the Green Bay Packers Wednesday for the Packers' next two second-round draft choices.

The Cincinnati Bengals, who will be at Detroit for the other Friday night game, traded veteran linebacker Bill Peterson to the New England Patriots for a future draft pick.

The Kansas City Chiefs, at home to Green Bay Sunday night, gave up a 1974 draft choice Wednesday for New York Giants lineman Wayne Walton. The 6-foot-5, 265-pounder was the Giants No. 2 draft pick in 1971 from Abilene Christian.

The Giants meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday afternoon and the Chicago Bears will be at Buffalo in another afternoon game.

The Redskins are at home to Baltimore in one of six games scheduled for Saturday. Other action puts Oakland at Minnesota, Atlanta at Cleveland, New England at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis.

Running back John Riggins, who has failed to come to contract terms with Coach Weeb Ewbank, ended his holdout Wednesday night. The third-year man showed up at the Jets training camp in good condition and said he and Ewbank would "iron out" his request for a $150,000 season.

The Cards, meanwhile, lost veteran defensive end Don Brumm to retirement. Brumm, a 6-foot-4, 250-pound lineman, was the Cardinals' first-round draft pick in 1963 and an all-pro in 1968.

U.S. Cagers face Brazil

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States basketball team, tense and upset after surviving a fist fight with Cuban rivals, faced another tough match today in a bid for a gold medal at the World University games.

The Americans were scheduled to play Brazil in the semifinals—and hoping for something more peaceful than the scenes that erupted at Moscow's Red Army Gymnasium Wednesday.

The United States beat Cuba 98-76. In the last two minutes of the game, the entire Cuban team raced from the bench and launched into a wild fist-flailing, chair-swinging melee.

It was the first violence involving athletes in these Games, which have been in progress for a week and involve more than 50 countries.

Tommy Burleson, 7-foot-4 star from North Carolina State who was in the center of the brawl, said, "We were so shaken afterwards that we couldn't speak as we rode back to the athletes' village in the bus."

The winner of Thursday's game is expected to meet the Soviet Union in the final Friday. The Americans are thirsting for victory over the Russians as revenge for the 51-50 defeat at the 1972 Munich Olympics.

The American swimmers didn't have a happy day, either. They were expected to clean up all, or most, of the six gold medals at stake but instead shared them 3-3 with the Russians.

A hectic day

We all know that football season has arrived and among the aching muscles and sleepy boys are a few dishelved mothers.

Here's how one mother described a rather hectic day during pre-season high school practice:

"Around 4:30 a.m. I was awakened by the droning of a hungry mosquito. Turning on the light I began persuit of the crafty insect and at 5 a.m. I decided to give up and go back to bed.

"At 7:25 a.m. the phone awakened me and to my surprise I had slept through the 6 a.m. alarm. It was my turn to take the football players to practice. They were due at 7:35 a.m.

"Needless to say, my neighbors had to take their own boys to practice and my husband tumbled out of bed having worked until 1:30 a.m. and said he would take our son. Quickly I threw a so-called breakfast together and helped with the football gear that was still in the dryer from the night before.

"OFF THEY went in a tear. Pulling my robe close and brushing the hair from my brow I sipped on a cup of well-needed tea and wandered into the living room and what to my eyes should appear but my son's game book!

"Into our other son's car I jumped and tried to catch up with them At 7:55 a.m. the book was to be used. At least I would catch my husband on the way back so he could deliver the book since I wasn't dressed for the occasion. Red pajamas and a terrycloth robe just didn't seem right.

"The 10 miles to Miami Trace seemed endless but finally the high school appeared, but no husband. I discovered later that he had gone home the other way through Jeffersonville.

"A nice boy was standing at the edge of the school. Hopefully, I drove up and asked him to do me a great favor. He said he would take the book in for me sensing my distress. My son did receive his book, but guess who gave it to him — you're right — the coach!

"By evening things had settled down and we went to my daughter's softball game. Only one thing, I locked the car doors and left the keys in the ignition. Just one of those days."

Mike Reid serious about music

"It's irritating," growls the usually-placid Cincinnati Bengals' defensive star whom opposing quarterbacks contend is strong enough to pack his own piano to the many concerts in which he performs.

The time has come to set the record straight, says Reid.

"Music is not a hobby with me. It's a damn important part of my life.

"I've been labeled as the serious, classical type. The writers like to give the impression that I walk on stage in long tails and white ties. A lot has been written about it and a lot of it isn't true. It makes good copy," sayd the former All-American from Penn State.

"I've yet to meet a writer who will make an effort to understand what music means to me. Music is the ultimate to me. It's a natural feeling of release," says Reid, who often finishes a demanding day with a soothing hour-long setting at the campus chapel organ at Wilmington College.

"Musical involvement is a personal thing. It's my greatest satisfaction," says Reid, an AllPro defensive tackle in the National Football League last year in only his third season.

The 25-year-old Pennsylvanian says he plans a heavy schedule of concerts in the off-season next year.

Crenshaw tourney favorite

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw, a pro for a week with career earnings of $903, was beseiged by autograph hounds when he finished play in the pro-am.

"I'm not used to all this attention," the 21-year-old Texan said as he scribbled his name time after time. "But this is fun."

Despite his youth and relative inexperience, the personable young man with the mod-length hair ranked as one of the favorites—certainly one of the gallery's favorites—going into today's first round in the $100.000 L&M Open.

The game's big guns—Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf—don't get into action until this weekend in the second half of pro golf's only doubleheader. They'll play in the rich Match Play Championship Saturday and Sunday.

With those glamor names on the sidelines until Saturday, the crowds at the 6,786-yard, par-71 MacGregor Downs Golf and Country Club course—site of both tournaments—centered their attention on Crenshaw and 23-year-old Lanny Wadkins.

16-year-old wins clay target crown

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — John C. Comly, a 16-year-old from Lambertville, N. J., who won the Clay Target Championship of America at the 74th annual Grand American Trapshooting tournament Wednesday is the youngest shooter to ever hold that title.

But Comly won the youngest laurels by only a matter of days. He will be 17 next Tuesday.

Midget car races expected to attract large audience

A fine crowd is expected to attend the midget car races which will be held Saturday night at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Qualifications for the midget races, sponsored by Raceway Promotions, of Washington C.H., will begin at 7 p.m. with a six-event program scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

The midget races, the first to be held in Washington C.H. since 1965, are sanctioned by the Buckeye Auto Racing Association. Officials have scheduled a Sept. 2 rain date.

At least 25 entries are expected for the special program which will open with a four-lap trophy dash to be followed by three eight-lap heats, a 10-lap semifinal and a 25-lap feature.

Some of the top drivers on the midget racing circuit will be entering the program here. The drivers will be battling for a $1,500 purse against 40 per cent of the gate receipts.

Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1 for children ages 6-12. Children six and under will be admitted without charge.

Bengals face Detroit

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals will be on the rebound Friday when they meet the rugged Detroit Lions in Detroit in a pre-season National Football League game. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

The Bengals, stung 24-6 by the Cleveland Browns, will have to be at their best to topple the Lions, who are 2-1 in the pre-season with victories over Washington and Kansas City and a narrow loss to Baltimore.

"THE LIONS have a veteran team and a club that is very physical," commented Paul Brown, Bengals' general manager and head coach, who saw his team's record tumble to 1-2 with the loss to the Browns.

"I know that we'll have to play better than we did against the Browns if we expect to win," added Brown.

Brown indicated that Ken Anderson, who did not see action in the Cleveland game, would open at quarterback against the Lions. Anderson had a sore leg last week and Brown decided not to use him against Cleveland.

The Bengals hope to get a look at first round draft choice Issac Curtis, a wide receiver from San Diego State, for the first time in the pre-season Friday night. Curtis pulled a hamstring muscle shortly after reporting to camp following the College All-Stars-Miami Dolphins game.

It is also hoped that guard Pat Matson, defensive end Ken Johnson and linebacker Bill Peterson will be off the injury list and ready to go against Detroit.

Lions' coach Don McCafferty has two top-flight quarterbacks in Greg Landry and Bill Munson and is expected to alternate them against the Bengals. Landry threw touchdown strikes to Charley Sanders and Al Barnes in the Lions' loss to Baltimore last week.

THE BENGALS' pre-season record shows a victory over Philadelphia, 45-21, and losses to Cleveland, 24-6, and Miami, 14-13. The Lions have downed Washington, 17-14, and Kansas City, 17-16, and lost to Baltimore 32-28.

The Bengals have beaten the Lions twice and lost to them once in pre-season play.

Cincinnati toppled Detroit, 31-24, in 1971 and 28-20 last year. The Lions belted the Bengals, 31-14, in 1970.

The Lions won the only regular season game between the two teams 31-3 in 1970.

The game will be broadcast over the Bengal Network with WLW in Cincinnati the originating station. WLW-T will televise the game back to the Cincinnati area.

Linebacker traded by Cincinnati Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— One linebacker was traded and another fined in developments Wednesday at the Cincinnati Bengals training camp.

Bill Peterson, a 28-year-old veteran of five seasons, was sent to the New England Patriots for a future undisclosed draft choice, the Bengals said.

Tim Kearney, a second-year linebacker from Northern Michigan, was notified by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the fine for fighting that led to his ejection in Sunday's game against the Cleveland Browns.

Lucky Lowell wins feature at Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Longshot Lucky Lowell burst out of sixth place in the stretch to win the featured conditioned pace Wednesday night at the Latonia Trots.

The victory, in 2:04 over the mile course, paid $35.40, $11.60 and $3.80 at 16-1 odds.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Diabetic Must Face Facts

During my husband's yearly health examination it was found that he has diabetes.

He has no symptoms and we wonder why he needs insulin. He is 42 years old and is terribly upset that he will need treatment for the rest of his life.

Mrs. H.J., Mich.

Dear Mrs. J.:

It often comes as a shocking surprise for a healthy person to learn that he or she has diabetes.

At first, many patients resent the diagnosis and even refuse to accept its reality. Physicians are accustomed to such emotional responses and spend a great deal of time assuring their patients that the discovery of this condition actually is a great boon in disguise.

The greatest single problem confronting the physician today is to uncover disease long before there is gross evidence of it. The ultimate aim of all good medical practice is to bring to light unrecognized and symptomless conditions.

The pre-diabetic and the early diabetic, when brought out into the open, are the best candidates for control.

It is only when a condition becomes ingrained and complicated that treatment and control become difficult.

It is an axiom about diabetes that once you are a diabetic, treatment, with or without insulin, must be continued indefinitely.

It should be recalled that before the revolutionary discovery of insulin, the life and productivity of a diabetic were precarious. Today, with insulin, with controlled diet, and with drugs taken by mouth, the diabetic can live a normal, uncomplicated and productive life.

Your husband will adjust himself psychologically and physically to his newly uncovered condition, especially when he realizes how fortunate it is that the condition was discovered early and treated promptly.

The decision to use insulin is entirely a medical one based on studies of the blood made at regular intervals. It is understandable that patients would prefer to be treated with the oral drugs or by diet alone. Sometimes this is possible. Yet the ultimate objective is to control diabetes without a patient's pressure for one or another kind of treatment.

At first, your husband may think it is a monumental job to be under constant surveillance. After a short while he will find that the advantages of good prolonged health completely overshadow the initial nuisance of regular treatment.

The fact that his condition was discovered during a routine physical examination further emphasizes the value of yearly checkups.

My 17-year-old daughter is prone to develop sties. Is it possible that she has less resistance to these infections than other people? Can they be avoided?

Mrs. I.B.N., Ky.

Dear Mrs. N.:

A sty, or hordeolum, is a tiny abscess in one of the glands near the edge of the eyelid.

There is no special inherited weakness for sties. More likely, they are the result of rubbing the eyes with unclean fingers.

Anti-theft devices said not helpful

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston detective says anti-theft devices on new cars help very little in preventing a car from being stolen.

"The professionals always seem to find the ways and means to take cars they want," burglary and theft Det. J.D. Hunt says.

Late model cars have been rolling off the assembly lines equipped with what manufacturers call improved ignition safety systems and other items such as locking steering wheel mechanisms. Burglary alarms on a few makes of cars were offered as optional equipment.

"A big screw driver is usually all it takes to break the steering wheel locks," Hunt says. "And thieves have even used wrenches to haul away some cars."

Hunt says the last real improvement on cars came a few years ago when one manufacturer stopped making ignitions where the car could be started without the key — in the "off" instead of "lock" position.

"That was changed and it probably had some effect on the 'joy riding' thieves," Hunt says.

The Victoria Cross, the highest award for valor given in the British Commonwealth, was established in 1856 by Queen Victoria.

Wheat farm return ignores size

By DON KENDELL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wheat farm of 1,500 acres returns about as much money in proportion to investment as an operation of 12,000 acres, according to a study by the Agriculture Department.

That conclusion, however, is carefully qualified in a report published in August's "Farm Index". The publication is issued monthly by the Economic Research Service.

"Economists who studied wheat farms in the Great Plains found very little difference in the rate of return, if you don't count purchase discounts or sales premiums and land appreciation," the report said.

All considered, the report said, the return to wheat farmers regardless of size — assuming full ownership — worked out to about 5 per cent on their investment after taxes.

The study contained interviews with 80 large-scale farmers. There was no breakdown of net profits by size of operations. But some advantages were noted for big operators.

"The larger farms held the edge when considering the discounts on purchased inputs (such as fuel and fertilizer) and the premiums on sales (for high quality)," the report said.

"The study estimated that discounts for volume purchases can reduce costs by about $1 per acre, and premiums on grain sales can lift income by around $1.30 per acre."

When those advantages are considered, the larger farms showed slightly higher profits than the smaller units but in no case exceeded 7 per cent of equity, the report said.

"Land appreciation (increase in value) raises rates of returns on all sizes but slightly more on the larger farms," the report said.

Other findings included:

—Sixteen of the 80 wheat farms surveyed were incorporated. The report, however, said all were "closely held family corporations."

—Thirty-one had ownership and management interests in businesses besides farming. About two-thirds of those investments were related to farming, including grain elevators, machinery dealerships and other businesses.

—Production techniques varied little by farm size except that larger units used more fertilizer and had yields averaging about two bushels per acre larger. Also, the larger farms used more custom combines to harvest wheat.

—Sixty per cent of the farmers received volume discounts on machinery purchases, 45 per cent on fuels and 41 per cent on herbicides. Rates of discounts varied widely.

Bomb explodes in Bowling Green

No one was injured and only minor damage was caused to the road.

FBI agents had removed bombs last month from the Bowling Green and Findlay recruiting offices. The bombs had not exploded and had been preceded by bomb threat notes signed by an anti-war group.

Hunting, Fishing Day activities planned here

National Hunting and Fishing Day, a day of recognition for hunters and fishermen who have contributed millions of dollars for conservation projects over the years, will be observed in Fayette County Saturday, Sept. 22.

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association is in the process of planning a full day of activities at its lodge on Stafford Road in observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

The Fish and Game Association here will have conservation exhibits and displays plus several types of outdoor recreation. The public is invited to participate in the activities.

Hunters and anglers across the nation are holding special programs on National Hunting and Fishing Day in an attempt to get the general public concerned about conservation.

Train nicks front section of vehicle

The reverberating bellows which erupt from train engines are often annoying, especially at night, but Samuel Wood was thankful that he heard them yesterday.

Wood, 19, of Chillicothe, was driving north on S. Fayette Street Wednesday morning when the wailing horns of a B&O engine alerted him to an approaching train. He was momentarily caught in the terror of not being able to stop short of the track, nor make it across.

Fortunately, he was able to stop and back up far enough that the train barely caught the front end of the truck he was driving. He was not injured and damage to the truck was less than $100.

2 burglaries investigated

While on routine patrol Thursday morning, Deputy Sheriff Don L. Cox discovered an open door at the rear of Ritt's Pizza, located on U.S. 41 at Elm Street. The building had been entered and its vending machines rifled.

Later in the morning, the sheriff's office received a report that Warner's Arco station, U.S.35-SE, had been broken into and a money box taken.

Both burglaries are still under investigation by the sheriff's department. The Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, has been contacted and will assist the department in its efforts.

A 14-year-old county youth has been apprehended by the Sheriff in connection with an incident at the Hickory Lane Church of Christ. The Rev. Keith Wooley reported Wednesday that windows of the church had been broken out, apparently with a BB gun, sometime Tuesday night. The youth was picked up Wednesday evening.

Halsey Ward, of Bloomingburg, reported a similar incident at the Bloomingburg water pumping station Tuesday night, but as yet there seems to be no connection between the two.

Auto stolen from city lot

A bicycle stolen Wednesday was found by the police about 4 a.m. today at the corner of Washington Avenue and Grove Street. The bike was claimed today by Mrs. Malcom Jette.

John Sullivan, 914 E. Market St., reported to city police Tuesday that his car had been stolen from the city parking lot. He left the auto in the lot Monday night and discovered that it was missing when he returned for it the next day. He said that he had the keys in his possession while he was away, but also stated that he had lost a set of keys about two weeks ago which had not been recovered. Investigation of the theft is continuing.

Keith Eckles, 1407 Washington Ave., reported that a 10-speed bicycle was taken from his garage sometime Tuesday night.
